1 (PROCEEDINGS held in open court before the
2 HONORABLE MICHAEL E. FARBIARZ, United States
3 District Court Judge, on February 24, 2025.)

4 THE DEPUTY CLERK: All rise.

5 THE COURT: We are here for U.S. vs. Raheel Naviwala.
6 The assistant United States attorneys are present as is the 7 defendant, along with each of his defense lawyers.

8 Mr. Naviwala, you're still there for a reason?

9 THE DEFENDANT: They exiled me.

10 MS. SOLANO: He's taking your admonishment seriously
11 that he not communicate with us.

12 THE COURT: The record can reflect that Mr. Naviwala is 13 seated in a different place and, indeed, further away from his 14 lawyers than he has been throughout the proceedings.

15 Ms. Solano, thank you for that explanation.

16 Good letters, everyone. Good work. I greatly
17 appreciate it all.

18 Mr. Webman, I was true to what I said. I looked at 19 everything from 801, so fear not. No moss was gathered and I
20 barely noticed that your filing came in just after 21 eight o'clock, so don't worry about it.

22 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, I believe it was due at 9:00.

23 THE COURT: At 9:00.

24 MR. WEBMAN: It was.

25 THE COURT: That's funny. We've all revealed something

1 about ourselves.

2 Let's go through it. Good work, everyone, and much
3 appreciated.

4 First of all, the papers are very good. I don't think
5 there's any need for kind of real argumentation given how good
6 they are uniformly from everybody.

7 The first thing I just want to understand before we get
8 to the question of the right instruction to give to the jury
9 with respect to testimony that, in the United States' telling,
10 should be Mr. Quindoza's testimony and, in the defendant's
11 telling, should be something broader.

12 There was a representation made Friday by the 13 United States that the United States would not be coming back
14 to argue in summation, and I assume also in rebuttal, about 15 violations of the rules of either a so-called face-to-face
16 rule -- I'm making up that term -- or a telemedicine rule.

17 I assume that remains the United States'
18 representation.

19 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor. We have a jury
20 instruction that says that.

21 THE COURT: I just want to make sure, because it's 22 relevant to how I think about things that that's still where 23 we're at.

24 So here is where I see things: I have gone through -- 25 Do you need to be heard, Ms. Solano?

1 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, maybe I'm not understanding
2 the position because what was in writing to me was that they 3 are going to argue about violations of the rules.

4 Is this a different issue?

5 MR. WEBMAN: We're not talking about violations of the 6 rules as violations of the criminal statute. I think we're on 7 common ground there.

8 THE COURT: So let me just tell you how I understand it
9 and then you'll correct, Mr. Webman, and Ms. Solano will get 10 clarity based on that.

11 No one, neither Mr. Specht nor Ms. Lou, are going to 12 stand up in closing and say part of how you know that the 13 submitted claims were not medically necessary was that they 14 violated Medicare's face-to-face rules; or neither Mr. Specht
15 nor Ms. Lou will argue that part of how you know the claims
16 were not medically necessary is that they violated Medicare's
17 telehealth rules.

18 I assume that's right.

19 Do I have that right?

20 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, there's -- in consulting over 21 the weekend with my fraud section colleagues, I think there's 22 just one refinement that comes from --

23 THE COURT: So all of that is right, subject to what 24 you're about to say?

25 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Say what you're going to say, then.

2 MR. WEBMAN: I think there are two points I wanted to
3 make in response to the defendant's letter --

4 THE COURT: No, no. I want to just understand what's 5 gonna be said in summation and rebuttal.

6 MR. WEBMAN: So this goes from my response to the 7 letter. I think that there is -- in the regulation, we have 8 been very focused on one portion of the regulation, which is 9 410.38(g)(2)(i), which is the line that brings in that list of 10 codes that are covered as specified covered items in the reg.

11 There is then a 410.38(g)(2)(ii), which says that the 12 list of specified items includes, among other things, in (b)
13 under that section, any item of durable medical equipment that 14 appears on the DME POS fee schedule with a price ceiling at or 15 greater than $1,000.

16 I couldn't print out the fee schedule to bring in this 17 morning, Your Honor, because it's a big Excel file. But if 18 you look at the Medicare data in evidence, we can see that the 19 two main braces in this case -- the back brace, 0650, and the 20 knee brace, 1851 -- are both routinely reimbursed for over a
21 thousand dollars, meaning that this ceiling in the fee
22 schedule is a thousand dollars or above.

23 So based on that and based on that reading of the reg,
24 which is already in evidence, and based on other material
25 that's already in evidence, I think there's a fair inference

1 that the full panoply of requirements --

2 THE COURT: I'm not quite following that, just because 3 it's the first time I'm hearing of it.

4 MR. WEBMAN: Sorry.

5 THE COURT: So, is there an affirmative indication from 6 a regulation that is in evidence that braces above a certain 7 cost during this the relevant period required -- an 8 affirmative requirement -- that those required a face-to-face
9 visit?

10 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, it requires the full panoply of 11 requirements that are in subsection (g).

12 THE COURT: But what's the answer to my question?

13 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, that includes face-to-face,
14 Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay. So the United States' position is 16 now that face-to-face visits were required for much of the 17 DME?

18 MR. WEBMAN: For these two brace types, this is 19 something, again, I learned overnight, Your Honor --

20 THE COURT: Mr. Webman, this is -- among the many other 21 things that might be said, it's a little tricky in terms of 22 basic fairness to decide this overnight and now expect that 23 you can close on it today.

24 I mean, this is the kind of thing that -- I appreciate
25 that you don't have a discovery obligation as to the law and,

1 indeed, we're talking about the substance in the defense
2 exhibit.

3 But I thought that your position, the United States'
4 position, was much more sympathetic, the way I understood it,
5 based on the letter of yesterday, which is -- and based on the 6 representation of Friday, which is that we, the United States,
7 are not going to argue in closing and in rebuttal that
8 something was not medically necessary because it violated
9 Medicare rules or regs, period, full stop.

10 The effort this morning to walk back the Friday reg and 11 what was described Friday morning is, at a minimum, awfully
12 complicating.

13 MR. WEBMAN: I understand, Your Honor.

14 I think there is a distinction, though. We still are 15 not planning to argue -- the representation I made on Friday,
16 I think still holds, which is we are not going to argue -- and 17 we agreed to a jury instruction that says this: that the 18 violation of the face-to-face requirement is a violation of 19 the law. The argument --

20 THE COURT: Hang on.

21 That's not what the jury instruction says. It does not
22 say the violation of face-to-face --

23 MR. WEBMAN: The violation of any particular 24 regulation --

25 THE COURT: Is not.

1 MR. WEBMAN: -- is not in and of itself a violation of 2 the law.

3 THE COURT: You left out the word "not." Keep going.

4 MR. WEBMAN: Sorry. We're not planning to argue the 5 fact that a face-to-face interaction didn't happen for a knee
6 brace, for example, this goes to the knee laxity issue. We're 7 not going to say that the failure to do --

8 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, have a seat.

9 MR. WEBMAN: -- the failure to do a face-to-face visit
10 for a knee before prescribing this brace that is over a
11 thousand dollars, we're not gonna argue that the failure to do
12 that thing was in and of itself --

13 THE COURT: I guess what I don't understand is, why
14 are you mentioning this to me? What is the -- I'm asking you
15 whether the United States will argue, whether because there
16 was an alleged violation of a Medicare rule or reg or there
17 was a violation of the criminal law.

18 What you told me was, no, we will not argue that. You
19 also wrote me a letter that said: We have not argued that.
20 You're now creating space for something else.

21 What is the something else you're creating space for?

22 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, the purpose of bringing this 23 up is that I think the curative instruction that we proposed 24 is a little bit too broad and --

25 THE COURT: But that doesn't matter to me. We're not

1 there yet. We're talking about something else, and the 2 something else we're talking about is what the United States
3 is gonna argue in closing and summation because, as your
4 letter yesterday suggests, it's important to the curative
5 instruction I might give to understand what you might argue.

6 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Judge.

7 THE COURT: So I am trying only to find out what the 8 United States is going to argue.

9 MR. WEBMAN: So what the United States is going to 10 argue, I believe, and Mr. Specht, who is going to give the 11 summation, will correct me if I have this a little bit wrong,
12 but what the United States is going to argue is that the whole
13 scheme was designed to produce doctors' orders without regard
14 to medical necessity, that didn't make the effort to figure
15 out whether patients actually needed the brace.

16 THE COURT: Stop right there. I've understood that 17 from the moment this case began and, candidly, the record
18 doesn't suggest anything different.

19 What I don't understand is what, Mr. Webman, you are 20 standing up to do now is to say, and also, by the way,
21 Mr. Specht and/or Ms. Lou will say that, and there needed to 22 be a face-to-face consultation for the expensive braces, and 23 that is part of what the jury should consider in evaluating 24 the argument.

25 MR. WEBMAN: We're not going to say that, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: So then that's it. That's the only -- I
2 appreciate you're helping me understand.

3 Ms. Solano, sit, sit. I'm talking to someone else.

4 I appreciate you telling me about the full body of what
5 you discovered overnight with respect to the reg. I got it,
6 appreciate it. It's helpful.

7 But the key point that I took from Friday's 8 representation from the United States, and the letter from the 9 United States yesterday, was that there will not be an 10 argument from the United States that violation -- there will 11 not be an argument from the United States, in closing or 12 summation, that violation of a particular rule or reg is part
13 of the way the jury can infer that claims submitted were not 14 indeed medically necessary.

15 I understand you to be saying now that that is how the 16 United States will close and rebut.

17 MR. WEBMAN: That's right, Your Honor. We will talk
18 only about the co-conspirators' and, perhaps the defendant's,
19 understanding and belief how that informs -- but not that the 20 violation was itself a violation of the law, but that they 21 understood that they lived in a world where these things were 22 required and that the failure to do them shows that they 23 weren't taking care to make sure that there was medical 24 necessity.

25 I believe those things are different and that it's

1 consistent with our representation on Friday.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Solano.

3 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

4 I have two points in response.

5 On 9:51 p.m., I received a representation in writing
6 from the Government that said: The Government --

7 THE COURT: What day is this?

8 MS. SOLANO: I'm sorry, Your Honor, on February 22nd, 9 so on Saturday night, I received a representation from the 10 Government in writing that said:

11 (Reading:)

12 The Government is likely to argue that the 13 defendant and his co-conspirators' attempts to 14 obtain prescriptions for knee braces that they
15 believe required an in-person consultation with a 16 doctor are indicia of the defendant and his 17 co-conspirators' intent to defraud, as well as 18 their complete or reckless disregard for medical 19 necessity, leading to their participation in a
20 fraudulent Medicare billing scheme that did not 21 account for medical necessity at all.

22 The Government may further argue that the jury
23 can conclude that, as a result, Medicare claims 24 submitted for orthotic braces as part of the 25 scheme were not medically necessary.

1 What I understand from the representations here is that
2 they still intend to argue this and they still intend to argue
3 about the co-conspirators' understanding of the laws and the 4 regs.

5 They put on wrong testimony about those laws and the 6 regs, and so under those circumstances, they cannot then
7 suggest to the jury that they should rely on that completely
8 inappropriate testimony in determining any of the issues in 9 this case.

10 So that is point 1.

11 THE COURT: Let's stay on point 1 for a second.

12 What I understand from that, maybe I'm wrong, is that 13 what the United States is gonna get up and say is, duh, it's 14 really strange to prescribe a brace that kinda makes sense
15 only if you moved around on somebody, if you haven't moved
16 around on somebody. And they're gonna make that argument --
17 it's how I understand it, at least, they're gonna make that 18 argument without citing any rule or reg or anyone's
19 understanding of the rule or reg.

20 Do I have that right?

21 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor. Sorry, Your Honor. I
22 think the understanding of what Medicare required generally,
23 not anybody's specific interpretation of the regulation.

24 THE COURT: You have to just be very clear here.
25 Everyone understands that this case is about medical

1 necessity. We all understand, you don't have to carve out
2 room for that.

3 Both sides are gonna get up and discuss medical 4 necessity as they have throughout the trial. The point is,
5 are you gonna cite someone's -- are you gonna cite a
6 regulation or a rule or are you gonna cite someone's
7 understanding of a rule or regulation? Answer each of those 8 questions separately.

9 MR. WEBMAN: We are not gonna cite any regulation or a 10 rule. We will cite the co-conspirators' understanding of what 11 the rule --

12 THE COURT: Are you really sure you want to go down
13 that road? I mean, the import of that -- given the record
14 that's been created here, there is a little bit of a fine
15 line, as I'm sure everyone understands between these things.
16 This is a hill you're trying to die on and I candidly don't 17 get it. I mean, you're preserving something very small and -- 18 whose -- what conspirator testimony are you trying to save
19 here?

20 Mr. Specht wrote this closing argument last week.

21 Mr. Specht, what co-conspirator's understanding of the 22 rules do you need to cite here or are you planning to cite?
23 "Need" is your question. "Plan" is mine.

24 MR. SPECHT: Your Honor, there are communications about 25 knee laxity in which members of the conspiracy talk about

1 trying to convince RediDoc to write prescriptions for knee
2 laxity, and then RediDoc doesn't do that and then members of 3 the conspiracy say: We really need to push to get someone to 4 write tests for knee laxity.

5 THE COURT: Right.

6 MR. SPECHT: I think that's the boundary and I think it
7 speaks to a few facts. I think it speaks --

8 THE COURT: Hang on for a second.

9 Is that the only instance in your closing where there's 10 going to be a reference to rules or regs?

11 MR. SPECHT: If I could have a moment.

12 THE COURT: Yeah, sure.

13 (Brief pause.)

14 MR. SPECHT: Your Honor, I think it is, and I think 15 this point is largely --

16 THE COURT: Mr. Specht, hang on.

17 Ms. Lou, this applies to the rebuttal as you kind of 18 understand it roughly now. You can't know for sure.

19 MS. LOU: Obviously it depends on what is said in 20 counsel's summation but largely it's the same thing.

21 If Ms. Solano, for example, gets up and says the reg
22 doesn't require X, Y, Z, we intend to then respond by saying
23 again -- and I believe Your Honor's curative instruction about 24 how the testimony came in as to the regs and that it should 25 only be used for the purpose of the co-conspirators'

1 understanding of what the regs were is in line with us --

2 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, I need you to sit down.

3 MS. LOU: In line with this --

4 THE COURT: Hang on a sec.

5 It's just, we don't wait in line. This is like being
6 in a school where kids go like this raising their hand. Don't 7 do that. It's just, I don't want them to stand while I'm 8 talking to you because I respect you. I'm listening to you.
9 Don't do that to them.

10 Do you understand?

11 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

12 MS. LOU: Again, it's not that whether or not the 13 actual reg required it or not. It's that everybody shared
14 understanding that that was required and then their blatant 15 disregard for it and then not implementing any change -- they 16 did try to push but then still continued to bill knee braces
17 even after they didn't get the joint laxity test. Right? The 18 evidence has showed that.

19 THE COURT: Let's go back to what Mr. Specht was 20 saying, then.

21 Mr. Specht, in making that argument, are you gonna be 22 citing any rules or regs?

23 MR. SPECHT: No.

24 THE COURT: I don't remember that testimony perfectly.
25 Does that testimony itself cite any rules or regs?

1 MR. SPECHT: Not that I can recall, and in any of the 2 excerpts of testimony that would be showed, there's no
3 citation to a rule or reg and in any excerpt from an e-mail or 4 an exhibit, I don't believe there to be a reference to a rule 5 or reg.

6 THE COURT: Okay. I think that part of the 7 complexity -- Ms. Solano made a further complexity that she 8 only made the first of the two points she wanted to make; but 9 I think part of the problem is that the way that 9:51 p.m.,
10 February 22nd, e-mail was apparently written, it just conveys
11 something different than what you just conveyed.

12 Okay, Ms. Solano.

13 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

14 There are several issues that we have with the 15 Government's proposal here.

16 First, the knee laxity -- this idea that they want to 17 argue that a co-conspirator's understanding that there was a 18 requirement for a knee laxity test and they want to argue to 19 the jury that there was, in fact, that requirement is 20 incredibly misleading. It is a very misleading argument and 21 there is no evidence in this case --

22 THE COURT: But the problem is they're not saying
23 either thing anymore. They're not saying that they're 24 going to put on evidence that somebody thought the rules and 25 regs were violated and they're not gonna say that the rules

1 and regs were violated.

2 Mr. Specht just represented that.

3 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, what I understand is that they 4 are going to say that the co-conspirators thought that the 5 knee laxity test was required and as a result they were told
6 that it couldn't happen --

7 THE COURT: But stop there.

8 What Mr. Specht has just said is, in making that 9 argument of something being required, they're not gonna cite a
10 Medicare rule and they're not gonna cite a Medicare reg.

11 What they're gonna, I assume, argue is -- forgive me
12 for being colloquial -- but they're going to make the 13 commonsense argument. That's the duh argument. Duh. There's 14 no way to think this is medically necessary if you're not 15 testing somebody in a kind of halfway bona fide way. That's 16 gonna be their commonsense argument.

17 If that argument doesn't run through Medicare rules or 18 regs as to certain tests being required, what's the issue?

19 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I think there are several 20 issues.

21 First, I don't believe that there's any evidence that 22 their doctors' orders, what was actually prepared or 23 submitted, falsely put in the knee laxity test.

24 THE COURT: So you should argue that.

25 MS. SOLANO: In addition, Your Honor, Ms. Lou stood up

1 and she, when asking the question, suggested that there is a
2 regulation involving knee laxity and my understanding is that 3 is not true.

4 And so right now what the jury has heard is that there
5 is a regulation requiring knee laxity and that is very, very 6 damaging if they are going to say -- if they're going to argue
7 that the co-conspirators not intended but knew that there was 8 in fact this knee laxity requirement, and I think the 9 probative value is vastly outweighed by its prejudicial
10 effect, under the circumstances where they have said that the 11 regulation requires joint laxity and they put somebody on to 12 talk about what regulations require, including an in-person
13 consultation, when none of that applied to DME.

14 The second problem that is presented by this is knee
15 laxity -- and I don't know all of it, but my understanding is 16 any sort of knee laxity and there need to be a particular test
17 comes from -- it doesn't come from any source of this; it 18 comes from like a local coverage determination, which is some 19 other piece of paper, and the Government did not produce that 20 to us. And we kept asking for these types of things and they 21 didn't produce it.

22 And so if they are now gonna rely on the 23 co-conspirators' understanding of when or if a particular test 24 was performed and they didn't produce the actual materials of 25 like how did they know -- like, what is it? Where does it

1 come from? What does it actually say, so that I could
2 cross-examine their co-conspirators on that, then I believe
3 that there is a Rule 16 violation here, especially where we 4 kept asking for it so that we could -- it was material to our
5 defense. Now they're going to argue it in their closing.

6 THE COURT: But they're not saying that. I think
7 you're not hearing the representation they're making.

8 What they're saying is that they're not gonna argue
9 from the rules and regs as to proving up the falsity of 10 certain claims.

11 And what I also just heard Mr. Specht saying is that 12 even when they're talking about the knowledge of alleged 13 co-conspirators, they're not gonna invoke rules and regs.
14 What they're gonna invoke is a commonsense understanding that 15 not doing a laxity test, it can't be consistent with a bona
16 fide effort to check medical necessity.

17 Neither of those arguments are running through rules
18 and regs. They're just different. Those are just different
19 ways. They may be missing an argument that could help them
20 and you may be missing an argument that could help you, but 21 that doesn't mean that the United States' desire or decision
22 to argue this on a commonsense basis, which is to say just 23 from a commonsense perspective, it can't be medically
24 necessary; that doesn't make it a violation of -- it doesn't 25 make it a discovery failure. They're not relying on the

1 documents that you say they need.

2 By the way, these documents, I'm pretty confident are
3 on the Internet.

4 MS. SOLANO: But, Your Honor, telling us in advance,
5 identifying, we're gonna make knee laxity an issue here, you
6 need to know this local coverage determination, we're gonna
7 say this applied to the conduct.

8 Whether it's available on the Internet or not, knowing
9 that that's what they're going to use as a part of their case
10 in chief is something that was material to our defense,
11 because then I would have known what they were going to rely 12 on.

13 THE COURT: But they're not using it. That's sort of 14 the whole point is Mr. Specht just got up and said they're not 15 gonna argue from that.

16 I have to say, reading the trial transcript, they're 17 not arguing from it -- there's an area for Mr. Quindozza but 18 they're not arguing that a certain rule or reg was violated.

19 Mr. Specht, am I misunderstanding your closing?

20 MR. SPECHT: No, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, I think that -- if Mr. Specht
22 crosses the line he has just laid down, there's gonna be a
23 problem and we'll all take it from there.

24 If he doesn't, you know, through a -- there's been some 25 complexity here because there's been belated discoveries of

1 certain aspects of the rules and regs, but the basic truth is
2 that had the United States discovered the accurate
3 understanding of things with respect to what Mr. Webman says
4 he discovered overnight, they would have a stronger case.

5 So all we're talking about is Mr. Webman, if he tried
6 to say, well, gee, I want to argue from what I discovered
7 overnight, we would have that conversation. And part of that 8 conversation would run through unfairness to the defendant of 9 a belated legal theory and we'd have a conversation about it.
10 I don't know what the answer would be.

11 But where we are today is, given the way Mr. Specht has 12 represented he's gonna close, given my read of the trial
13 transcript, what we're left with is a need to correct -- we're 14 left with a need to be sure that nobody confuses a 15 co-conspirator's sense of certain things with falseness and we 16 need to correct what Mr. Quindoza said but I don't think 17 there's anything much further needed.

18 Ms. Solano, do you have anything else on this you want
19 to say?

20 MS. SOLANO: Just two points.

21 THE COURT: Sure.

22 MS. SOLANO: If the Government would have identified
23 this for us, this knee laxity issue, I would have been in a 24 position to cross-examine their witnesses on their 25 understanding of the joint laxity test, and I was not in a

1 position to do that because they failed to disclose it to me.

2 THE COURT: What did you need them to disclose?

3 MS. SOLANO: That they were going to say that there was 4 a joint -- that part of what they were going to do in their
5 presentation of the case in trying to prove medical necessity
6 or lack thereof is that they were going to rely on whatever
7 document in existence purportedly required a knee laxity test
8 in order for the claim to be reimbursable.

9 THE COURT: But what they're saying is they're not 10 gonna rely on that.

11 MS. SOLANO: But their witnesses testified that they 12 understood that there was a rule, and they did that them
13 eliciting that testimony. And if I understood the rule 14 beforehand, I understood that this was actually a local 15 coverage determination, and it actually has -- here is this 16 whole thing about how those are different than a reg or here
17 is what you would need to know to find those things, I could 18 have crossed Quindoza on it and I could have crossed the 19 cooperators on it.

20 THE COURT: I'm struggling to see the point. If a 21 cooperator thinks something is illegal -- I've just never 22 heard of anything remotely like this; that a cooperator
23 thinking that moving cocaine is illegal triggers an obligation
24 from the United States to produce in discovery statutes and 25 regs that speak to the illegality of cocaine. That's just

1 really far afield.

2 And especially given -- that's not even Rule 16
3 material, especially given that the United States is saying
4 that they're not gonna be relying on it. That is the faintest
5 possible theory, so to the extent there's an argument from a
6 Rule 16 violation, I don't see it.

7 Anything else?

8 MS. SOLANO: I would just say -- I don't know if I
9 followed what the Government was saying about this price
10 fixing list. I don't believe that they produced the price
11 fixing list, and it's certainly not in evidence in this case.

12 I know that when we pulled the list that was in effect
13 at the time, we had to do so by capturing it by the Wayback
14 Machine. It wasn't something that was publicly available that 15 anyone could find.

16 I don't believe that the price fixing list that's in 17 effect that's being discussed in this reg is in evidence in 18 this case or is in -- I don't believe it's in Rule 16.

19 THE COURT: I don't know if it's in evidence or not.
20 It certainly hasn't been published. Even if I don't know if 21 it's in evidence I've been doing what I'm supposed to do which 22 is I'm looking at all the exhibits.

23 The thing that gives me pause is Mr. Webman said it's 24 such a big Excel spreadsheet that maybe I didn't understand
25 the import of a piece of it or something.

1 I don't think this was in evidence.

2 Was this in evidence, Mr. Webman?

3 MR. WEBMAN: It's not, Your Honor. I didn't know
4 about it until last night.

5 THE COURT: So it's not in evidence and it's not 6 going to be argued from.

7 Mr. Webman, is this a rule or reg? Is this a schedule
8 attached to a rule or reg?

9 MR. WEBMAN: It's a schedule that is referred to in the 10 reg.

11 THE COURT: This was obtained from CMS's website?

12 MR. WEBMAN: Last night, yes. It's publicly available.
13 We can get it today.

14 THE COURT: I'm not sure what the -- if Mr. Webman knew 15 about that four weeks ago, that would have been -- there would 16 have been -- either it would have been produced or not or 17 argued from or not. At this point it hasn't been produced.
18 It hasn't been argued from. It's not gonna be part of the 19 closing or rebuttal. I still don't know what the issue is.

20 MS. SOLANO: The only thing I have to say about -- if 21 it's not gonna be in and they're not gonna argue from it, I
22 understand. I just want the record to be clear that I don't 23 believe it's in evidence.

24 My final point is that if the Court is going to permit
25 this understanding of joint laxity argument, particularly in

1 light of the comment to, like, while my client was on the
2 stand that the joint laxity was a regulation and a
3 requirement, I believe there needs to be a specific curative
4 instruction.

5 THE COURT: I heard you say that and that's not in the 6 papers, but understandably so. Why don't I give you my 7 limiting instruction and then show me, Ms. Solano, because I
8 appreciate that might be at a different place.

9 MS. SOLANO: It actually is in my motion in limine,
10 Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: I'm sorry I missed it, then. I apologize.
12 It seems like I didn't bring it.

13 MS. SOLANO: I have a copy.

14 THE COURT: Would you mind passing it.

15 MS. SOLANO: Of course. (Tendered document.)

16 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, do you know where in the 17 letter?

18 MS. SOLANO: Yes. I'm trying to find it. It is on 19 page 3 and the paragraph that starts on Friday:

20 Ms. Lou said: You knew that Medicare wouldn't pay for 21 knee braces because of regulations --

22 THE COURT: I'm sorry. I see that. Okay.

23 Ms. Lou, I'm sure you'll agree that the jury needs to 24 be instructed that statements that are buried within the 25 lawyer's questions cannot be considered, et cetera.

1 MS. LOU: Of course, Your Honor, that's a standard
2 instruction. Also if you look in the transcript, Your Honor,
3 Ms. Solano rightfully objected, assumes facts not in evidence
4 and you sustained it.

5 THE COURT: I'm sorry I missed this in my memory.

6 MS. LOU: So the defendant was not permitted to answer.
7 It is a misstatement. The question was a misstatement, but 8 Ms. Solano rightfully objected and that was the end of that.

9 THE COURT: Right. Okay. I get it.

10 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I just think given the 11 sensitivity of this and the high likelihood that it's 12 misleading under -- and what the Government is gonna argue, it
13 needs to be a curative instruction that is stronger than 14 "don't listen to the lawyers."

15 THE COURT: Let me take you through my thinking on this 16 real quick. I've played a little bit with the instruction and 17 I'll read to you what I'm planning on doing.

18 Look, first of all, in thinking all of this stuff
19 through, I've read all your papers which, as I've said, are 20 excellent and much appreciated. I have also been actively and 21 attentively present and also have been reviewing the 22 transcript, and so I have a very close sense of how the case
23 has been tried.

24 The United States' basic theory here is twofold. The 25 basic theory is that fraudulent claims were being sent off to

1 Medicare, which is taken here to mean three different
2 programs, because the doctors' orders -- I thought the 3 United States put this very well in one of its letters of 4 yesterday, that they were not provided through a process --
5 this is to use their language -- that was calculated to make a
6 bona fide determination that these were needed or useful.

7 I think that's the way they have tried this case. And 8 part of the proof of that is that some people got braces they 9 didn't want. That theory of the case does not run through 10 citation of a particular Medicare rule or reg. It just 11 doesn't. It didn't purport to.

12 Then there's -- the other part of their theory is 13 related to the Anti-Kickback Statute, and that one is that the 14 DME companies were paying kickbacks to marketers for doctors'
15 orders that were -- for doctors' orders.

16 Again, a theory that has been suffusing the case that 17 operates a level of common sense that does not lean on 18 particular Medicare rules or regs except in the most 19 background sort of way, which is to say to establish that 20 Medicare exists.

21 The reason I started off with wanting to get the 22 United States' representations as to closing and, to a lesser
23 extent, rebuttal is because that's how I read the trial
24 transcript, and I wanted to confirm that the United States was 25 not reading it and, therefore, attempting to use it in a

1 different way. And it's not.

2 That was Mr. Webman's representation on Friday. That's 3 how I took his letter of yesterday, and that's how I take the 4 United States' representations of today. That's a very 5 important part of the background here.

6 I also think that it's probably important -- in fact
7 it is important -- that there is excising of the indictment
8 that will go back to the jury of certain references to rules
9 and regulations which could insert rules and regs in a more
10 direct way into the case.

11 There is just simply no theory from the United States
12 here that claims submitted were fraudulent because they 13 violated a rule or because they violated a regulation. That 14 wasn't in their opening. It will not be, as represented, in 15 their closing. It's not how they have tried the case.

16 The way they have tried the case, putting aside the 17 anti-kickback part of it, has been about trying to show that 18 there is a kind of utter indifference to medical necessity.

19 The reason we're kind of needing to fix this is that 20 there's no doubt that the testimony of Mr. Quindoza had a 21 misstatement in it, maybe more than one misstatement; and the 22 misstatement would allow, if it were left alone, the jury to 23 make an inference as to why Mr. Naviwala might be guilty that 24 is separate and apart from how the United States has argued 25 this whole case.

1 Now, in looking back at Mr. Quindoza's testimony, I
2 have to say I think, in reading it, it can be over-read.
3 Ms. Solano just complete -- the cross was devastating on this 4 point. It completely forced Mr. Quindoza to walk away and to 5 accede to the way Ms. Solano was seeing things. It was an 6 extremely effective line of cross.

7 I don't even know if what is left behind afterward is 8 any meaningful statement from Mr. Quindoza. Mr. Quindoza
9 essentially agreed with the key point that Ms. Solano pushed 10 him to.

11 Having sat in the room, there's nothing about the way
12 she did it, in my judgment, that would cause a jury to believe
13 the way Mr. Quindoza spoke about it on direct versus the way
14 she did it on cross -- versus the way he said it on cross.

15 Ms. Solano was not engaged in a tricky cross. She was 16 not engaged in a belligerent cross. It was a straightforward
17 and highly effective cross. And the impression, I think for 18 everyone in the room, was that what Mr. Quindoza said on this 19 point to Ms. Solano on cross was right, not the somewhat
20 contrary thing he had said on direct.

21 Look, there's also a little bit of complexity and 22 confusion here. There's slightly equivocal statements that 23 you can look at in isolation, and to deal with those and to 24 deal with the possibility that a jury disbelieved what 25 Mr. Quindoza said in the face of cross but agreed with what he

1 said on direct, I think we need a limiting instruction.

2 For the little bit of confusion and for the statement
3 on direct, there's some need for a limiting instruction. I
4 don't want to overstate it.

5 There's also, as has been discussed, some references
6 from the co-conspirators about what they thought was legal or 7 illegal. And to an extent that I can barely remember and 8 barely saw glimpses of in reviewing the trial transcript, some 9 of those are not generic invocations of civil or criminal
10 liability being on their horizon.

11 Some of those are something different. Some of those 12 are a tiny bit of indications of particular rules and regs and 13 that, arguably, also needs a little bit of correction.

14 The reason I say "arguably" is that the United States
15 has argued the case in a certain way, it's put on the evidence
16 in a certain way, and there's been a representation made about 17 how they will close.

18 Given all this, the question is: Can a limiting 19 instruction work to solve any problem that exists? And,
20 first, the answer is yes in my judgment.

21 The first reason is what I have already covered. the 22 need for a limiting instruction here is very faint. It
23 presumes that Mr. Quindoza didn't walk away from his key
24 testimony in cross.

25 It presumes that the somewhat lightly, lightly, lightly

1 confusing testimony that Mr. Quindoza offered on cross means a
2 very particular thing. I don't know if it does. And it also 3 requires a view that when the co-conspirators spoke about
4 illegality, there was boring in on a particular rule and reg,
5 which they did hardly at all, if ever.

6 So, first of all, there's not much to correct.

7 Second of all, in terms of the efficacy of a limiting
8 instruction, I would just note a couple things. First of all,
9 there's certain kinds of things that are impossible to put 10 back in to -- pick your cliché.

11 There are certain bells that are impossible to un-ring,
12 a very gory murder scene photo that was improper. This is not 13 that. This is bloodless testimony of a kind that is easily
14 corrected by a legal instruction.

15 Second of all, I have a strong impression it's a good
16 jury. They're attentive. They're focused. They're locked
17 in. I asked them two questions in their questionnaire about 18 their ability to follow legal instructions. All of these 19 people answered that they had no issues with that.

20 So I have every reason to think that they are perfectly
21 comfortable with following my instructions. In addition, this 22 is not a case in which I have given a lot of instructions.
23 The limiting instruction I give them is gonna stand out and,
24 therefore, it's another reason to think it will be 25 efficacious.

1 Finally, my plan is to give the limiting instruction in
2 a freestanding way separate from the jury instructions so it
3 stands out even more.

4 The limiting instruction in my plan is to give -- and
5 I'm just going to read it to you. This is what I'm planning
6 to give. It's gonna be a little long. It is drawn largely 7 from what I previously said I would give plus what the 8 United States has proffered (Reading:)

9 You have heard testimony from certain witnesses
10 about their understanding of various rules and 11 requirements of Medicare. That testimony, other
12 than from Stephen Quindoza, was introduced for a 13 limited purpose.

14 The limited purpose was explaining those 15 witnesses' understanding of the rules and 16 requirements, not to prove the truth of what those 17 rules and requirements were.

18 You are not permitted to infer anything about 19 the content of Medicare rules and regulations from 20 what those witnesses said. As you know, the 21 Medicare rules and regulations in place in one 22 year may have been different than the ones in 23 place in another year.

24 Stephen Quindoza is different. He testified
25 directly about various statutes and regulations

1 related to Medicare. Among those were 42CFR
2 Section 410.38 entitled, "Durable Medical
3 Equipment, Scope and Conditions," which is the 4 regulation that sets forth circumstances under 5 which Medicare Part B pays for durable medical 6 equipment or DME.

7 This regulation was admitted in evidence as
8 Defense Exhibit 9068. I instruct you that 42CFR
9 Section 410.38 was the Medicare regulation
10 applicable to the reimbursement of durable medical 11 equipment from 2017 to 2019.

12 During this his direct examination, Stephen
13 Quindoza testified at one point that, under this 14 regulation, a doctor cannot make a determination
15 of medical necessity for DME in the absence of an 16 in-person visit or a valid telehealth visit.

17 This testimony was inaccurate as applied to the 18 DME at issue in this case. Under 42CFR 410.38,
19 the requirement that a doctor have an in-person
20 visit or a valid telehealth visit before
21 prescribing apply to only certain types of DME and 22 do not apply to the orthotic braces at issue in 23 this case.

24 I instruct you to disregard entirely and
25 completely any suggestion from Mr. Quindoza that,

1 as to the braces at issue here, a medical
2 necessity determination could be made only based
3 on an in-person visit or a valid telehealth visit.

4 Put that entirely out of your mind in your
5 deliberations. Do not rely on it.

6 I think that's a very strong instruction and I have no
7 doubt that that cures any potential issues that are left over.

8 Is there anything in this language that the 9 United States would like to comment on?

10 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

11 Just based on, again, what I discovered last night, I
12 think that part of this instruction is not entirely accurate.
13 I think that the sentence that starts this testimony -- sorry,
14 reads right now: "This testimony was inaccurate as applied to 15 the DME at issue in this case," I would ask that that be 16 revised to say "certain of the DME at issue in this case."

17 THE COURT: No. No, because the testimony -- it's 18 hooked to the testimony that was offered in court.

19 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, I believe that certain -- that 20 the back brace and the knee brace, the two main braces in this 21 case, were -- what he said was accurate with respect to those 22 is that the --

23 THE COURT: It wasn't because he was -- his testimony
24 was bundled with an understanding of the source of the 25 face-to-face obligation and it wasn't bundled with that

1 understanding.

2 So I appreciate the point, which is that there are 3 certain parts of his testimony that may have turned out to be 4 correct, but the testimony offered was based on the reg and to 5 the extent he was testifying from that reg, that testimony was 6 inaccurate.

7 MR. WEBMAN: Understood.

8 THE COURT: Any comments on the wording, Ms. Solano?

9 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, we would ask for one addition.

10 THE COURT: Yeah.

11 MS. SOLANO: Stephen Quindoza testified extensively
12 that the reg required it be a treating physician, that it had 13 to be a treating physician. This went throughout his cross, 14 this went throughout much of the examination, and it also was 15 elicited by the Government. And as I thought effectively
16 showed on cross, the portion that discusses it needing to be 17 with a treating physician doesn't apply to DME; it applied to 18 wheelchairs.

19 THE COURT: Hang on for a second.

20 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, again, this is another place
21 where we have this complexity where Mr. Quindoza was -- during 22 this our January 24th pre-trial hearing, the pre-trial
23 conference, we were told that Mr. Quindoza could testify to 24 background about how generally Medicare works.

25 THE COURT: Right.

1 MR. WEBMAN: This is part of generally how Medicare
2 works. It comes from policy guidance, not from this
3 particular reg as it applies to this DME.

4 To the extent Your Honor had said, on January 24th,
5 that he could talk generally about background, this is true
6 and the defendant has not put on any evidence to rebut it.

7 And so, Your Honor, even though this particular reg
8 does not say that the treating physician needs to be the one
9 to write the order, there are other policy documents that say
10 it.

11 THE COURT: Hang on. Is the United States gonna say in 12 closing anything about a treating physician?

13 MR. WEBMAN: I don't believe so, Your Honor. Not about 14 the definition of the treating physician as it's in the --

15 THE COURT: Is the United States going to say anything
16 about a treating physician?

17 MR. SPECHT: No. The word "treating physician" will 18 not be spoken.

19 THE COURT: So why does this matter? I'm just not sure
20 I get it.

21 I understand what Mr. Specht is -- look, the treating 22 physician thing was --

23 MS. SOLANO: Can I respond, Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: Yeah. Just hang on for one second.

25 What are the parties' views -- I'm going to re-read you

1 with a slight change. This is the end of the proposed
2 instruction:

3 (Reading:)

4 I instruct you to disregard entirely and
5 completely any suggestion from Mr. Quindoza that
6 as to the braces at issue here a medical necessity
7 determination can be made only based on an 8 in-person visit with a treating physician or a
9 valid telemedical visit with the treating
10 physician.

11 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, the Government is fine with 12 that.

13 THE COURT: That seems to solve the issue, Ms. Solano.

14 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

15 As long as the Government -- the Government opened on,
16 these were not their real doctors.

17 THE COURT: Let me make sure I have this right.

18 It would say: A medical necessity determination can be 19 based only on an in-person visit with the treating physician.

20 MS. SOLANO: Or a valid telemedicine visit with a 21 treating physician?

22 THE COURT: Yeah. That seems to address the issue.

23 Ms. Solano, I cut you off. Continue. You're okay with 24 that but you wanted to add something else. Do I have that
25 right?

1 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. The Government opened
2 on this was -- the Government opened on they weren't their
3 real doctors, they weren't their true doctors. They elicited
4 testimony from all the beneficiaries these weren't their real
5 doctors.

6 Mr. Specht hesitated and said, "I'm not going to use
7 the word treating physician."

8 THE COURT: It wasn't much of a hesitation. He was 9 just thinking but --

10 Look, I think we're back to the same thing. The 11 curative instruction makes clear that the reg is not gonna be 12 brought to bear. Again, the United States has opted to try 13 this case in a common-sensy way, which is to say they're just 14 gonna get up and say no one ever heard of these doctors and 15 so, therefore, this isn't a bona fide effort to generate a
16 doctor's order that could comport with medical necessity.

17 Your point, which you've argued very well, is that in 18 making that argument, they can't bootstrap -- they can't grab
19 onto the idea that that's also a violation of Medicare rules
20 and regs. And I think you've just solved that.

21 MS. SOLANO: I just want to make sure that they're not 22 going to say that Medicare required it being a treating 23 physician -- being a real doctor, a treating physician, their 24 own doctors.

25 THE COURT: But they have already represented they're

1 not gonna invoke Medicare rules and regs at all, so that's
2 implicit in that representation.

3 Mr. Specht, do I have that right? Implicit in that 4 representation is that the treating physician point is not
5 gonna be there.

6 MR. SPECHT: Correct, Your Honor. Of course the 7 Government will talk about that these are not their real
8 doctors. They hadn't heard of them.

9 THE COURT: Here is an example. I don't speak French.
10 If I consulted with a doctor in French, someone could argue
11 that's not a real consultation, regardless of what Medicare
12 rules and regs say or don't say. That's just a different sort
13 of argument.

14 The French argument is a commonsense argument that 15 might be strengthened, might be yeasted up by a rule or reg, 16 but the United States is saying they're not gonna do that.

17 Do I have that right, Mr. Specht?

18 MR. SPECHT: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Any other comments on these words,
20 Ms. Solano?

21 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor. Thank you for the 22 addition.

23 THE COURT: For the United States, any additional 24 comments on the words?

25 MR. WEBMAN: No, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: So I'm gonna go through the jury
2 instructions and I'm gonna go through the track change version
3 I got. This is ECF155 supplied by the defendant yesterday
4 evening. It is dated 2/23/2025.

5 I appreciate the creation of this document. It makes 6 this a lot easier.

7 So I just want to -- what I'm gonna do is I'm gonna
8 tick through what I understand to be the parts of this that 9 are still contested and the track changes makes that pretty 10 easy to see.

11 Is there an issue, Mr. Webman?

12 MR. WEBMAN: I think there were -- I had discussed this 13 with Ms. Brown this morning. After our charge conference on 14 Thursday, I went back and -- or maybe it was on Friday, I went 15 back and implemented some of the changes Your Honor told us,
16 for example, for request 4, we had each made a proposal,
17 Your Honor gave a different one. I put that in. That's not 18 reflected in here. I just wanted to make sure Your Honor
19 understood --

20 THE COURT: I got it. Mr. Webman and Ms. Brown, let's
21 say this: What I'm gonna say now is subject to you all 22 agreeing together as to other changes we've made as to which 23 there's no dispute and those will get imported into the final 24 document.

25 Does that work for you?

1 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor. What Ms. Brown and I
2 discussed was me going back, as much as I would like to see
3 the end of the defendant's cross, was going back with one of 4 the attorneys from the defendant's team and ticking through
5 that together and making sure we have a version we all agree
6 to.

7 THE COURT: Ms. Brown, that works for you?

8 MS. BROWN: Yes, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Separate and apart from that cluster of 10 things, what I'm gonna do is, I'm gonna read off what I take 11 to be still in play, and unless someone objects now, I'm gonna 12 treat everything else as having been consented to by the 13 parties.

14 So here are the things that I understand there's still 15 to be disputation about.

17 page 63; request 45A, pages 68 to 71.

18 There will be some of these that I think there's an 19 issue on that you may not.

21 page 105; and request 69, pages 106 to 107.

22 Everything else is fine by the United States?

23 MR. WEBMAN: Sorry, Your Honor. That was very fast.

24 THE COURT: So here are the ones. Ready? Request X,
25 page 47; request 35, page 56; request 41, page 63; request

2 request 65, page 105; request 69, pages 106 to 107.

3 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, I think some of those may have 4 already been resolved but I don't think that you've left out
5 any that are not resolved.

6 THE COURT: Aside from that which I have mentioned, the 7 United States consents that the jury instruction at ECF155 is 8 all 100 percent fine?

9 MR. WEBMAN: Yes.

10 THE COURT: For the defendant. Same question.

11 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: So let's just move through these and we'll 13 do it relatively quickly.

14 Page 47, request X. This is a defense request.

15 Do I have that right?

16 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: I assume no one has an issue with the first 18 sentence.

19 MR. WEBMAN: No, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: I assume no one has an issue with the 21 second sentence.

22 MR. WEBMAN: No, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: And I assume no one has an issue with the 24 third sentence.

25 MR. WEBMAN: No, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Okay. There is a lacing in here of the 2 concept of objective interpretation of the term "medical
3 necessity." I appreciate that there is case law that says
4 that when there is an ambiguity, there are obligations on the 5 United States to make a proof with respect to every objective
6 interpretation of the potentially ambiguous statement.

7 There is nothing ambiguous about the term "medical 8 necessity." It is a straightforward, commonsensical,
9 plain-spoken phrase. It is not hard to understand.

10 By comparison with all of the other words that are in 11 criminal statutes, this is just not technical. It's not hard.
12 It's not big words. They don't come together in unusual ways.
13 It doesn't have a term-of-art meaning, so far as I can tell.
14 It's not encumbered with a common law that is complicated or 15 strange.

16 It's not borrowed from a weird place. None of the 17 things that suggest ambiguity are here. There is just no
18 linguistic complexity or ambiguity here.

19 There was a little bit of discussion last week where,
20 for a moment, the United States suggested that this term was 21 ambiguous. I expressed immediate puzzlement and, indeed,
22 shock that the United States was taking that position.

23 And what became clear immediately was that the 24 United States was not actually taking that position. The 25 United States was engaged in a horse-trading approach to the

1 jury instructions, and as part of that, to move things along,
2 was treating it as ambiguous for the purpose of triggering the 3 objective reasonableness way of thinking about things.

4 I am not bound in what I say about the law by that, and 5 the United States walked away from its momentary assertion
6 that medical necessity is ambiguous within probably 2 1/2
7 minutes.

8 The assistant United States attorneys bind the 9 United States; but one assistant United States attorney making
10 a statement that is corrected two minutes later does not bind
11 the United States in a meaningful way. It certainly does not 12 bind my understanding of what the law is, and it certainly 13 created no reliance interests of any kind that require some 14 sort of estoppel.

15 So I do not proceed here on the understanding that 16 medical necessity is ambiguous, such that there's a need to 17 trigger the case law that runs to proof of all objective
18 interpretations required by the United States.

19 This is just not an ambiguous term in my judgment.
20 I'll also note that I have done a bunch of case law research.
21 I haven't seen anything that suggests it is. In addition, I 22 haven't seen anything from the defendant or from the 23 United States that sheds any light on the idea that this term
24 is ambiguous.

25 I have seen, and I appreciate the defendant citing,

1 case law that speaks to when a term is ambiguous and when
2 there is a false statement as to that term. The objective
3 interpretation way of thinking about things controls, but 4 there has been no effort to show me that that term is 5 ambiguous and, as I've noted, I don't find that it is in any 6 way.

7 So here is how I will plan to give the fourth sentence
8 at page 47, request number X: (Reading:)

9 To prove that the claim was false, the 10 Government must prove that the prescription was 11 not medically necessary, semicolon, that term was 12 not defined by any Medicare regulation.

13 That's the fourth sentence I plan to give.

14 As to the fifth sentence, I plan to give it as follows:
15 (Reading:)

16 I am instructing you that making a false
17 statement and the mental states associated with 18 making a false statement are separate things. The 19 element of falsity and the element of mental state
20 are not the same thing.

21 Therefore, the United States must prove that 22 the claim of medical necessity was false and that 23 the claim was made willfully and with an intent to 24 defraud, as I have defined those terms.

25 Then the sixth -- then I think the sixth line, I don't

1 think is necessary, although I'm open to hearing differently
2 from either party.

3 Any comments on the particular words I have chosen for 4 the fourth and fifth sentences from the United States?

5 MR. WEBMAN: No, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: From the defendant?

7 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: With respect to that sixth sentence, my 9 inclination is just to get rid of it. I think it actually 10 confuses the point Ms. Solano was trying to make at this 11 point.

12 Do you want me to get rid of it, Ms. Solano?

13 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: I assume the United States is fine with me
15 getting rid of it?

16 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: That's that.

18 I'm gonna ask Mr. Webman and Ms. Brown, when you give 19 me the final, reflect these words if you could.

20 Is that doable?

21 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor. I was not at all able to 22 take it all down in real time. I would ask Ms. Larsen to do
23 what she did the other day and send us the snippet, if that's 24 possible. It was probably easier when Ms. Witte was the court
25 reporter and Ms. Larsen was --

1 THE COURT: I see Ms. Larsen nodding.

2 Now we'll go to page 56, which is request 35. This has 3 now been covered by --

4 Ms. Solano, you agree this is no longer --

5 MS. SOLANO: This is not a part of the case at all.

6 THE COURT: So that's out.

7 And then Ms. Solano just withdrew request 35, and that 8 was her request.

9 Do I have that right, Mr. Webman?

10 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Request 41, page 63. This was just a
12 question. I thought that everyone agreed that request 41,
13 running from page 63 to 64, was just fine.

14 MR. WEBMAN: I think that's correct, Your Honor. I
15 think that was one of the things I mentioned at the outset
16 that we had resolved but is not reflected --

17 THE COURT: I thought so. You all said that on Friday.
18 I just wasn't sure. I wanted to confirm, that's all.

19 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. I think we used a Word
20 document from the Government, and I think that this was in 21 there.

22 THE COURT: All right. Request 45A. This is at 23 pages 68, 71. As to this, I have looked at the case law. I
24 don't think there's any ambiguity that the safe harbor
25 obligation is an affirmative defense.

1 The United States' instruction, which runs pages 68 to 2 69, is the instruction that is legally correct, in part,
3 because it is squarely and simply premised on the idea that
4 this is an affirmative defense and works that way.

5 I think the precise words that have been used by the 6 United States are absolutely correct in terms of the statement
7 of the law. I think there was a couple of changes that need
8 making for a little bit of clarity.

9 So at page 68, the second sentence: The defendant
10 contends his conduct exempted from criminal liability under -- 11 instead of "under the personal services contract safe harbor
12 and the Anti-Kickback Statute," I would say, "The defendant
13 contends his conduct is exempted" --

14 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, I don't mean to interrupt you, 15 but I believe that, given Your Honor's ruling that this is the 16 appropriate instruction, just to save time, Your Honor, I
17 think the defendant is -- intends to withdraw the request for 18 safe harbor instruction, in which case the Government doesn't 19 want one either, so I think we can strike that.

20 THE COURT: Got it.

21 So in other words -- so, Ms. Solano, you have preserved
22 your objection to the idea that the safe harbor -- the 23 United States' position is the safe harbor is an affirmative
24 defense. The defendant's position is that the safe harbor is 25 not an affirmative defense.

1 Is that right?

2 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Fair enough. I agree with the 4 United States. You know, the Fifth Circuit, the Eleventh
5 Circuit, that case law is strong and simple, but the objection
6 is preserved.

7 So, then, there's no request 45A at pages 67 to 71 to 8 discuss. It's withdrawn.

9 Page 75, request 47, the paragraph -- the big paragraph
10 at the beginning is already covered by the freestanding
11 limiting instruction I would give, and then I think the second
12 paragraph at page 75 is fine.

13 Any issues with proceeding that way from the 14 United States?

15 MR. WEBMAN: No, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Ms. Solano?

17 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I just want to make sure I
18 understand what you're saying is fine.

19 THE COURT: I mean, it's obviated by the limiting 20 instruction we discussed at the top, and my plan is to have 21 that limiting instruction be given before these jury
22 instructions so it stands out more rather than sticking it in 23 here.

24 MS. SOLANO: So the only issue, the only thing that I
25 don't believe is covered by your limiting instruction,

1 Your Honor, is this requirement -- whether there was a
2 requirement that they have a written order as a condition of 3 payment.

4 The regulation makes clear that these items did not
5 require a written order as a condition of payment, and that is 6 something that I think is important, because if they're 7 talking about, well, they tried to create these fake orders
8 and they tried to keep them because this was part of the 9 fraud, then I think it's important that the jury knows that,
10 under that regulation, there wasn't even an order required.

11 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, if I may respond?

12 THE COURT: Sure.

13 MR. WEBMAN: Again, I don't want to rehash what I've 14 already said. I think that, first of all, on the face of the 15 regulation, that requirement does apply to the two main
16 braces, the 0650 and 1851.

17 Also, I think that to say those were not required would 18 be misleading to the jury because there is a body of policy
19 documents that -- again, we have hashed out, we have gone
20 through this -- but there's a body of policy documents that do
21 require it. So I think it's misleading to say that they're 22 not required at all. I'll leave it at that.

23 THE COURT: Where does this come up in the case? I'm 24 just not sure I -- where does this come up?

25 MS. SOLANO: Well, Your Honor, they have spent a lot of

1 time on how they were trying -- this whole thing with the 2 joint laxity issue is that they made it to be in the doctor's
3 order and written that they had the joint laxity test
4 performed, which -- even though many of the orders don't make 5 that representation at all.

6 And so for the jury to understand that, under the regs,
7 there wasn't even a requirement that there be a doctor's order
8 at all, they're going to -- I think it's important for them to 9 know. Because what they're going to say is, well, the 10 marketers filled out these forms and then the forms were 11 copied over by the doctors and then --

12 There's going to be process -- there's going to be, I
13 believe, argument on that process, and so I think it's 14 important for the jury to know that this regulation didn't 15 even require a doctor's order.

16 THE COURT: But you're making an argument that can be 17 criticized on obvious sword and shield grounds. I mean, on 18 the one hand, you want to preclude the United States from 19 arguing that violations of rules and regs yields a criminal 20 violation, and they're not gonna do that. They haven't 21 charged the case that way and they haven't tried the case that 22 way.

23 On the other hand, you want to say the exact opposite.
24 Well, the fact that there isn't a rule or reg as to orders,
25 whether that's true or not, is exonerating or dissipating of

1 mens rea or something.

2 So that's a problem. People, though, can make sword
3 and shield arguments. I just don't see anything in this case
4 that's meaningful about the rules and regs as to written
5 orders, and it would just be very confusing.

6 The simple fact of the matter is that what we have seen
7 proof of is that people wrote down that certain things
8 happened.

9 And if the United States is gonna just argue from a 10 commonsense perspective that what was written down was just 11 kind of made up or not realistically true or not -- or just 12 deeply implausible, that just doesn't run through the 13 question, which is pretty technical, of whether Medicare
14 required a writing in the first place.

15 There's no obligation that a statement be legally
16 compelled at time one for the content of that statement at 17 time two to have been illegal, under the criminal law. And 18 the United States is not suggesting anything one way or 19 another about the written order being legally compelled to 20 time one.

21 Mr. Specht, are you gonna mention anything in closing
22 that says that there had to be a written order under a
23 Medicare rule or reg or otherwise?

24 MR. SPECHT: No.

25 THE COURT: I just think that's not -- there are

1 triggers as to the context in which a statement is made, a
2 statement under 1001 is to be made in the jurisdiction of the
3 United States.

4 A statement under a perjury statute has to be made
5 under oath.

6 But there's no suggestion here that a fraudulent
7 statement needs to have been made in a required order. It
8 hasn't come up in the evidence. It would confuse the jury to 9 suggest something along those lines, and it's not legally
10 necessary.

11 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. I just want to make 12 clear, so the record is clear, this language in here where 13 it's highlighted, the regulation is silent as to whether the 14 types of orthotic braces were subject of the claims, that was 15 put in by the Government. We disagree with that language.

16 THE COURT: I'm just getting rid of that whole
17 paragraph.

18 MS. SOLANO: I just want to be clear that as we read it
19 and which I think is correct, is the regulation isn't just 20 silent; the regulation affirmatively says that there's no
21 order required for these types of things.

22 THE COURT: But you've sort of put them on notice, and 23 I'm assuming the assistant United States attorneys have heard
24 that, that you're not gonna, God forbid, make an argument that 25 is premised on an erroneous understanding of the law.

1 Ms. Solano has put you on notice. That paragraph
2 page 47, the first one, is gone. The second paragraph will 3 simply be left alone as it is.

4 Ms. Solano.

5 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Is there any issue with that, Ms. Solano?

7 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor. I thought that they 8 opened on this idea that there was a requirement for a written 9 doctor, they needed these doctors' orders, so if they're not 10 going to --

11 THE COURT: I don't recall that on the opening.

12 Did you open on that?

13 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, I did say that they needed
14 prescriptions in order to bill. I believe that that is true.
15 I think that it's not in this specific regulation but I think
16 that -- and it's evidenced by the fact that they went to great
17 lengths to get doctors' orders.

18 THE COURT: But the point of this is simply whether or 19 not -- we're having the same discussion over and over again
20 because it's pretty obvious that you need a prescription in 21 order to bill.

22 What Mr. Webman is saying is he didn't point to a reg
23 that says you need one and so it's not telling that you might 24 turn around, Ms. Solano, and say that actually there's no reg
25 that says you need it because the prescriptions were sent in.

1 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I just want -- the Government
2 has now several times argued that, well, it's because of the 3 policy statements, it's because of these, it's because of 4 these. They walked that back as a part of when they decided
5 to have Quindoza as a fact expert.

6 And so to the extent they intend to argue something to 7 the jury that's based on the things that were not disclosed to 8 us, which we asked for several times, we would object to that 9 on a Rule 16 basis.

10 THE COURT: But they just said they're not going to 11 argue that so I think it's okay.

12 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 MR. WEBMAN: Just on the Rule 16 point, because he was 14 not an expert there was no requirement that we hand these 15 things over. We are, as I've said over and over again, not 16 relying on the policies.

17 THE COURT: So now let's go to request 48.

18 Does anyone still want this instruction? I don't know
19 whose this is. Does anyone still want this, given everything 20 that we discussed?

21 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. I believe -- is this 22 still an issue?

23 MR. WEBMAN: My understanding is that when we discussed
24 this last week it was agreed that we would include it, I think
25 everyone was okay with it, with certain changes.

1 THE COURT: So I just want to understand this. So here
2 is how I would change this. I would change it as follows:

3 (Reading:)

4 During this trial, there was some testimony
5 about Medicare's audit rules, civil penalties, and
6 other guidelines. A violation of these rules,
7 civil penalties, and other guidelines, is not in
8 and of itself a crime, nor does it necessarily
9 mean that a crime has been committed.

10 Even if you find that the claims -- I'm sorry.

11 Let me just read to you the whole thing as I would do
12 it.

13 (Reading:)

14 During this trial, there was some testimony
15 about Medicare's audit rules, civil penalties, and
16 other guidelines. A violation of these rules,
17 civil penalties, and other guidelines is not in
18 and of itself a crime, nor does it necessarily
19 mean that a crime has been committed.

20 A defendant cannot be convicted of a crime
21 merely for breaching these types of audit rules,
22 civil penalties, or other guidelines.

23 I think that's a simpler way of being protective of the 24 problem Mr. Naviwala is trying to protect against. It's 25 clearer and more protective.

1 Any issues with that from either side?

2 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor.

3 MR. WEBMAN: Not from the Government. I would ask
4 again that Ms. Larsen provide us that language. I don't write
5 as quickly as she types.

6 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to read again, request 48.

7 (Reading:)

8 During this trial, there was some testimony
9 about Medicare's audit rules, civil penalties, and
10 other guidelines. A violation of these rules,
11 civil penalties, and other guidelines is not in
12 and of itself a crime, nor does it necessarily
13 mean that a crime has been committed.

14 A defendant cannot be convicted of a crime
15 merely for breaching these types of audit rules,
16 civil penalties, or other guidelines.

17 Fine?

18 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Ms. Solano?

20 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Request 105 -- excuse me. Request 65,
22 excuse me, at page 105.

23 I just had a question on this. Is this the model rule?
24 Here is why I just think it's a little strange. I
25 would have thought the instruction was: You should examine

1 and evaluate the defendant's testimony just as you would the 2 testimony of any witness, and just leave it at that.

3 I'm not sure why there is a discussion of the 4 defendant's constitutional right to testify or not to testify.

5 What difference does that make?

6 MR. WEBMAN: I believe it is the model rule,
7 Your Honor, but I don't -- if the defendant doesn't take a
8 strong position on it, I don't think the Government does 9 either.

10 MS. SOLANO: I mean we thought it was the model rule.
11 If there's a question --

12 THE COURT: It might be the model rule. Fundamentally, 13 I just don't get why we're talking about he didn't have to 14 testify but he did.

15 MS. SOLANO: Right. I agree with Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: It just seems like it should just be: You
17 should examine and evaluate the defendant's testimony as you
18 would the testimony of any witness, and just leave it alone.

19 MS. SOLANO: We would prefer that, Your Honor.

20 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor. We can confirm that it
21 is the model instruction, but we are fine with leaving it as 22 Your Honor and the defense counsel have discussed.

23 THE COURT: The problem with it is that I think if you
24 have all the stuff in the beginning, it makes the jury say,
25 well, gee, what about other evidence he could have put on? I

1 think the better way to do it is just to say that you should
2 evaluate his testimony as you would the testimony of any
3 witness.

4 The United States is fine with that also?

5 MR. WEBMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: In request 65 at page 105 it's simply and 7 solely gonna be the last sentence.

8 Venue. Venue is a little complicated here I think.

9 Here is why venue is complicated, in my judgment. This is a
10 terribly abstract context and it's abstract because, as I held
11 last week under Perez, I do not believe -- Perez has a 12 three-part test. It is in the conjunctive, not in the 13 disjunctive, and I do not believe that clause 2 of Perez has 14 been satisfied. Ms. Lou echoed that point in her letter of 15 yesterday.

16 So we are talking about in abstraction and I simply do
17 not believe that clause 2 -- excuse me, prong 2 of the Perez
18 test has been satisfied, so the defendant is not actually 19 entitled at this point to a venue instruction.

20 On the other hand, I have two comments.

21 First, the United States has consistent as it's noted
22 with general practice put forward a venue instruction solely 23 based on the defendant's request for one and I understand why
24 the United States has done so.

25 There is risk in not acceding to such a request. The

1 other reason -- so that's that. I'll leave it at that. So
2 I'm going to give a venue instruction, based on what the
3 United States wants, and understanding that that is something
4 of a standard practice here.

5 I think that the core problem here looks something like
6 this: Ms. Solano has argued from Chief Judge Chagares'
7 opinion, and for reasons we discussed last week, that decision
8 is, on its face, appears to be of limited utility.

9 It appears, to me, that it aims to focus just on a
10 setting which the United States Congress has not come in and 11 itself said where venue should be applied.

12 That would seem to suggest that there is no place here
13 for complicated discussions of where the essential core of a
14 crime took place, because the United States Congress has a
15 continuing crime statute, and as various circuits have held,
16 the substantive offenses here are continuing crimes.

17 And they clearly are, in general, because they require
18 someone to do something, and then someone to do something
19 almost always later, almost always in a different place.

20 And there are continuing crimes on the facts of this 21 case where that is precisely how it allegedly went; that 22 people in different places worked together to do crimes that 23 were continuing, both temporally, and importantly for these 24 purposes, spatially.

25 So it looks like we're in a continuing crime zone and

1 for a continuing crime zone there is a venue statute that is
2 on point. And indeed, the line before the one that Ms. Solano
3 has quoted to me from Chief Judge Chagares seems to carve out
4 things in precisely this way.

5 The problem is that the cases over and over again say
6 that there is a carveout for congressional statutes, but then
7 seem not to apply the carveout.

8 So, for example, Chief Judge Chagares' opinion notes
9 the idea of a continuing crime carveout, but then does not 10 analyze whether the Computer Fraud Act is indeed a continuing 11 crime act.

12 Similarly, Justice Ginsburg's opinion for the 13 United States Supreme Court in Caballes perceives in a little 14 bit the same way.

15 Ms. Lou, did I quote the name wrong?

16 MS. LOU: No, Your Honor. I was just marveling at your 17 recall of the Supreme Court.

18 THE COURT: But Justice Ginsburg's case decision for 19 United States Supreme Court in Caballes does the same thing:
20 it invokes the concept of the carveout but then doesn't go
21 down that road.

22 It's fundamentally a little difficult to know why. One
23 explanation as to why might be that the statutory carveout in 24 the venue statute talks, for example, about the use of mails,
25 and the Computer Fraud Act discussed by the Third Circuit or

1 the money laundering statute discussed by the Supreme Court
2 through Justice Ginsburg, are focused on statutes that
3 themselves do not talk about the mails. Okay.

4 But the problem is, is that even when we are talking
5 about something that surely looks like a continuing crime and 6 that has mailing in the elements, mail fraud being the obvious
7 example, there is Third Circuit precedent that does not allow 8 venue to be based solely on where mail is received in those 9 contexts.

10 So the difficulty becomes the case law, on its face,
11 has a carveout for when congress has set a venue statute, but 12 the way that the case law proceeds does not look to that 13 carveout. It doesn't look to it in cases like Judge Chagares'
14 and Justice Ginsburg's where the statutes don't have mailing
15 as an element.

16 But, indeed, the Third Circuit has suggested a number
17 of times that the statute -- the venue statute for continuing
18 crimes -- also doesn't control when mailing is an element,
19 which is to say the mail fraud statute.

20 So we are left in a very complicated position, one
21 where, under Perez, there's no need for a venue instruction, 22 and, number two, where the venue instructions as to the 23 substantives are complicated.

24 Where I think that leaves us is that there is something 25 like the need to do a little bit of a lex delicti kind of

1 analysis, but not one that is as technical, in my judgment, as 2 Ms. Solano mentioned.

3 When we first raised this issue, I kind of brought up
4 the first restatement of choice of law, and I brought it up
5 because there was associated with that regime an 6 extraordinarily artificial and formalistic sense of what is 7 the core of an offense or -- excuse me -- in that context of a
8 civil wrong that then triggers the choice of a body of law.

9 I think that Ms. Solano's proposed jury instructions
10 with respect to venue partake of that problem. They do not --
11 they pick out very small and very random aspects of the crime
12 charged and elevate them in a substantial way.

13 On the other hand, it's not clear how to proceed,
14 because something needs to be found if we are to assume that 15 the statute does not simply control, that is, at the core of 16 the offense as to which venue is sought.

17 I don't mean to lay down any systematic thinking on 18 that subject for the simple reason that it would be doubly
19 advisory. Advisory because the Perez standard hasn't been met 20 and advisory in addition because there's no reason for it to 21 be in play.

22 And the reason that it doesn't need to be in play is 23 that, in looking to what is central enough to an alleged 24 crime, that there's venue based on the location of such an 25 activity, the courts have generally looked to the substance of

1 the crime as it's been written down in a congressional 2 statute.

3 Here, though, the particular substantive offenses --
4 and that's where the fight is about venue -- the particular
5 substantive offenses, both the health care fraud and the 6 anti-kickback, run through ideas about the delivery/provision
7 of medical items.

8 And so rather than trying to figure out all of the 9 different ways in which venue might be satisfied here, I think
10 it makes a lot more sense to instruct the jury on a venue
11 theory that is clearly at the core of both health care fraud
12 substantive and anti-kickback substantive, and that venue
13 theory is about the delivery of the relevant medical stuff
14 into New Jersey.

15 So what I'm gonna do is I'm gonna read the proposed 16 venue instruction, and then everyone can react to it and see
17 what you think, in practice, and see if it works. That's a
18 kinda long intro to what will be a pretty short thing.

19 I'll read the first paragraph, and I'm reading off the 20 United States' instruction.

21 (Reading:)

22 The superseding indictment alleges that some
23 act in furtherance of each of the offenses charged
24 occurred here in the District of New Jersey.

25 There is no requirement that all aspects of each

1 of the offenses charged or that the entire
2 conspiracy takes place here in the District of
3 New Jersey.

4 But for you to return a guilty verdict, the
5 Government must convince you that, for each count,
6 some meaningful act in furtherance of that count
7 took place here in the District of New Jersey.

8 So far, I have made only one change to what the 9 United States has proposed in its first paragraph, which is in 10 the final sentence. It reads as follows:

11 (Reading:)

12 But for you to return a guilty verdict, the
13 Government must convince you that, for each count,
14 some meaningful act in furtherance of that count
15 took place here in the District of New Jersey.

16 That's the first one.

17 Then simply an additional sentence: The 18 substantives -- let me just ask you all, the substantives here
19 are Two, Three, Four, Eight, and Nine.

20 Do I have that right?

21 MS. LOU: Your Honor, it's Counts 2, 3, 4 and 6, 7, 8.

22 THE COURT: Okay. So then the next sentence would 23 read:

24 (Reading:)

25 In addition, as to Counts 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, and 8,

1 the meaningful act in furtherance of that count
2 must have been the delivery of DME into
3 New Jersey.

4 Must have been the delivery of DME into New Jersey.
5 I'll read you that again.

6 (Reading:)

7 In addition, as to Counts 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, and 8,
8 the meaningful act in furtherance of that count
9 must have been the delivery of DME into
10 New Jersey.

11 Then from there, it would simply continue with the 12 remaining two paragraphs, the one that begins "unlike" and the 13 one that begins "remember."

14 For the United States, thoughts?

15 MS. LOU: Yes, Your Honor. I believe there's also been 16 evidence from which the jury can infer that the doctors'
17 orders were also signed in New Jersey for these beneficiaries.

18 Just looking at Friday's testimony, for example, in the 19 cross, Mr. Naviwala admitted that, if the domicile criteria
20 that one of his clients insisted on was being implemented, he 21 would expect that the doctors for New Jersey patients also 22 would be based in New Jersey, and we have doctors' orders that 23 support that. So not just the delivery of the DME --

24 THE COURT: I got it.

25 Here is the complexity: I think the complexity is if

1 what we're doing is going off the statutory language, that 2 argument is a much stronger argument for venue of the 3 Anti-Kickback Statute than it is for the substantives of 4 health care fraud. I think it's potentially confusing.

5 So right now, what we have is a conspiracy venue theory
6 and then we have, for all the substantives, the meaningful act
7 has to be -- must have been the delivery.

8 If we do it your way, then there's an argument that we 9 have to say the meaningful act must have been the delivery of 10 DME for the health care fraud statutes. And then, for the 11 anti-kickback, either the delivery of the DME or the writing
12 of doctors' orders in New Jersey.

13 I'm open to that, but it's a pretty complicating
14 wrinkle to follow.

15 MS. LOU: I understand, Your Honor. I don't feel as 16 though we're hampered by the way that you asked -- the 17 evidence supports that and we're able to argue that, and so we 18 take your point.

19 THE COURT: Just reflect on it some more.

20 Let me hear from Ms. Solano.

21 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

22 I'll start with the kickback substantive charges first.
23 We don't believe that the kickback -- the substantive kickback
24 charges, as charged here, are continuing offenses. What the 25 Government charged was a specific act: the receipt of payment

1 on a specific day.

2 THE COURT: Right.

3 MS. SOLANO: And unlike a wire fraud statute or a money
4 laundering circumstance, it doesn't prohibit or even discuss a
5 transfer. It's very specific to receipt. And the kickback
6 statute itself doesn't contain -- the elements of the kickback
7 statute doesn't contain any sort of language about delivery.

8 And so I believe that --

9 THE COURT: Here is the problem with the latter
10 argument. I'm just flipping to the indictment.

11 I'm presuming that the United States -- excuse me --
12 that the indictment, this is Count Eight, page 20, is quoting
13 the statute. It says:

14 (Reading:)

15 Knowingly solicited and received remuneration
16 directly or indirectly, overtly and covertly, in 17 cash and in kind, that is kickbacks and bribes, in 18 the manner specified below in return for referring 19 an individual to a person for the furnishing... of 20 any item...

21 That is why, at the center under any arguable theory of 22 lex delicti, the key essential -- "element" is the wrong word, 23 but the key essential concept that links together both the 24 Anti-Kickback Statute and health care fraud piece is what the 25 health care fraud statute calls "delivering" and what the

1 kickback statute calls "furnishing an item."

2 So that's why I've hit on this particular thing. It
3 strikes me as getting to anyone's concept of what might be 4 essential if essentiality is indeed necessary, and it's right
5 there in the statute.

6 MS. SOLANO: I understand Your Honor's position.

7 Our position is that only the two actus reuses of the 8 Anti-Kickback Statute would support venue here, and so here,
9 what is the actus reus that the Government charged was receipt
10 on a particular point in time, and receipt, obviously, is the 11 end of the line.

12 And so that is what we think would be appropriate for 13 venue. And perhaps if it would be possible to include -- I
14 believe that the way in which the proposed instruction reads,
15 the focus is on delivery; and I think for the Anti-Kickback
16 Statute, it should, if Your Honor wants to include delivery,
17 it should also include the receiving the remuneration.

18 THE COURT: I don't think so. I think there are, there 19 are a bunch of different things that are central to this, but 20 I think the way the case law looks is it just looks to the 21 statute to figure out what's at the core of the offense.

22 And I think it's a little strange to imagine -- it's a
23 little strange to imagine that furnishing an item, which is 24 what the statute said, is not at the core of the offense. And 25 it's also a little strange to imagine that it's not part of

1 the actus reus.

2 You agreed to a jury instruction that makes 3 furnishing -- that then makes the provision of an item part of 4 the offense, and that was the right thing to do.

5 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. I didn't want to 6 interrupt you.

7 THE COURT: I just think this is clearly at the heart
8 of the allegation, of the crime.

9 MS. SOLANO: But what the Government charged and the 10 act that is actually criminal here, the delivery, from the 11 jury instruction is the -- I'm sorry, I'm trying to say two 12 different things.

13 The delivery of the purchase of the item, that is 14 subsumed in what the purpose of the remuneration is; but the 15 actus reus of an anti-kickback crime, as reflected in how the 16 Government charged it in this case, is the receipt of the 17 money. The Government doesn't make any reference in any of 18 their substantive AKS counts about delivery of the braces that 19 were purportedly induced by these -- this illegal
20 remuneration.

21 THE COURT: It's a very -- essentially what you're 22 saying -- I don't think this is right -- well, let's assume 23 it's right. What you're essentially saying is that the actus
24 reus generates venue or not. And although the statute on your 25 read requires that mens rea be directed toward the furnishing

1 of an item, which necessarily has a physical location, only
2 the actus reus can supply venue; but the physically, spatially
3 directed mens rea cannot supply venue.

4 But why?

5 MS. SOLANO: Well, Your Honor, I believe that, one,
6 I do think that the actus reus has to be included in where 7 proper venue would be. And here, I don't believe that the 8 proposed instruction includes that it could be also where 9 the -- I'm sorry, where the remuneration was received.

10 But as I understand the way that an anti-kickback
11 charge would be is at the point in time when a defendant or 12 anyone receives remuneration with the purpose of these other
13 things, the anti-kickback charge would be a completed act.

14 And so it wouldn't matter whether the delivery of an 15 item actually did go forth. The act, at that point when the 16 person receives the illegal remuneration with the intent, is a
17 completed offense at that point.

18 THE COURT: That may -- everything you have just said
19 may or may not be right, but let's assume it is right. If 20 it is right, it still falls back on the implicit legal 21 principle that I just mentioned, which is what you're saying
22 is that mens rea directed a particular place, i.e., the place
23 where an item is furnished doesn't matter. And I'm asking you
24 why.

25 MS. SOLANO: Well, Your Honor, because at that point

1 the crime is complete.

2 THE COURT: Right. But at that moment when the crime
3 is complete, I have given money to someone in Massachusetts
4 for something that, the next day, is gonna be delivered in 5 New Jersey. And you're saying that it's complete upon the 6 provision of the money in Massachusetts and my thought process
7 as to New Jersey doesn't matter. Okay.

8 But why are you right, that the thought process focused
9 on New Jersey and the furnishing into New Jersey is irrelevant
10 for venue purposes? That's the question.

11 MS. SOLANO: Well, Your Honor, I think that the reason 12 why it doesn't matter at that point is because in determining 13 the -- where venue can occur, you have to look at the nature
14 of the crime and you have to look at where it begins and where 15 it ends.

16 And if the crime is complete upon receipt of illegal
17 remuneration, which I believe it is, then any acts that happen
18 thereafter -- which are the facts of this case, right, that 19 the money was sent before there were orders shipped out, and 20 so at that point the act is done. The act that could confer
21 venue is finished.

22 And we cited to, for example, a Second Circuit case in 23 which they discussed that, for example, the intent for the 24 scheme to defraud can't supply venue. So if something about 25 the intended scheme to defraud can't supply venue because it's

1 tied to a mens rea, then what you're talking about --

2 THE COURT: I see the point. But there is a body of 3 law that I think supports the intuition behind what you're 4 saying which is the body of law about events after the 5 completion of the crime. This is a little bit what
6 Justice Ginsburg is getting to in terms of money laundering
7 being done.

8 I think it's bundled together much more tightly here.
9 I just do. I hear what you're saying but, on balance, unless 10 we're gonna be formalistic in a choice of law first
11 re-statementy sort of way, the question is, what is -- given 12 the words congress has chosen -- the core of the thing of the 13 crime, not that which happens afterward.

14 It may be -- although I see no distinction like this in 15 the case law. I understand the Second Circuit case you're 16 talking about. But the sharp divide between actus reus and 17 mens rea I think is not really there, and I think there is no
18 conceivable way to think about an anti-kickback violation
19 without this part that congress has picked out which is that 20 it's furnishing an item.

21 Any other comments on the venue instruction?

22 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, we would request that for the 23 anti-kickback charges, that in addition to the delivery piece
24 that the actus reus would be included.

25 THE COURT: I assume the United States is opposed to

1 that but let's hear from the United States.

2 MS. LOU: Your Honor, is the proposal that it would be
3 an "or" rather than an "and"?

4 THE COURT: Ms. Solano?

5 MS. SOLANO: I think the proposal would be that the 6 jury can decide what they think -- they have to decide venue.
7 It's a factual issue for them.

8 And so I think for the kickback charges, the offense
9 would discuss that jury could be proper regarding the delivery
10 of services; it could also be proper regarding where the 11 payment was received.

12 THE COURT: So, then, the way you would -- so your 13 answer to Ms. Lou's question is yes, it's "or." What you want
14 it to say is in addition -- we're reading the second paragraph
15 of the venue instruction: In addition, as to Counts 2, 3, 4,
16 6, 7, and 8, the meaningful act in furtherance of that count
17 must have been causing delivery of DME into New Jersey or 18 making a payment into New Jersey.

19 Do I have that right?

20 MS. SOLANO: I think it has to be "receipt."

21 THE COURT: Or receiving a payment in New Jersey.

22 MS. SOLANO: Yes.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MS. SOLANO: Just so the record is clear, we are 25 standing by our requested venue instruction.

1 THE COURT: I got it but just --

2 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: The question of what's preserved and what's 4 not preserved, I don't presume to say anything about that.

5 But the question, Ms. Lou, how do you feel about that?

6 So just to: In addition, as to Counts 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, and 8,
7 the meaningful act in furtherance of that count must have been 8 either causing the delivery of DME into New Jersey or 9 receiving a payment into New Jersey.

10 MS. LOU: Your Honor, given how we have charged it, not 11 just -- I think everybody in this room knows that no payments
12 were received in New Jersey, but we have also alleged that 13 they were sent through New Jersey via Fedwire. It's right
14 here in the indictment.

15 So to leave that out -- if we're going to include
16 discussion about payments and where they're being received and 17 also -- excuse me, Your Honor -- we have also charged aiding 18 and abetting and so it also has to include the sending, too,
19 not just the receiving.

20 So if we're talking about all the places in which the 21 payment has been initiated or received, I think we should also 22 include that being passed through.

23 THE COURT: I think the problem becomes, that begins to 24 run afoul of the case law here being averse to --

25 Look, the reading of the continuing crimes statute I

1 think would support what you're saying, but that's not how
2 it's been read, for example, by the Circuit in the Computer
3 Fraud Act case which doesn't want purely incidental things.
4 So I'm a little hesitant about that.

5 So I appreciate your point, which is, oh, my gosh, says
6 Ms. Lou, I know for the United States that I am not gonna be 7 able to argue from that second venue prong. But you can argue
8 from the first one, so what difference does it make?

9 MS. LOU: Right. Then my point would be, Your Honor,
10 the earlier point that I made about the doctors having 11 signed -- you know, the -- in return for the kickback payment
12 what's being exchanged is not just the medical items being 13 shipped and the furnishing of that item but the furnishing of 14 the item also being doctors' orders that were signed by 15 doctors in New Jersey.

16 THE COURT: I assume you're okay with that, Ms. Solano.

17 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I don't believe that there's 18 evidence that would support that.

19 THE COURT: That's a different question, though. If 20 Ms. Lou is proposing a -- there's many things here that you're 21 going to argue the evidence doesn't support. That's a
22 different point.

23 MS. SOLANO: I just want to make sure that it is --

24 THE COURT: So --

25 MS. SOLANO: -- perhaps phrased a different way.

1 Because I think if you assume that there are doctors' orders
2 signed in New Jersey, then --

3 THE COURT: So I think that it would say something
4 like --

5 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, just one point.

6 THE COURT: Go on.

7 MS. SOLANO: What we're arguing with respect to this 8 receipt is it only applies to the AKS charges. It does not 9 apply to --

10 THE COURT: That's the problem I was trying to avoid by 11 not going down this road. I was trying to provide a single 12 solution to the substantive venue issue. It does not require
13 two venue charges -- that requires only two venue charges
14 instead of three.

15 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, we don't believe a venue
16 charge is necessary for a conspiracy. We are not arguing
17 that.

18 THE COURT: But that's too complicated. You sorta
19 can't have this both ways. You can't ask for venue on some 20 things where you like it and not where you don't. There has 21 to be some -- I don't want to leave the jury with a question
22 mark of, gee, what the heck happened to venue on a certain
23 count? That's too weird.

24 Look, here is where the rubber meets the road: As 25 to -- Ms. Solano has a general objection, the scope of which

1 is in the record and it speaks for itself, as to the way venue
2 is being handled here.

3 Can someone remind me of the health care fraud charges,
4 the substantives are Two, Three, and Four? I keep getting 5 this wrong.

6 MS. LOU: Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: The substantives under Anti-Kickback
8 Statute are Six, Seven, and Eight?

9 MS. LOU: Correct, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: I think where we are is that, putting aside
11 the general objections Ms. Solano has, it would read like 12 this: I'm gonna start again. Page 106.

13 (Reading:)

14 The superseding indictment alleges that some
15 act in furtherance of each of the offenses charged
16 occurred here in the District of New Jersey.

17 There is no requirement that all aspects of each
18 of the offenses charged or that the entire 19 conspiracies take place here in the District of 20 New Jersey. But for you to return a guilty
21 verdict, the Government must convince you that for 22 each count some meaningful act in furtherance of 23 that count took place here in the District of 24 New Jersey. Period. New paragraph.

25 In addition, as to Counts 2, 3, and 4, the

1 meaningful act in furtherance of those counts must
2 have been causing the delivery of DME into
3 New Jersey. Period. New paragraph.

4 As to Counts 6, 7, and 8, the meaningful act in
5 furtherance of those counts must have been either
6 causing the delivery of DME into New Jersey, or 7 receiving a payment into New Jersey, or the 8 signing of a doctor's order in New Jersey.

9 Ms. Solano?

10 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. I don't -- well, with 11 respect to the -- I just want to be clear.

12 With respect to the health care fraud offense, I 13 believe that an actus reus for that would be submission of the 14 false claim itself.

15 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, I just disagree with you on 16 that but let's just stick with the language here.

17 MS. SOLANO: With Your Honor's rulings, we are fine
18 with that language.

19 THE COURT: Ms. Lou, what do you think?

20 MS. LOU: Your Honor, I'm fine with that language.
21 Bottom line, I just want to correct my misstatement earlier as 22 to the furnishing of the items serviced being the doctors'
23 orders. We still believe it's appropriate to add that 24 third prong.

25 THE COURT: That's why I said it with respect to

1 Counts 6, 7, and 8. It's now three -- it's "or" not "and,"
2 it's "or." Three things under 6, 7, and 8.

3 MS. LOU: Understood.

4 THE COURT: So that's that.

5 We're at the end of our list. I think probably the 6 most useful thing to do, if I might, is for those who have the 7 task of putting this into a final state, which also, you know,
8 is just ready for me to read, it's probably going to make 9 sense for us to stop now and deal with that. The jury is 10 gonna be ready, one hopes, in 32 minutes and we'll be ready to 11 go then.

12 So that's my preference.

13 Ms. Solano made a filing yesterday that seeks discovery
14 with respect to grand jury minutes.

15 The United States' plan is to respond to that by when?

16 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I actually haven't made that 17 application. I made the request to make the application.

18 THE COURT: Well, didn't you file like a long letter 19 about that?

20 MS. SOLANO: It was a long sentence but it was a 21 one-sentence request to have permission to make the 22 application.

23 THE COURT: So here is the question on that. Is there
24 anything else that's an open issue?

25 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I have two open issues but we

1 can address --

2 THE COURT: Just tell me what they are. One is grand
3 jury minutes. What's the second one?

4 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. The other one is the --
5 I think we need a curative instruction regarding Ms. Lou's
6 statement that the joint laxity thing was a regulation.

7 THE COURT: But her answer is fully satisfactory. We 8 have said over and over again that -- I've said over and over
9 again lawyers' questions are not statements.

10 And that question -- Ms. Lou is right -- that question
11 was objected to by you and I sustained the objection. The 12 question wasn't answered, so if it goes back to the jury
13 they're not even gonna see that. I think we can move on.

14 It presumes that the jury is not following the law and 15 not following my instructions to give them an instruction on 16 that and there's no reason to presume that.

17 What's the next issue?

18 MS. SOLANO: The next issue is we want to -- at the 19 beginning of this case, Your Honor I'm sure remembers, we 20 raised the -- in the motion to dismiss the superseding
21 indictment, we raised the issue that an -- I'm sorry, that the 22 portions of the indictment that say that the conduct was -- 23 something was submitted to Medicare without regard to medical 24 necessity, that that was outside the scope of what the fraud
25 statute actually criminalizes and that it was a due process

1 violation for fair notice.

2 Your Honor I think addressed that by saying that if we
3 wanted to re-urge that towards the end of trial we could do so
4 to strike out those portions, and so I'm making that 5 application that I do believe that charging something that
6 could be medically necessary but was submitted without regard
7 to medical necessity is outside the scope of the fraud
8 statutes and I'm renewing our due process argument.

9 THE COURT: But is the argument about -- I mean, I'm 10 not -- I don't think it's weird to pull things out of the 11 indictment, if that's what's going on. I mean, there is 12 just -- if someone had asked me not to send the indictment
13 back, I don't know what I would have done. I don't love
14 sending indictments back.

15 Does the United States have an issue with just excising
16 those words from the indictment? We're just talking about 17 what's in the indictment.

18 MS. LOU: Rather than what is required to be proven; is 19 that what Your Honor is saying?

20 THE COURT: Yeah. Ms. Solano's argument is no longer
21 about the jury instructions. We're done with that. This is 22 just about whether those words are gonna appear in the 23 indictment that the parties have assumed goes back to the 24 jury.

25 MS. LOU: Your Honor, the issue with excising those

1 words is that, without our ability to argue that, for example,
2 that something is not actually medically required without 3 reference to regulations or rules, what we're left with, as 4 Your Honor noted on Friday, is the -- in Your Honor's words, I
5 believe the mountain of evidence that the whole scheme was set
6 up to medical necessity.

7 I believe that one of our core theories is that, given
8 the scheme that was set up in an absence of, you know,
9 attending to the medical necessity, that amounted to medical 10 unnecessariness itself. So to cut that out is really cutting
11 the leg out from under us in terms of what we can argue.

12 THE COURT: I agree. I'm not going to do that.

13 First of all, there's no fair notice violation. I just 14 don't think that's what's going on here. There's no need to 15 excise it. So I'm denying the motion.

16 I think what Ms. Solano is really aiming to argue is,
17 candidly, not for now. It's an argument she's gonna want to 18 make if there's a conviction, to me and/or to the court of 19 appeals.

20 And the argument is basically, the United States needs
21 to prove -- I think what Ms. Solano is envisioning and I'm 22 expressing no opinion on -- there's no fair notice problem.
23 There's no due process problem. I think what Ms. Solano is 24 envisioning is, let's imagine that the process for deciding 25 whether someone gets a brace is throwing a dart against the

1 wall.

2 In the United States' telling, that's total reckless
3 disregard for medical necessity and, therefore, is enough.

4 Ms. Solano's point is, if you threw the dart against
5 the wall and it turned out it landed on the precise brace a
6 patient actually needed, that's not fraud. That's an argument
7 she can opt to make after the trial.

8 The problem you're gonna have with that argument,
9 Ms. Solano, even if you're legally right, probably -- I
10 suspect this is how, and you have heard it over and over again
11 how the United States is gonna argue it, that there are people
12 here who have put in themselves affirmative evidence. They 13 got something they didn't want, didn't need.

14 So it functions ex ante as maybe a fair notice
15 argument. I find that it's not, for obvious reasons, related 16 to the thickness of the discovery, the speakingness in the 17 indictment, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. It hardly needs
18 discussion. Fair notice problems with criminal law are very 19 rare.

20 The problem ex post you're gonna have, I suspect, runs
21 through the fact that, even on the dart theory, it looks like
22 there has been some affirmative evidence in this case that it
23 didn't all work out in a just-so way that people didn't get 24 what they wanted. But that's an argument that you can take up
25 later if you'd like to.

1 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. Just to put a bit of a
2 finer point on it, I think that the argument is not -- I do
3 think the dart example is a good one, but the argument is also 4 that they have created something where it's not a false
5 statement because it's without regard to medical necessity;
6 but it's also creating, I think, confusion on confusing an
7 intent to defraud versus some sort of affirmative obligation
8 to investigate medical necessity, which I don't believe is 9 here.

10 He's not a doctor, and the idea that somebody could be 11 charged with health care fraud because a claim was submitted,
12 even if a claim was submitted over and over and over again,
13 without regard to medical necessity, assumes that there is 14 some sort of duty to undertake a sort of inquiry that is 15 separate and apart from whether something was submitted with 16 the intent to deceive and defraud because it was medically
17 unnecessary.

18 THE COURT: There could be a case in which that's a
19 live issue and there could be a case in which that presents a
20 fair notice-type problem. It's just that the indictment here, 21 and supplemented by the evidence you've received, doesn't make 22 this even remotely like that case.

23 There's -- I don't believe I used the word "mountain," 24 but there is a large volume of evidence that is very 25 affirmative on this and has been affirmatively presented as

1 allegations from a much earlier time. So I don't think
2 there's a fair notice problem.

3 I think that there could be a case in which there is a
4 fair notice problem, but my intuition is this is not that
5 case. If the jury comes back a certain way, you can argue it
6 ex post, ex ante. I don't think there's anything like that.

7 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 In our papers we wrote that it was a fair notice 9 problem, and it's also just the due process issue that we have 10 raised and briefed several times with respect to that standard
11 as what due regard you must undertake for medical necessity is 12 a vague standard.

13 THE COURT: I don't see that. Okay. I have it.

14 So Ms. Solano's third point, got it.

15 The curative instruction, I have already ruled on,
16 which is to say as to the statement built into Ms. Lou's 17 question that was never answered because it was objected to 18 and the objection was sustained, I've said there was no need
19 for a curative instruction because the need for a curative
20 instruction there presumes that the jury is not already 21 following instructions, and as I outlined toward the beginning
22 of today's proceeding, I think this jury is not that kind of 23 jury at all. I'm not worried about it.

24 Then there is the permission to make a motion for 25 inspection of grand jury minutes, and the permission for that

1 is granted.

2 Anything else?

3 MS. LOU: Your Honor, just to clarify on the venue
4 instruction. After your rider insertion, is it your intention
5 to read the rest of --

6 THE COURT: Yeah.

7 MS. LOU: I just wanted to clarify.

8 THE COURT: Yes. I think the rest has to be there;
9 otherwise --

10 MS. LOU: Of course, the burden --

11 THE COURT: Yeah, it has to be there to protect the 12 defendant.

13 Ms. Lou, anything else?

14 MS. LOU: No, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Ms. Solano?

16 MS. SOLANO: Just a housekeeping point, Your Honor.

17 If the defendant gets off of the stand today and we
18 rest, it's my understanding that the Government will do
19 whatever it's gonna do; but if the Government also rests, I
20 believe that I need to make an application at that point. I
21 need to renew my application. I don't think you want me to do
22 that in front of the jury, so I'm just raising that as a --

23 THE COURT: Do you need to make an application that is 24 anything other than just making an application to preserve it,
25 or do you actually want to have argumentation at that point?

1 MS. SOLANO: It wasn't going to be long, but I was
2 going to say certain things. I could do it at sidebar. That
3 would be fine, too. I wanted to know your preference --

4 THE COURT: I just don't want you to do it front of 5 the jury. I just also want to move quickly. Why don't we 6 have a sidebar at that point.

7 MS. SOLANO: I want to remind that I do need -- it may 8 not be an issue today, but in the event -- we'll raise --

9 THE COURT: This jury instruction is going to take a
10 while. You're talking about getting to your closing. There's 11 no way. Ms. Lou is gonna take whatever. Then there's gonna 12 be jury charge and then Mr. Specht is gonna spend whatever 13 it is --

14 MS. SOLANO: I'm not arguing with you.

15 THE COURT: There's no way we're getting there.

16 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: And then we're going to have a couple days
18 to prepare.

19 Anything else?

20 We will be back in 20 minutes. Thank you, all.

21 Good luck preparing this charge and, please, as soon as 22 you have -- as soon as you have it, e-mail it to my courtroom
23 deputy and also bring a hard copy because I will hope to read
24 it to the jury today. Thank you.

25 (Recess taken.)

1 THE DEPUTY CLERK: All rise.

2 (Witness Raheel Naviwala resumes the witness stand.)

3 (Jury enters the courtroom at 11:10 a.m.)

4 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held in
5 the presence of the jury:)

6 THE DEPUTY CLERK: All rise.

7 THE COURT: Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, good
8 morning to each of you. As you know, we started a little late 9 and later yet by two minutes. I saw you in the hallway as we 10 were passing each other. Sorry I didn't get here the moment
11 before you did, but here we are. Welcome back.

12 To the witness, I'll remind you that you remain under 13 oath.

14 Please continue.

15 MS. LOU: Thank you, Your Honor.

16 RAHEEL NAVIWALA,

17 having been previously duly sworn, testified as follows:

18 CROSS-EXAMINATION

19 (Resumed)

20 By Ms. Lou:

21 Q. Good morning.

22 A. Good morning.

23 Q. On Friday, if you recall, I showed you an e-mail between 24 you and Nelly Petrosyan.

25 Do you recall that?

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. I can pull it up, but do you recall that e-mail was
3 dated, I believe, June 13th of 2018?

4 A. Yes.

5 Q. You dealt with Ms. Petrosyan and US Orthopedics Corp, her
6 company, after that time; correct?

7 A. Yes, I believe so.

8 Q. And you communicated with her, among other ways, using 9 theprudentgroup@gmail.com e-mail address?

10 A. I think it was primarily through text, and then Amman
11 handled that account, primarily.

12 Q. Theprudentgroup@gmail.com account?

13 A. Just Nelly in general.

14 Q. The account with US Orthopedics; is that what you're 15 saying?

16 A. Yes.

17 Q. I'm going to show you what's not been admitted into 18 evidence, marked for identification as Government Exhibit
19 4801.

20 MS. LOU: Just for the witness and the parties, please.

21 Q. Do you see this e-mail?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. Do you recognize it?

24 A. I don't recognize it exactly, no.

25 Q. Is it an e-mail between Ms. Petrosyan at US Ortho Group

1 and theprudentgroup@gmail.com?

2 A. Yes.

3 MS. LOU: Your Honor, I move to offer this e-mail into
4 evidence.

5 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, can we just scroll out. Is 6 this one page?

7 MS. LOU: Yes. This is the whole document.

8 MS. SOLANO: No objection.

9 THE COURT: Government Exhibit 4801 is admitted.

10 (Government's Exhibit No. 4801 was received in 11 evidence.)

12 BY MS. LOU:

13 Q. Looking at the second e-mail from Nelly Petrosyan, do you 14 see the date of that?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. That's June 20th, 2018. Correct?

17 A. Yes.

18 Q. Do you see where she writes (Reading:)

19 Raheel, I hope to see some clients coming over 20 tomorrow.

21 A. Yes.

22 Q. And the response from The Prudent Group e-mail,
23 June 21st, 2018.

24 Do you see that?

25 A. Yes.

1 Q. And it says (Reading:)

2 We just sent over your orders. Thanks.

3 A. Yes.

4 Q. Is there anywhere in this e-mail that mentions John Fusco
5 at all?

6 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

7 THE COURT: Basis?

8 MS. SOLANO: Speaks for itself.

9 THE COURT: Overruled.

10 THE WITNESS: No.

11 BY MS. LOU:

12 Q. You never told Nelly Petrosyan or US Orthopedics that 13 John Fusco was using this Prudent Group at Gmail.com address,
14 did you?

15 A. No, I probably told her Amman was using it. I don't know
16 about John.

17 Q. To your recollection, not John; is that right?

18 A. I don't think so.

19 MS. LOU: Thank you. You can take that down.

20 Q. On Friday, you said that you didn't profit from Elite
21 after February 1st of 2019; is that accurate?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. But before then, you did?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. And, in fact, there are wires that were sent to you at

1 your direction from the Elite bank account; is that accurate?

2 A. Yes.

3 Q. And that those wires totaled something like 8.75 million?

4 A. Probably around there. It was to my entity before any of 5 my expenses.

6 Q. And that's Raheel Naviwala, PA?

7 A. Yes.

8 Q. Again, you had directed John Fusco to send those wires.

9 Right?

10 A. Yes.

11 Q. Also on Friday -- withdrawn.

12 On Thursday, I believe you said that you ran into 13 Kareem for the first time in ten years before getting into the 14 DME business. Right?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. You said that he was driving a nice car?

17 A. Yes.

18 Q. And you asked what he was doing because you wanted to 19 know how he could afford such a nice car?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. And you jumped into that business with him because you
22 also wanted to make money?

23 A. He reached out to me about a business opportunity and 24 after doing a little bit of research it seemed appealing.

25 Q. You knew that he had prior experience in the call center

1 business with regard to pain creams; right?

2 A. With pharmacy for sure. I don't know if it was pain
3 creams exactly.

4 Q. And Kareem had told you that he left that pharmacy
5 business because of arrests being made?

6 A. No, not at that time.

7 Q. That's something he told you later on?

8 A. Way later on after all of this was over and I ran into 9 him, I expressed that I was very upset with him.

10 Q. You recall during Armani's testimony text messages
11 between you and Armani where Armani sent you a video of a
12 Ferrari he had purchased.

13 A. Yes.

14 Q. You were jealous of that Ferrari?

15 MS. SOLANO: Objection. 401, 403.

16 THE COURT: Sustained.

17 BY MS. LOU:

18 Q. At some point between 2017 and 2019, did you buy your own
19 Ferrari?

20 A. I did.

21 Q. And you also bought jewelry?

22 MS. SOLANO: Objection. 401, 403.

23 THE COURT: Overruled.

24 THE WITNESS: Yes.

25 MS. LOU: Mr. Klimaski, if you could pull up Government

1 Exhibit 6017d, like David, which is already in evidence,
2 page 45. Then we can zoom in on the front of the check,
3 please.

4 BY MS. LOU:

5 Q. This is the check from the Elite Healthcare Solutions
6 account; right?

7 A. Yes.

8 Q. It's dated 10/10/18?

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. It's a check to Babylon Jewelry; correct?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. For $39,390?

13 A. Yes.

14 Q. It's signed using John Fusco's stamp; right?

15 A. Looks like it, yes.

16 MS. LOU: If we could turn to the next page, please.

17 Q. Same thing, another check to Babylon Jewelry. I believe
18 it says 10/18/18 for $50,000?

19 THE COURT: Hold on a second.

20 MS. SOLANO: Objection. 401, 403.

21 THE COURT: Overruled.

22 THE WITNESS: Yes.

23 BY MS. LOU:

24 Q. Again, using John Fusco's stamp?

25 A. Looks like it, yes.

1 Q. That's the stamp that you had; right?

2 A. A few people had access to the stamp.

3 Q. On Friday, I believe you said that you had the stamp; is 4 that not accurate?

5 A. It was in our office but it was used by a few people.

6 Q. But in this case you signed this check using the stamp;
7 right?

8 A. I'm not sure if I was the one that actually did it but 9 I know about the transaction.

10 Q. In fact, there's a series of checks is --

11 MS. LOU: Mr. Klimaski, if you can scroll slowly. This 12 is page 46, I believe. Page 47, page 48, page 49, page 50, 13 51, 52.

14 Stop there for a second. Go back to 52.

15 Q. This is a check for $120,000 and this one is 16 November 28th, 2018; right?

17 MS. SOLANO: Objection. The way that it's just 18 compounded and narrative in its current form of the question.

19 THE COURT: Rephrase solely as to form.

20 BY MS. LOU:

21 Q. This is a check that we're looking on page 52 of 6017d
22 dated 11/28/18 to Babylon Jewelry; correct?

23 A. Yes.

24 Q. And for $120,150?

25 A. Yes.

1 Q. Also using John Fusco's stamp?

2 A. Looks like it.

3 Q. We had just looked at a series of checks all to Babylon

4 Jewelry; correct?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. All for the same roughly two-month time period?

7 A. Yeah, it looks like it. This would have all been

8 accurately reported on my financials.

9 MS. LOU: You can take that down. Thank you.

10 Q. You bought Rolexes for the people you worked with; right?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. Including Amman Majid; right?

13 A. Yes.

14 Q. John Fusco?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. And your brother?

17 A. Yes.

18 Q. But others, also?

19 A. Yes. Pretty much everybody on the Navtek team, because 20 I was trying to incentivize them to work as hard as possible.

21 Q. In December of 2017, you paid a $5,000 retainer to Brown

22 & Fortunato; correct?

23 A. Yes.

24 Q. You talked to Armani on the day that search warrants were 25 executed on his businesses in April 2019?

1 A. I don't know if they're search warrants. I know that his
2 bank accounts were frozen.

3 Q. You talked to him on that day?

4 A. He called me, yes.

5 Q. And you told him that it was your worst nightmare; right?

6 A. No, I don't recall saying that, actually. I just 7 remembered him laughing.

8 And that was, like: What are you laughing about?

9 And he was like: We didn't do anything wrong.

10 That's all I can remember.

11 Q. Didn't he say, I'm laughing instead of crying?

12 A. What's that?

13 Q. Didn't Armani say, I'm laughing so as not to cry?

14 A. No. All I remember was him saying we didn't do anything
15 wrong.

16 Q. But you were still selling completed doctors' orders on a
17 per-brace basis to Armani until his bank accounts were frozen
18 in April of 2019; right?

19 A. I told you I'm not a hundred percent sure after February.
20 A lot of changes were implemented in February so I'm not 21 exactly a hundred percent sure.

22 Q. But wires from Armani continued to come in from his 23 individual DME businesses past February as they had been 24 before; right?

25 A. Yes. It was just limited to I think four or five that

1 were consistently sending the same amounts weekly. And he
2 hired that quality control team, I mentioned.

3 Q. We talked on Friday about the reason why they were 4 consistently sending the same; it's because there was an
5 expectation as to the volume of business that you and Armani
6 would do; right?

7 A. Kind of. I mean, he was sending payments consistently
8 and I just remember that he was saying that I or we owed him a
9 lot of money at the same time but he was still sending 10 payments so... I'm not sure. That's why at the end of it I
11 think he said I owe him millions of dollars or something, but 12 he was consistently sending payments.

13 But, yeah, February, March is really like -- I can't 14 remember too much because I was so focused on Navtek.

15 Q. The consistent payments he was sending were for completed
16 doctors' orders; correct?

17 A. They would have involved completed doctors' orders, for 18 sure.

19 MS. LOU: Mr. Klimaski, you could please pull up
20 Government Exhibit 5404 which is in evidence, page 31, please.

21 Q. Do you see this?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. Is this a text message chain between you and Armani?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. And you see there at the bottom, March 12th, 2019?

1 A. Yes.

2 MS. LOU: If we could turn to the next page of this
3 exhibit, please.

4 Q. Do you understand this to be a continuation of the text
5 messages we saw on the prior page?

6 A. Yes.

7 Q. The bottom message above March 12th, 2019, at 9:45 p.m.?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. Do you see that?

10 A. Uh-huh.

11 Q. That's a message from you; right?

12 A. Yes.

13 Q. And it says: Got 2,000 elbows ready to go?

14 A. Yeah. I remember elbows and hip braces were two new 15 braces implemented on the software, and they weren't getting 16 caught in the system so that was, like, one of the glitches
17 I was referring to because we weren't used to those braces.

18 Q. But, again, this is because you're selling doctors'
19 orders for those braces to Armani; right?

20 A. I think he was supposed to get them. I don't know if -- 21 I doubt you see a $2,000 transaction. I'd be surprised but --
22 yeah, I mean, we always used it as a metric I guess, no matter
23 what, so...

24 Does that answer the question?

25 MS. LOU: Can we pull up Government Exhibit 6017i,

1 please, and scrolling to the statements in March of 2019. I'm
2 sorry I don't have the page.

3 129. Thank you.

4 If we could zoom in on the March 18 through all of the 5 incoming wire transfers, please.

6 Q. These are all wire transfers from Armani's individual DME
7 companies; right?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. It's for doctors' orders?

10 A. It would have been for doctors' orders and the services
11 we're providing, as well, as the intermediary.

12 MS. LOU: You can take that down. Thank you.

13 Q. What happened in April 2019 not just to Armani, scared
14 you; right?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. And John Fusco couldn't reach you a few days after he 17 received a subpoena?

18 A. I don't know when he received the subpoena. I don't know
19 if I was aware he couldn't reach me but that's what he said.

20 Q. And Michael Underdue couldn't reach you as well; right?

21 A. I'm not sure if he was trying to reach out to me.

22 Q. You went to meet Fusco several days after he received a
23 subpoena in front of his house; right?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. Michael Underdue was also there?

1 A. I don't think he was originally there but, like, maybe
2 like 5, 10 minutes into the meeting he pulled up in his car.

3 Q. And you were surprised that he showed up?

4 A. Not too surprised. I mean, all three of us were partners
5 in the Deerfield office so not too surprising.

6 Q. During that meeting, you told Fusco to get a lawyer;
7 right?

8 A. I don't know if I told him to get a lawyer or to, like,
9 be prepared to get a lawyer if anything was to happen.

10 Q. You told him to use the money in the Elite account to pay
11 the taxes on Elite.

12 A. Yes.

13 Q. And you told him not to rat you out.

14 A. I don't recall that.

15 Q. You were worried that you were next.

16 A. No.

17 Q. Did you keep tabs of who was arrested on the Department
18 of Justice website as arrests were being made in this?

19 A. I would look every so often.

20 Q. You were arrested, but not until March of 2023; right?

21 A. Yes, four years later.

22 Q. And after that time, you were voluntarily interviewed by 23 law enforcement agents?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. And you recall that you were interviewed at the U.S.

1 Attorney's Office on May 9th, 2023; right?

2 A. Yes.

3 Q. And you had two lawyers with you?

4 A. Yes.

5 Q. One in person and one virtually?

6 A. They were actually both there in person.

7 Q. That's Daniel Rashbaum and Jeff Marcus?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. Before the interview began, you were shown an agreement;
10 right?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. And that's an agreement called a proffer letter?

13 A. I believe so.

14 Q. And it's a contract with the Government that sets out the 15 ground rules on the interview; right?

16 A. Yes.

17 Q. And the agreement states in paragraph 1 that no
18 statements will be used against you in the Government's case
19 in chief.

20 Is that your recollection?

21 THE COURT: Hold on for a second.

22 MS. SOLANO: I object to counsel reading from a
23 document not in evidence.

24 THE COURT: Overruled.

25 THE WITNESS: What was the question?

1 MS. LOU: I'll withdraw the question.

2 Mr. Klimaski, can you please pull up what's been marked
3 for identification as Government Exhibit 8051.

4 Q. Is this that proffer letter?

5 A. Yes.

6 MS. LOU: If we could turn to the last page, please.

7 Q. Did you sign this proffer letter?

8 A. Yes.

9 MS. LOU: Your Honor, I move to admit Government
10 Exhibit 8051 into evidence.

11 MS. SOLANO: 401 and 403.

12 THE COURT: Sustained.

13 BY MS. LOU:

14 Q. Do you recall that the agreement said that any statements 15 you made during the interview wouldn't be used against you in 16 the Government's case in chief?

17 MS. SOLANO: Objection, assumes facts not in evidence.

18 THE COURT: Overruled.

19 THE WITNESS: I don't recall the specifics. I just 20 know that the attorney told me to sign off on it.

21 BY MS. LOU:

22 Q. Would it help to refresh your recollection if I showed 23 you the proffer letter?

24 A. Yeah, sure.

25 MS. LOU: If we could please pull up the agreement

1 again, please.

2 THE WITNESS: What number are you talking about?

3 MS. LOU: Paragraph 1. You can read that to yourself.

4 THE WITNESS: Yes.

5 BY MS. LOU:

6 Q. Does that refresh your recollection as to --

7 MS. LOU: You can take that down.

8 Q. -- as to whether, in the proffer letter, you agreed and 9 the Government agreed that no statements made by you during 10 the interview would be used against you in the Government's 11 case in chief?

12 MS. SOLANO: Objection. 401, 403.

13 THE COURT: Overruled.

14 THE WITNESS: Yes. I think there's more to it.

15 BY MS. LOU:

16 Q. In fact, there's an exception, right, that the Government
17 can use the statements against you during cross-examination?

18 Do you recall that in the letter?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. And you reviewed that agreement with your attorneys
21 before the interview started; right?

22 A. Briefly.

23 Q. And you've already said that you signed that agreement?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. And that you understood what it said; correct?

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. And so you knew that the Government could cross-examine 3 you with your statements if the case ever went to trial and 4 you testified; right?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. So, again, it was important to be accurate during that 7 interview?

8 A. Yes, I think so.

9 Q. Because you might some day be confronted with those 10 statements in court; right?

11 A. Yeah. I didn't think so at the time, but yes.

12 Q. That is the exact situation we're in today and Friday;
13 right?

14 MS. SOLANO: Objection. 401, and this is a statement,
15 not a question.

16 THE COURT: Sustained.

17 BY MS. LOU:

18 Q. You've been on cross-examination since Friday; is that 19 accurate?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. At the interview, you already said that you were 22 voluntarily interviewed by federal law enforcement agents, but 23 the federal prosecutor was also there; right?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. I'd like to go over some of the things you said during

1 this interview, during this proffer.

2 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

3 THE COURT: Basis?

4 MS. SOLANO: Can we have a sidebar, Your Honor?

5 THE COURT: There wasn't a question put yet.

6 MS. SOLANO: I believe she said she's going to go
7 through some of the statements. I have an objection to that 8 under the terms of the proffer.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Sidebar.

10 (Sidebar conference held on the record in the 11 presence of the Court and counsel.)

12 THE COURT: Objection?

13 MS. SOLANO: My objection is the scope of the proffer
14 is that the Government can use statements to rebut the 15 defendant, but there hasn't been any -- I have no idea what 16 she's going to ask.

17 THE COURT: But I have made a ruling that the door has 18 been opened. I imagine that Ms. Lou understands that that 19 which she can elicit here is subject to the ruling I have made
20 as to door-opening.

21 If she goes beyond it, then you'll have an objection
22 and, indeed, I would trust and hope that Ms. Lou, if she's 23 gonna go beyond my prior ruling, is gonna seek permission
24 outside of the hearing of the jury first.

25 Do I have that right, Ms. Lou?

1 MS. LOU: Actually, Your Honor, I'm glad we're
2 clarifying because I understood you were ruling as to the 3 door-opening to be our ability to use the proffer during our 4 case in chief.

5 Now that he has testified, I intend to impeach him with
6 statements from the proffer that are outside Your Honor's
7 ruling, but that directly contradict his testimony.

8 THE COURT: Can I see the proffer agreement?

9 MS. LOU: (Tendered document.)

10 THE COURT: Thanks.

11 (Brief pause.)

12 THE COURT: Okay. I appreciate that point, I see it.

13 What's your issue there?

14 MS. SOLANO: So --

15 THE COURT: It says it very directly. This says any 16 information provided by your client to cross-examine your 17 client and to rebut any evidence. Cross-examine your client.

18 MS. SOLANO: My only concern is that I have no idea
19 what she's going to ask.

20 THE COURT: But Ms. Lou has just made a pretty good
21 point, which I hadn't been focused on -- my fault -- that 22 there's two separate things in paragraph 4 of the May 9, 2023,
23 proffer agreement.

24 The second part, which has been the focus until now,
25 which has been to rebut any evidence or arguments, that's been

1 the focus of door-opening. But the prior piece is about using 2 his statements to cross-examine him.

3 What could be objectionable?

4 MS. SOLANO: Your Honor, I'm sorry. I'm trying to 5 look.

6 THE COURT: These are just separate prongs.

7 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: So I can't imagine there's an objection.

9 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor. I just -- she's going to 10 say that she's using the --

11 I'm sorry, thank you.

12 If she's going to say she's using it to impeach, then I
13 think that the proper process needs to go through with 14 impeachment instead of her just saying: You said all of these 15 statements.

16 THE COURT: We can take every question as it comes,
17 but -- we'll just take the questions as they come, but I
18 appreciate why and that you have, Ms. Solano, your objection
19 to this line, anything here being violative of the proffer
20 agreement. It's not. It's just being used to cross-examine 21 him.

22 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: We'll take objections as they come.

24 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right.

1 (Sidebar discussion is concluded.)

2 BY MS. LOU:

3 Q. A few minutes ago we were talking about your conversation
4 with Adams in April of 2019.

5 Do you recall that?

6 A. Yes.

7 Q. Then I asked you whether you told him it was your worst
8 nightmare.

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. Correct me if I'm wrong, but you said that you don't 11 recall saying that?

12 A. All I remember from that conversation was him telling me
13 that the accounts were frozen and he was laughing.

14 And I asked him: What are you laughing about?

15 And he said: We didn't do anything wrong.

16 Q. But after that time, after that conversation in April of 17 2019, everything ended; correct?

18 A. Yeah. I mean, in theory, we could have continued, but 19 I was, I guess just shooen up because everything was tailored 20 for him, and it would be difficult. I think the company did
21 continue for like a month because we built such a strong team.
22 We were trying to figure out how to move forward.

23 Q. But during our proffer, didn't you say that everything
24 ended when you received the phone call from Adams in April of 25 2019?

1 A. Everything ended, yeah, in the DME space, yes. I mean,
2 eventually nothing worked out and we dissolved it.

3 Q. And you had only perfected the software right before that
4 April 2019 time frame; right?

5 A. I said perfected, but I don't know if that's the right
6 word because we had more plans with it; but as far as getting 7 the bugs out so those glitches would stop.

8 Q. Underdue was not involved in the DME fraud; right?

9 A. Underdue? I mean, he wanted to be part of Parra, but 10 like I said, we stopped billing, so there was not really much 11 to be a part of.

12 Q. And you only used his name on the account and the 13 business?

14 A. He wanted to be a partner, and I think that he actually 15 ended up taking the entity on his own, and I saw that he 16 opened up another bank account without me.

17 Q. But in your proffer, you said that he didn't become a
18 part of Parra Health; right?

19 A. That's because there was nothing to become a part of.

20 Q. And that you only used his name. That's what you said
21 during your proffer; right?

22 A. I'm pretty sure that in my proffer I said that he wanted
23 a piece and he wanted Parra to be billing and he was kind of 24 disappointed. I don't think that part is in there, but he 25 wanted a piece of DME.

1 Q. You didn't say that during your proffer; right?

2 A. I did say that. There's some inconsistencies between the
3 302 you guys wrote up and the written notes. Maybe it's worth
4 looking at the written notes.

5 Q. But the report of the proffer doesn't say that; right?

6 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

7 THE COURT: Overruled.

8 THE WITNESS: There's actually a lot of inaccuracies
9 between the written notes and the typed report so...

10 You just stated how important it was for me to be 11 accurate in that interview. I could argue the same, that it
12 would be really important to be accurate from the written
13 notes to the written report.

14 MS. LOU: Your Honor, move to strike the witness's
15 commentary about the accuracy.

16 THE COURT: The motion is granted.

17 Mr. Naviwala, when a question is put to you, answer the 18 question that was put to you. Okay?

19 THE WITNESS: Okay.

20 THE COURT: Continue.

21 BY MS. LOU:

22 Q. You knew that receiving kickbacks for doctors' orders on 23 a per-brace basis was illegal; right?

24 A. At a certain point, definitely not in the beginning.

25 Q. But you continued to, even after knowing that point,

1 receive kickbacks for doctors' orders while knowing it was 2 illegal; right?

3 A. Yes, while I was building the software, between when I
4 went to Armani and told him I wanted out and before the 5 software was live.

6 Q. But while you were building the software, you continued
7 to receive kickbacks for doctors' orders on a per-brace basis?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. And you worked with the Alberinos; correct?

10 A. Yes.

11 Q. And their company was Atlantic Power & Gas?

12 A. That was one of them.

13 Q. And that was shortened to APGE on some documents.

14 Do you recall that?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. And you had a straight kickback arrangement with them;
17 right?

18 A. Yes. But I would also -- the way Armani made it seem 19 legit was if you change the prices every quarter, so I would 20 do that with him too.

21 Q. Even when you changed the prices, that was still a
22 kickback arrangement; right?

23 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

24 THE COURT: Basis?

25 MS. SOLANO: Calls for speculation.

1 THE COURT: Overruled.

2 THE WITNESS: What was that? Sorry.

3 BY MS. LOU:

4 Q. Even when Armani would change the prices quoting, that 5 was still a kickback arrangement; right?

6 A. Yes, I learned later. Like I said, eventually he was put 7 on flat fee.

8 Q. While you were at Elite, I believe you testified on 9 Friday that you were acting as a broker during that time;
10 right?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. While you were acting as a broker at Elite, you were 13 still profiting from the difference between what Armani paid
14 you and then what you were paying to the Alberinos; right?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. Going back to your time at Prudent, you were surprised
17 that all the leads that Prudent submitted to RediDoc went 18 through; right?

19 A. I don't know if it was actually all the leads, but my 20 experience with them compared to the previous two 21 telemedicines that we were using, it was a much better
22 conversion rate.

23 Q. You said that that was crazy; right?

24 A. I mean, just based off of my limited experience before.
25 I was only in the industry for a few months and only dealt

1 with two other telemedicines and they weren't converting or 2 turning around as quick as RediDoc would.

3 Q. But just based on your experience at the time, it
4 appeared to you that RediDoc was both turning them around
5 quickly and you were getting a very high percentage of 6 completed signed doctors' orders; correct?

7 A. In comparison to the other two telemedicines, yes.

8 Q. Mr. Naviwala, you've been charged with crimes. That's 9 why you're here; correct?

10 A. Yes.

11 Q. Being charged criminally is very serious?

12 A. Yes.

13 Q. You're testifying here in your defense; right?

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. And you're claiming your innocence; is that accurate?

16 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

17 THE COURT: Basis.

18 MS. SOLANO: It's assuming facts not in evidence.

19 THE COURT: Sustained.

20 BY MS. LOU:

21 Q. You're testifying here in the hopes of not being found
22 guilty; is that accurate?

23 A. Yes.

24 Q. And so you would say anything to try to prove that you
25 are not guilty?

1 A. No. You have my proffer.

2 Q. You've been present throughout this trial; right?

3 A. Yes.

4 Q. And you've been paying close attention?

5 A. Been trying to. It's been quite exhausting.

6 Q. And you heard Haas testify that she committed conspiracy
7 to commit health care fraud; right?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. And you heard Ken Pitter testify that he committed crimes
10 with you; right?

11 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

12 THE COURT: Basis.

13 MS. SOLANO: 401 and 403 and to...

14 THE COURT: Overruled.

15 THE WITNESS: What was the question again?

16 BY MS. LOU:

17 Q. You heard Ken Pitter testify that he committed crimes
18 with you; right?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. And you heard Armani Adams testify that he committed
21 crimes with you; right?

22 A. Yes. I can't remember how much knowledge they said I had 23 of everything at the time but, yes, that's what they're saying
24 so they could get reduced sentences.

25 Q. Same thing you heard Kareem Memon testify that he

1 committed crimes with you; right?

2 A. Yes.

3 Q. And you heard Nadia Levit testify that she committed
4 crimes with you; right?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. And you heard David Laughlin testify that he committed
7 crimes with you; right?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. You heard some of those individuals I just named testify
10 about conversations they said they had with you; right?

11 MS. SOLANO: Objection. 401 and 403.

12 THE COURT: Overruled.

13 THE WITNESS: Yes. They were all, already been 14 indicted and have much bigger roles in all of this.

15 MS. LOU: Your Honor, move to strike as not responsive.

16 THE COURT: Overruled. Motion denied.

17 Continue, please.

18 BY MS. LOU:

19 Q. You heard some of them testify about text messages,
20 e-mails they exchanged with you; right?

21 A. Yes.

22 Q. You saw some of those texts and e-mails up on the screen;
23 right?

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. And admitted into evidence?

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. You heard each of these people testify that as part of 3 their cooperation agreements with the Government they were 4 required to tell the truth; correct?

5 MS. SOLANO: Objection. 401, 403, and counsel is just 6 making statements.

7 THE COURT: Sustained.

8 BY MS. LOU:

9 Q. Is it your testimony that all of these individuals lied
10 when they said they committed crimes with you?

11 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

12 THE COURT: Overruled.

13 THE WITNESS: What was the question?

14 BY MS. LOU:

15 Q. Is it your testimony that all of these people lied when 16 they said they were committing crimes with you?

17 A. I think I have a different answer for each of them, but 18 did all of them lie?

19 I mean, am I supposed to go through each one and tell
20 you what my perspective is on each?

21 Q. I'm just asking a yes-or-no question.

22 MS. SOLANO: Objection.

23 THE COURT: Overruled.

24 THE WITNESS: Yeah, sure. Ken lied about ever talking
25 to me about compliance or telling me anything was wrong.

1 Kareem was the worst of this whole thing. He is just
2 lying, like -- I was shocked. I was thrown back by some of 3 that stuff.

4 MS. LOU: I'm sorry. Again, I just answered [sic] a
5 yes-or-no question.

6 THE COURT: No, no. There's no cutting off the witness
7 while he's speaking.

8 MS. LOU: I apologize, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Continue.

10 THE WITNESS: I'm trying to think of Armani because he 11 was the biggest one that I did business with. I can't recall
12 exactly. I can't pinpoint it.

13 But, yeah, I could say that everybody had their own
14 motive and I know what I was going up against and you guys --
15 this has been going on for two years and I gave you my proffer
16 statement and you produced 10 million documents against me and 17 I'm still here.

18 MS. LOU: Your Honor, no further questions.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 Redirect, if any.

21 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

22 By Ms. Solano:

23 Q. Good morning, Raheel.

24 A. Good morning, Jamie.

25 Q. Just to be clear, Raheel, you and I have not spoken about

1 your testimony since you were in front of this jury last week;
2 right?

3 A. Yes. That's correct.

4 THE COURT: Is there an objection?

5 MS. LOU: No, Your Honor. I'm sorry. I was reaching.

6 THE COURT: Continue.

7 BY MS. SOLANO:

8 Q. I believe the last question you said you didn't remember
9 about Armani.

10 Did you and Armani work on the Navtek software
11 together?

12 A. Yes.

13 Q. And how extensively?

14 A. Well, I mean, it was tailored to him so as much as we 15 needed to talk to him to get all his input and guidance. I
16 mean, he wasn't working day to day building it, but whenever 17 we needed more input, he would always give it to us.

18 Q. How often did that happen?

19 A. Maybe every week almost.

20 Q. And at the time that you were arrested, you were charged
21 with an Anti-Kickback Statute charge; is that your 22 understanding?

23 A. Yes.

24 Q. That was the same when you proffered with all of the 25 people from the U.S. Government?

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. And, Raheel, I think you mentioned you received a lot of 3 discovery through the course of this case; is that right?

4 A. Tons, tons. I don't even know how much. It's like 5 terabytes.

6 Q. Did you come to learn things through reviewing that 7 discovery that you didn't know in the time period of 2017 to 8 2019?

9 A. Yes, of course.

10 Q. Ms. Lou asked you -- there were questions about you not 11 speaking to Mr. Fusco and a subpoena.

12 Do you remember those questions?

13 A. Yes.

14 Q. A subpoena asks you to do something; is that right?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. You have to respond to the subpoena?

17 A. Yes.

18 MS. LOU: Objection.

19 THE COURT: Basis.

20 MS. LOU: Assumes facts not in evidence.

21 THE COURT: Overruled.

22 BY MS. SOLANO:

23 Q. And so at the time when you're having this conversation
24 with Mr. Fusco, you knew he was going to have to do something
25 in response to that subpoena; is that fair?

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. Raheel, you were asked about RediDoc.

3 At the time you were working with RediDoc, did you
4 think the doctors were actually contacting patients?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. You were asked last week about some of the software and 7 processes that you put in place over time.

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. Elite also had software and processes in place; right?

10 A. Yes. Almost all of them -- almost all of the same.

11 Q. Just so everyone is clear, Elite had software and then
12 Navtek was software?

13 A. Yes, because Elite was -- we were trying to do a 14 management company at first and then realized it wasn't really 15 gonna be feasible, but we already implemented all these 16 processes; so after talking to Armani's attorney, we figured 17 starting the entity from scratch that was just software was 18 the best way to go.

19 Q. Raheel, last week you were shown an org chart.

20 Do you remember that?

21 A. Yes.

22 Q. Do you recall reviewing that org chart before it was
23 submitted to Medicare?

24 A. No, I don't recall -- I don't remember any of those 25 documents, really. It was just, like, telling me to sign.

1 Q. Did you have any firsthand knowledge of if that document
2 was even sent to Medicare?

3 A. No. I don't know if it was even -- if they even required
4 that to be sent. I don't know if it was for that or Pam
5 created it for some other reason. I don't know.

6 Q. Raheel, is there anything else you want to tell the jury?

7 A. Yes. I truly did everything I could to be compliant.

8 Being up here, I admitted that I was violating an 9 Anti-Kickback Statute for some time and I was trying my best
10 to be compliant.

11 I even wanted to get out of the industry and Armani
12 encouraged me to do the software. I wasn't even thinking
13 about profits once we got to Navtek. I was trying to spoil my 14 team because -- to try to work hard. I was really embracing 15 Navtek.

16 It was all about processes and really -- I really
17 thought what we were doing was good. I mean, we were really 18 trying to ensure that patients wanted these things and they 19 were high quality.

20 Like, all the criteria. If you just saw all the rules 21 we put in place, like we were really -- the chargebacks we 22 earned, an analysis said that it went from 40 percent to 4
23 percent, and we blocked over $50 million of prescriptions to 24 go through the DME.

25 So I never understood that any of this could be fraud

1 and that's why I'm up here, fighting for my life.

2 MS. SOLANO: No further questions.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Further cross-examination, if any?

4 MS. LOU: Just very briefly, Your Honor.

5 RECROSS-EXAMINATION

6 By Ms. Lou:

7 Q. I want to clarify one thing.

8 While you were developing the software, you continued
9 to sell doctors' orders on a per-brace basis; right?

10 A. I know we switched to flat fee with Nick, and I can't 11 remember really February, March. It's -- it's in my proffer, 12 too.

13 Q. But on Friday, you testified that you started developing 14 the software as early as April of 2018; right?

15 A. The initial phase of trying to get analytics down and 16 processes down.

17 Q. And the software developing ramped up more fulsomely in 18 the fall of 2018; right?

19 A. Yes, after I met with Armani.

20 Q. And during that time -- in the spring of 2018, summer of 21 2018, fall of 2019 -- you continued in the DME business and 22 continued -- excuse me -- withdrawn.

23 You continued in the DME business during that time;
24 right?

25 A. Yes, but I didn't just always know what was wrong. I was

1 learning more and more, and I was relying on guidance from 2 maybe the wrong people.

3 Q. Wasn't it your testimony on Friday that, as of April
4 2018, you knew that what you were doing was illegal?

5 A. As of April 2018, I knew that the structure with Prudent
6 was not right, was, yeah, illegal. That's why we switched.
7 Instead of doing marketing ourselves and having a DME and 8 billing Medicare ourselves, we transitioned to being a broker
9 so we weren't a marketer and we weren't a DME either.

10 Q. But wasn't one of the things that you understood to be 11 illegal was selling doctors' orders in exchange for money that 12 was paid on a per-brace basis?

13 A. Not exactly at that point. I think we were -- that's 14 what we were trying to strive for and that's why I hired all 15 these expensive consultants and analytics teams to try to get 16 that down and people committed, and eventually I realized that 17 it wasn't even feasible.

18 Q. In that time that you were trying to do it, you still 19 continued to run the business in the way that you had been;
20 right? Selling doctors' orders on a per-brace basis.

21 MS. SOLANO: Objection to the form of the question.

22 THE COURT: Overruled.

23 THE WITNESS: Well, the marketers would front us the 24 leads, so I wasn't really buying them and the DMEs were 25 fronting us the cash, though. They weren't really just buying

1 them either.

2 But, yeah, I mean, I admit that it was wrong. I mean,
3 I'm seeing it now, especially with the AKS, but I never knew
4 that this could have anything to do with fraud. I never,
5 never had that understanding, ever.

6 MS. LOU: No further questions, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Any redirect?

8 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Mr. Naviwala, you're excused. You can go
10 back to your spot.

11 (The witness is excused.)

12 THE COURT: Ms. Solano?

13 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor. I just need to 14 read out a revised stipulation quickly.

15 THE COURT: Do you want to do it from there so it's 16 more easily heard?

17 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 With Your Honor's permission, I'll just read the 19 revised portion and note for the record that the revised 20 stipulation one will be what we're offering to the --

21 THE COURT: I think that works.

22 MS. SOLANO: Paragraph 3, Stipulation 1.

23 (Reading:)

24 If called to testify, an FBI special agent
25 would testify to having interviewed Frank Pringle

1 over the phone on January 2nd, 2024.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

3 MS. SOLANO: The defense rests.

4 THE COURT: Is there anything further from the 5 United States?

6 MS. LOU: No, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: So the United States rests?

8 MS. LOU: Yes, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: We'll talk at sidebar in a minute.

10 Let me just tell you where we are in the process.

11 There are four things left to do in terms of what I set 12 out for you in the beginning. The last of them is your 13 verdict, and just before that is your deliberations, and just 14 before that is arguments from the United States in its main
15 summation, and then from the defendant in his main summation.

16 And then, you'll remember, that the United States gets 17 an extra rebuttal summation because it has the burden of 18 proof. Then before that are my legal instructions to you.

19 Now, if you look around at the legal tables, you'll 20 notice that from each side there's a missing lawyer. The 21 reason there's a missing lawyer is I have been working with 22 the lawyers this morning, and at other times we have been 23 here, to put together the legal instructions. And they're 24 being finally stitched together, just kind of in terms of the 25 final changes that I've made to them so that they're all put

1 together.

2 The legal instructions are a little strange. They're
3 not going to be me talking to you. They're gonna be me
4 reading to you.

5 The reason I'm gonna be reading them to you is that 6 they're the same from courthouse to courthouse, from judge to 7 judge. The law is bigger than this room. It's bigger than 8 me. It's standard. It's the same law that applies in every 9 similar case.

10 So they're gonna finish putting together those -- 11 they're really just collating at this point. They're gonna 12 finish putting it together. When they're back, while you're 13 on a break, what I'll do is I'll have it here and when you
14 come back, I'll read it to you.

15 Before we get to that, there's one limiting instruction
16 that I'm also going to read to you that I want to give you,
17 and then I just have that in front of me so I'll read it to 18 you right now. Okay?

19 Here is the limiting instruction:

20 You have heard testimony from certain witnesses during 21 this trial about their understanding of the various rules and 22 requirements of Medicare. That testimony, other than from 23 Stephen Quindoza, who is a witness from toward the beginning
24 of the trial, was introduced for a limited purpose.

25 The limited purpose was explaining those witnesses'

1 understanding of the rules and requirements, not to prove the 2 truth of what those rules and requirements were. You're not
3 permitted to infer anything about the content of Medicare
4 rules and regulations from what those witnesses said.

5 As you know, the Medicare rules and regulations in 6 place in one year may have been different from the ones that 7 were in place in another year.

8 Stephen Quindoza, who I mentioned a moment ago, he's 9 different. He testified directly about various statutes and 10 regulations related to Medicare.

11 Among those was 42 CFR -- that means Code of Federal 12 Regulations -- Section 410.38, which is called "Durable 13 Medical Equipment, Scope and Conditions," and that's the 14 regulation that sets out the circumstances under which 15 Medicare Part B, which Mr. Quindoza testified about as well, 16 pays for durable medical equipment, which we all know from 17 this trial is known as DME.

18 This regulation was admitted into evidence and it was 19 admitted as Defense Exhibit 9068.

20 I instruct you that 42 CFR Section 410.38 -- that's the 21 code of federal regulation we've been talking about -- was the 22 Medicare regulation applicable to the reimbursement of durable
23 medical equipment from 2017 through to 2019.

24 During his direct examination, Mr. Quindoza testified,
25 at one point that, under that regulation, a doctor cannot make

1 a determination of medical necessity for DME in the absence of
2 an in-person visit or a valid telehealth visit. That
3 testimony was inaccurate as applied to the DME that's at issue
4 in this case.

5 Under 42 CFR 410.38, the regulations we have just now
6 mentioned a couple times, the requirement that a doctor have 7 an in-person visit or a valid telehealth visit before
8 prescribing applied to only certain types of DME and did not 9 apply to the particular braces at issue in this case.

10 I instruct you to disregard entirely and completely any 11 suggestion from Mr. Quindoza that, as to the braces at issue
12 here, a medical necessity determination could be made only 13 based on an in-person visit with a treating physician or a 14 valid telehealth visit with a treating physician. Put that 15 out of your mind in your deliberations. Don't rely on it.

16 So that's one little instruction. All of my 17 instructions are equally important.

18 What we're gonna do now is we're gonna take a short 19 break. The break is gonna be long enough for me to get the 20 collated papers back, just to look through them a final time
21 myself and make sure they reflect the law that I have set down
22 and I've asked the parties to collate, as I said, for me.

23 And then when that's done, what's gonna happen is we're 24 gonna ask you to come back, I'll communicate with you through 25 my courtroom deputy as always, and I will read you those

1 instructions. They can take a long time.

2 As I said at the outset, it's not a memory game. When
3 you go back to deliberate, I'm going to send back with you a
4 few copies of the instructions so you can have them. Some 5 people process things a little better from hearing, some 6 through looking, so I'm going to read them, but you'll also 7 have copies in there.

8 At the close of those instructions, as I mentioned, we 9 will hear the arguments from the lawyers; and at the close of 10 that, you will get the case; and after that, we'll get your 11 verdict.

12 So let's all please rise for the jury as they take 13 their recess.

14 (Jury leaves the courtroom at 12:12 p.m.)

15 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held
16 outside the presence of the jury:)

17 THE COURT: The jurors have left, the door is closed.
18 Let's all be seated.

19 Ms. Solano, you have an application?

20 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. We would reiterate our 21 Rule 29 motion with respect to all counts. I believe that 22 there's insufficient evidence beyond a reasonable doubt.

23 There is no evidence that there was one large
24 conspiracy. Instead, there was evidence of multiple 25 conspiracies with no interdependence amongst the different

1 business owners and across the different business units.

2 There was also insufficiency of evidence with intent to 3 defraud, and insufficient evidence of not medically necessary,
4 insufficient evidence regarding an intent to defraud, and we
5 believe there was insufficient evidence to support venue for 6 the substantive charges; and in addition, Your Honor, we would 7 say that venue over the AKS counts, there's a constitutional
8 venue deficiency.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 For the United States, your preference is as before,
11 for me to reserve on this decision pending the jury's verdict?

12 MR. SPECHT: Yes, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, I assume there's no objection
14 to my doing that?

15 MS. SOLANO: No objection.

16 THE COURT: I will reserve decision.

17 Ms. Lou, anything else?

18 MS. LOU: I wanted to give you an update, Your Honor, 19 on the status of the jury instructions. They have been 20 finalized. I understand two copies have successfully made its 21 way out of the printer. We're just waiting on a third.

22 THE COURT: My courtroom deputy will grab them when 23 they're here and I'll take a look at them for a few minutes.

24 If you all please could take a look at them. I
25 understand there's a frantic process at the end of pulling

1 them together, but it's worth spending an extra five minutes
2 for both parties to read them through and make sure that the 3 work that the two lawyers have done together, one from each
4 side outside of the room working together on this, so it seems
5 obvious that what I'm going to get is fine, but it's worth
6 spending those extra five minutes, and then I'll come out and 7 we'll read them.

8 Anything else?

9 MS. LOU: No, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, for yourself?

11 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: We'll see each other soon. Thank you.

13 THE DEPUTY CLERK: All rise.

14 (Recess taken.)

15 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held
16 outside the presence of the jury:)

17 THE DEPUTY CLERK: All rise.

18 THE COURT: Let's have a seat, please. I understand
19 there's an issue with what's been passed to me.

20 What's the issue?

21 MR. WEBMAN: So we previewed this with you this 22 morning, Your Honor. We didn't fully carry it out when we 23 went back together, which is that in between the version that 24 I sent to Your Honor that we reviewed together on Friday and 25 this morning there were other changes that had been agreed to,

1 but when Ms. Brown submitted her proposed instruction, that
2 version was based on the version I submitted to Your Honor on 3 Friday, so it was missing some of the changes that were 4 already agreed to.

5 Then when we were organizing everything, we lost sight
6 of that. We are right now working to find what those things 7 are.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Sounds good. First, do it as 9 quickly as humanly can.

10 Second of all, I need to see those changes. So however
11 you're doing it, it has to be in a way that I can look at them
12 and -- look at them.

13 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, I'm doing it right now in 14 track changes here. I'll print you that version. Once Your 15 Honor has signed off on everything, I'll clean it up.

16 THE COURT: How long is that going to take?

17 MS. SOLANO: Just so I understand, you're taking the 18 document that you guys filed with the Court last night.
19 Right?

20 THE COURT: I understand what's being said. Let me
21 restate it.

22 MS. SOLANO: Okay.

23 THE COURT: On Friday, a document was filed that was 24 the subject of a very long conversation. Then over the 25 weekend apparently the parties came to further tweaks on that.

1 And to compare a document that was provided last night by the 2 defense and was the subject of today's discussion compared
3 last night's, that is to say February 23rd's, jury
4 instructions as filed by the defendant to the February 21st
5 jury instructions as filed by the United States.

6 Because of that, there are some agreed-upon changes
7 over the weekend that it was both parties' intention to 8 reflect in the final jury instructions but did not make it
9 through.

10 What Mr. Webman has indicated is that the parties are 11 now acting quickly to get that in front of me so I can pass
12 off on the incremental changes.

13 Do I have that right, Mr. Webman?

14 MR. WEBMAN: Absolutely, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, good?

16 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: I will come back as soon as you are ready
18 for me to look at any track changes.

19 How long do we think that will be?

20 MR. WEBMAN: I'm afraid to promise something without --

21 THE COURT: And yet, and yet, and yet, what's our best
22 guess?

23 MR. WEBMAN: I would love for it to be a half hour,
24 Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Half hour is a lot of time.

1 MR. WEBMAN: We're hustling.

2 THE COURT: How big are these changes?

3 MR. WEBMAN: I want to be sure we're not doing many 4 iterations of this. I want to be very careful with it.

5 THE COURT: Me too. We have a lot of human beings who 6 are waiting.

7 MR. WEBMAN: I understand, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Half hour is a little too much time for a
9 task this straightforward. Between Friday and Sunday night I
10 can't imagine there are so many changes, so let's be as fast
11 as we really can.

12 MR. WEBMAN: Absolutely.

13 THE COURT: I will come back to look at a track changes
14 document the second you all have it. Thank you all.

15 (The following proceedings were held in open court
16 outside the presence of the jury:)

17 THE COURT: Have a seat, everyone. Have a seat. We're 18 back on the record.

19 I have just come out. The assistant United States
20 attorneys are largely present, the defendant is present, his 21 attorneys are all present.

22 So I have just been passed a hard copy document.

23 Is that the document that reflects all of the parties
24 agreed-upon changes, Mr. Webman?

25 MR. WEBMAN: From the Government's perspective, yes.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. SOLANO: Yes.

3 THE COURT: I'm just gonna look through it for a
4 minute.

5 (Brief pause.)

6 THE COURT: What is at page 34? It looks like a brand
7 new request or is that just an artifact of that?

8 (Off-the-record discussion.)

9 THE COURT: Page 34, request 22.

10 MR. WEBMAN: Your Honor, that was just -- the parties
11 agreed that it made sense to move up the single multiple 12 conspiracies --

13 THE COURT: It's just moved to a different spot.

14 MR. WEBMAN: Yes.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Thanks.

16 (Brief pause.)

17 THE COURT: We can get the jury. We're ready to roll.

18 Mr. Webman, I'm gonna direct you, please, to file today
19 the document that's been passed up to me that we have been 20 discussing here in the last three minutes so that there is a
21 record of what we have been talking about.

22 MR. WEBMAN: Absolutely, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: And then after that, to file a separate 24 document with a one-sentence cover letter that explains what 25 it is that accepts these changes and changes the word

1 "request" to the word "instruction" throughout.

2 MR. WEBMAN: Two other questions, Your Honor. For that
3 final, one is, I know it's the defendant's preference and I
4 think the Government agrees to taking out the legal 5 references.

6 THE COURT: Sorry, of course. A hundred percent of 7 course. My apologies. I should have said that.

8 MR. WEBMAN: So with the version that's clean that 9 changes request to instruct -- instruction.

10 One other thing, I noticed a typographical error as 11 I was reading through just now. The places where it says
12 "renumeration" it should say "remuneration."

13 THE COURT: I think that's it. In the removal --
14 folks, let's take this down. I'm doing the jury instruction.
15 Thank you.

16 When we have -- you're removing the below the header
17 legal points, also remove the word "Pinkerton liability" from 18 the heading. It's also a legal concept that has no place in 19 it.

20 MS. SOLANO: I don't have any applications. I just 21 want to make sure that the record is clear. The entirety of 22 the requested relief in my motion in limine, you have elected
23 to deny.

24 THE COURT: Which motion in limine?

25 MS. SOLANO: The application regarding the arguments

1 involving any of the --

2 THE COURT: I think the record is what it is. I mean,
3 are you saying there are any open motions, in your judgment?

4 MS. SOLANO: I don't. I'm just trying to make clear
5 that there's not some open motion carried through this. It's 6 my understanding that it was resolved by Your Honor's ruling
7 this morning.

8 THE COURT: You think there's a motion you've made that 9 I haven't spoken to and ruled on?

10 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor. That's all I'm trying to 11 make clear.

12 THE COURT: How would you characterize the motion in 13 limine you're just mentioning now?

14 MS. SOLANO: It was a motion in limine to preclude the 15 Government from proceeding forward with the theory of medical 16 necessity and/or any reliance on standards or regulations
17 involving Medicare.

18 THE COURT: The motion in limine was denied -- was 19 addressed and has been ruled upon. Calling it denied or not,
20 the motion in limine was addressed and ruled upon, and it was 21 addressed in part because the United States made certain 22 strong representations about what would not come up in the 23 closing and there was curative instructions.

24 And so the motion was, after all of those things, there
25 was very little, if anything, even left of the motion.

1 The first part of your sentence -- whatever is left of 2 that motion is denied, but the first part of your sentence
3 suggested that you moved in limine to prevent the 4 United States from arguing -- you moved in limine to prevent
5 the United States arguing from lack of medical necessity. I
6 don't think you argued that.

7 MS. SOLANO: I stand by whatever are in the papers,
8 Your Honor. I just wanted to clarify. My understanding is 9 consistent with everything you're saying, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: All right. So I think we can move on.

11 The motion as to arguing from violations of rules and 12 regs has been addressed in part by the United States'
13 representations, in part by the limiting instructions that 14 have been given.

15 If there's anything left of those, I denied it based in 16 part as I described, on a close reading of the jury record
17 including other evidence and also of the opening. I don't 18 think this case was argued in a certain way. It came in a 19 certain way as to Mr. Quindoza but not in a way that was 20 otherwise meaningful let alone -- that was otherwise
21 meaningful.

22 I didn't hear a motion that was separate from that as 23 to preventing the United States from arguing that there is a 24 lack of medical necessity here, but I would have denied that 25 of course.

1 Anything else?

2 MS. SOLANO: The defendant is requesting that the words
3 of the limiting instruction that you gave the jury on the 4 regs, that that be printed and included with the rest of the 5 instructions. It's my understanding the Government has no
6 objection.

7 THE COURT: That makes sense to me. We should do that.

8 MS. SOLANO: Thank you, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Anything else?

10 MS. SOLANO: No.

11 THE COURT: We should get the jury.

12 THE DEPUTY CLERK: All rise.

13 (Jury enters the courtroom at 1:46 p.m.)

14 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held in 15 the presence of the jury:)

16 THE COURT: Let's all please have a seat. Members of 17 the jury are back. That took a little longer than we 18 expected. I'm sorry that it did but it sometimes happens.

19 As I told you, I'm going to be reading the jury
20 instructions and explained to you before why. I just want to 21 say it again.

22 Part of the integrity of our system is that the law is 23 bigger than any courtroom, any judge, any courthouse, and so
24 there are standardized parts of the law. We want to make sure
25 we're giving you the standard instructions that juries hear

1 when cases that raise these particular issues, that charge
2 these particular counts come up.

3 I don't drink during the day, I don't mean drink -- I
4 don't drink coffee or water when we're sitting together
5 because I want to be sympathetic to all of you because you are 6 sitting there, but I have water this time. I have water
7 because this is a whole lot of reading and it's a whole lot of 8 listening as well, but I hope you'll forgive me in advance
9 when I take a sip of water.

10 Again, just to remind you, not a memory trick. When 11 you go back to deliberate, you'll have multiple copies.

12 So here is where we are:

13 You have seen and heard all of the evidence, and you're 14 soon gonna hear the arguments from the lawyers, and I'm gonna
15 tell you about the instructions on the law.

16 You have two duties as a jury. The first is to decide
17 the facts from the evidence that you have heard and that 18 you've seen in court during this trial. That is your job, 19 it is entirely your job alone. I don't play any part in 20 finding the facts.

21 And as part of that, it's important for you to 22 understand that you shouldn't take anything that I've said or 23 done during the trial as indicating, as suggesting anything
24 about what the -- what I think the evidence is, what I think 25 the facts should be drawn from the evidence is, or what your

1 verdict should be. That's not my role and you shouldn't take
2 anything at all from how you've seen me.

3 The second duty you have is to apply the law that I
4 give you to the facts and what I'm gonna do now is I'm gonna
5 explain that law to you that's gonna guide your decision.

6 You have to apply the instructions that I'm going to 7 give you carefully and entirely faithfully. Each of these 8 instructions is important, and you have to apply all of them.
9 You cannot substitute -- as we talked about from the 10 beginning, you can't substitute or follow your own ideas or 11 notions or opinions about what the law is or ought to be. You
12 have to apply the law as I give it to you, whether you agree
13 with a piece of it or all of it or not.

14 Whatever your verdict is, it's going to have to be 15 unanimous. All of you are going to have to agree on it or 16 there's just going to be no verdict.

17 In the jury room, the jurors are going to discuss the 18 case amongst themselves, but ultimately each juror has to make 19 up his or her own mind. That's a responsibility that every 20 juror has and it's a responsibility nobody can avoid.

21 During your deliberations, you can't communicate with 22 or provide any information to anyone about anything about the 23 case, and you can't use, during your deliberations, any 24 electronic device like a phone or the Internet or anything
25 like that.

1 You can't communicate to anyone about this case. You
2 can't talk to anyone about this case. You can't, of course,
3 do research about the case until you're done with your
4 deliberations, you've come back in with your verdict, and I
5 have accepted it.

6 In other words, the same rules we have talked about 7 from the beginning continue to apply. You just can't talk to 8 anyone at all about the case except, once you're in the jury
9 room, you can talk to each other. You can't talk to anyone
10 else and you can't communicate about that case with anyone
11 outside. You can only discuss the case with other jurors and 12 in the jury room so that you're all doing it together.

13 As I said, you can't do any investigation. You've 14 known that from the very beginning of the case and you know
15 the reasons for this: it's because you all have seen the same
16 evidence, you all have seen the same witnesses, and you've all 17 -- shortly will have heard all the same legal instructions and 18 lawyers' arguments, and no one else but you-all will have done
19 all those things.

20 You have to perform your duties fairly and impartially.
21 That means not allowing sympathy or prejudice or fear or what 22 you perceive public opinion might be to influence you, and you
23 of course cannot be and will not be influenced by a person's 24 race or gender or color or religion or national ancestry or 25 ethnicity or anything like that; not occupation, not position

1 in life, none of it. You can't do it and you won't do it.

2 Okay. You have to make your decision here based on
3 only the evidence that you saw and heard. Suspicions, rumors,
4 guts, anything else that you have seen or heard outside of the 5 courtroom, don't let it influence your decision here.

6 Here is the evidence and I think you all know this very 7 well, but I want to say it. The evidence here is the 8 testimony of the witnesses from that box when they were sworn;
9 things that I have admitted as exhibits, virtually all of that 10 here is documents, but there are some other things, as well,
11 like the paper bag, the Kohl's bag that had some things. And 12 then any facts or testimony that was stipulated, there was a
13 little bit of that at the end of the case, you'll recall.

14 What's not evidence? Everything else. The indictment,
15 which you'll see, is not evidence; the arguments from the 16 lawyers is not evidence; their questions are not evidence; the 17 statements that sometimes are built into questions are not 18 evidence.

19 Questions that I might have asked wouldn't be evidence,
20 but I don't know if I asked any questions here. Maybe I did
21 once or twice, but that's not evidence, either.

22 Objections from the lawyers are not evidence. Any 23 testimony that I told you to -- that I granted a motion to 24 strike on, that I told you to disregard, none of that is 25 evidence, either. And anything you've seen or heard outside

1 of the courtroom is not evidence.

2 If you look at the transcript, if there's something I
3 have struck, you'll see a gap in what you get, and that's just 4 because you're looking at the evidence and not things that are 5 not evidence.

6 In weighing the evidence, you're gonna use your common
7 sense. You're gonna consider the evidence in light of your 8 everyday experience with people, with events, with anything
9 that -- with people and events, and you're gonna give it the 10 weight that you think it deserves.

11 If your experience, if your common sense, if your 12 intent to focus here tells you that certain evidence
13 reasonably leads to a certain conclusion, you can reach that 14 conclusion.

15 As I told you way back when, it's the Rules of Evidence
16 that control what can be admitted into evidence and, during a
17 trial, you saw lawyers objecting and me speaking about moments
18 when they thought the evidence was offered was not allowed and 19 I made a ruling on that.

20 As you know, those objections are just the lawyers
21 asking me to decide what evidence should come in, and those 22 objections and my responses to them are, of course, not 23 evidence.

24 Don't be influenced by the fact that an objection was 25 made and don't be influenced by my rulings. There's a few

1 times inevitably when I said some things to explain why I was
2 giving a ruling. That is completely 100 percent not evidence,
3 not to be considered. That's just me, in a shorthand way, for 4 transparency for the lawyers and also so that they can plan
5 how they will want to go, saying something to them, it's not 6 evidence, don't consider it, whatsoever.

7 When I have overruled an objection and something was 8 admitted, a piece of evidence was admitted like an exhibit,
9 you treat it like any other piece of evidence, whether it was 10 objected to on the way in or not.

11 And when I allowed something in for a limited
12 purpose -- there have been a couple times -- you have to 13 consider the evidence only for that limited purpose that I
14 told you was the relevant one.

15 Flip side of all this is when I sustained an objection
16 and a question was answered or an exhibit was not received 17 into evidence, don't think about or guess what would the 18 witness have said about that. Don't think about or guess what 19 was that exhibit. Don't do that.

20 What's evidence is what the witnesses say, the exhibits
21 that were actually admitted, and the stipulations, but put 22 out of your mind any guesses based on objected-to questions or 23 objected-to pieces of evidence.

24 A couple of times what happened here is a witness
25 answered before a lawyer objected or before I ruled on the

1 objection. That happened a couple times. And I sustained the 2 objection. And when that happened, you have to disregard the
3 answer that was given in your mind. That happened only a
4 couple times here.

5 There was a few times, as I mentioned a moment ago,
6 when I granted a motion to strike something, that means to 7 take something out of the record, and you have to put that 8 out of your mind in thinking about the case. You just have to 9 disregard it entirely.

10 Sometimes the lawyers have said, and they are about to 11 also in their summations, point you to evidence that they 12 think is especially important that they want you to focus on,
13 but what the lawyers say about the evidence is not the 14 evidence.

15 The evidence is the evidence itself. It's your 16 recollection of the evidence that controls. It's your 17 interpretation of the evidence that controls your decision in 18 this case. And I just want to remind you that, please don't 19 take anything I've said in the course of our proceedings here
20 as any indication, any indication of what I think you should 21 do, what your verdict should be, what facts you should find.
22 You should completely and entirely disregard anything you
23 perceived along those lines.

24 I just want to remind you a little bit about something
25 we talked about way back when, because it's sometimes a source

1 of confusion. It's about direct versus circumstantial
2 evidence. And I just want to say you can use both direct and 3 circumstantial evidence in reaching your verdict.

4 Direct evidence is just evidence which, if believed,
5 directly proves a fact. An example of direct evidence, it's 6 straightforward. A witness says that he or she saw something
7 from their own eyes, they heard something from their own ears,
8 they perceived something from their own senses.

9 Direct evidence is something that directly proves a 10 fact and the witness testifies about what they directly saw or 11 heard.

12 Circumstantial evidence is evidence that indirectly
13 proves a fact. It's evidence that proves a fact from which 14 you can reasonably find or infer or conclude that some other
15 fact is true, and you have to find that in a reasonable way.

16 What's a reasonable inference? It's just a deduction
17 or conclusion that reason, experience, common sense, lead you
18 to make from the facts. A reasonable inference, it's not a 19 suspicion or a guess; it's a reasoned, logical decision that 20 finds the existence of another fact based on one.

21 The classic example, and I don't remember if I shared
22 this with you right at the beginning, but the classic example
23 that's used in courthouses all over the United States is if 24 you hear thunder outside and then someone walks in and they're 25 holding an umbrella and the umbrella is wet, you could opt to

1 infer from that that it's raining outside.

2 You heard thunder, you saw the wet umbrella, that kind
3 of thing. You wouldn't need to, but you could. If you saw it
4 raining, you'd say that's direct evidence of rain. If you
5 infer that it was raining from the sound of the thunder and 6 seeing the umbrella, that would be circumstantial evidence.
7 Bottom line is you can rely here on circumstantial evidence
8 and you can rely here on direct evidence. It's your call.

9 Sometimes different inferences can be derived, pulled 10 from the same set of facts. One side may ask you to pull a 11 certain inference out of a certain set of facts. The other 12 side may ask you to choose another. But the bottom line is 13 it is for you and you all alone to decide what reasonable
14 inferences you want to make based on the evidence, based on 15 your experience, based on reason, and logic, and common sense.

16 You should consider all the evidence before you at 17 trial whether it's direct or circumstantial. The law makes no
18 distinction between the weight you should give one category
19 versus another. The weight you should give is really and 20 fully and completely up to you to decide.

21 Next, there was certain testimony from certain 22 witnesses about their understanding of various rules and 23 requirements of Medicare. That testimony, as I mentioned
24 before a little more fully, other than from Stephen Quindoza,
25 who was introduced for a limited purpose, the limited purpose

1 was explaining those witnesses' understanding of the rule and 2 requirements, not to prove the truth of what those rules and
3 requirements were, and you have to follow that limited purpose
4 for which the evidence was given.

5 Although the United States has to prove a defendant in 6 this case and in any case guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, it
7 is not a requirement to present all possible evidence related
8 to the case. It's not required to produce all possible
9 witnesses who might have some knowledge about the facts of the 10 case.

11 In addition, as I have explained to you before from the 12 outset, the defendant is not required to present any evidence
13 or to produce any witnesses at all.

14 Next, the defendant, Mr. Naviwala, as you know, he has 15 pleaded not guilty to the offenses charged and he is presumed 16 to be innocent. He started the trial with a clean slate, with 17 no evidence against him. That presumption is going to stay 18 with Mr. Naviwala unless and until the United States has 19 presented evidence that overcomes that presumption by 20 convincing you that the defendant is guilty of the offenses
21 charged beyond a reasonable doubt.

22 The presumption of innocence requires that you find the 23 defendant not guilty unless you are satisfied that the 24 United States has proved his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

25 That presumption of innocence means that the defendant

1 has no burden, he has no obligation to present any evidence
2 at all or to prove that he is not guilty. The burden, the 3 obligation, is on the United States to prove that the 4 defendant is guilty, and that burden stays with the 5 United States throughout this trial, including now.

6 In order for you to find the defendant guilty of the 7 offenses charged, as I mentioned, the United States has to 8 prove in a way that convinces you that he is guilty beyond a
9 reasonable doubt, and that means the United States has to 10 prove each and every element of the offenses charged beyond a
11 reasonable doubt, each element of each count.

12 The defendant can't be convicted based on suspicion, or 13 on conjecture, but only based on evidence proving guilt beyond
14 a reasonable doubt.

15 Proof beyond a reasonable doubt does not mean proof
16 beyond all possible doubt. It does not mean proof to a 17 mathematical certainty. Possible doubts or doubts based on 18 conjecture, speculation, hunch, those are not reasonable 19 doubts.

20 A reasonable doubt is a fair doubt based on reason,
21 logic, common sense, or experience. It's a doubt that an 22 ordinary, reasonable person has after carefully weighing all 23 of the evidence, and it is a doubt that would cause that 24 ordinary, reasonable person to hesitate to act in manners of 25 importance in their own life.

1 It can arise from the evidence of reasonable doubt,
2 it can arise from a lack of evidence, or it can arise from the 3 nature of the evidence.

4 If having heard all of the evidence, you're convinced
5 that the United States proved each and every element of an
6 offense charged against the defendant beyond a reasonable
7 doubt, then you should return a verdict of guilty for that
8 offense.

9 On the flip side, if you have a reasonable doubt about 10 one or more elements of an offense charged against the 11 defendant, then you have to return a verdict of not guilty for 12 that particular offense.

13 Now, the defendant is charged here, as you know, with 14 more than one offense and each offense is a separate count in 15 the superseding indictment, which we'll talk about soon.

16 The number of offenses charged is not evidence of 17 guilt. Nothing in that indictment is evidence of guilt and 18 that should not influence your decision here in any way
19 whatsoever. You have to separately consider the evidence that 20 relates to each offense, and you have to return a separate 21 verdict for each offense as to each count.

22 For each offense charged, for each count charged, you
23 have to decide whether the United States has proved beyond a 24 reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of that 25 particular count.

1 Your decision on one count, guilty or not guilty,
2 should not influence your decision on any of the other
3 offenses charged, any of the other counts. Those are all to 4 be considered separately one from the next.

5 A related point is that the defendant is not on trial
6 for any act, any conduct, anything other than what is charged
7 in that indictment, so you should only find the defendant
8 guilty of a count in the indictment if you believe that the 9 United States has proved each essential element of that count
10 beyond a reasonable doubt. He is not on trial for anything
11 other than the counts in the indictment.

12 I just want to -- because we have used the term a bunch
13 of times just talk about for half a moment about what an 14 indictment is.

15 An indictment is just an informal way in our system of 16 specifying the exact crimes that the defendant is accused of 17 committing. It's simply a description of the charges against 18 him. It's an accusation.

19 A description of the charge is an accusation. Those 20 things are not evidence and you cannot give -- you cannot give 21 any weight to the fact that the defendant was indicted in 22 making the decision that you-all are charged with making here.

23 I'm gonna get now a little more toward some of the law
24 that's gonna apply here in particular. I just want to tell 25 you before we get to it, some of this is a little hard to

1 follow especially. And it's hard to follow because, as a
2 structure, there may be a charge and it has a few elements,
3 and the instructions follow that structure more or less.

4 Structure is a little hard to hear, it's a bit easier
5 to see. So it will be a bit clearer to you I suspect when you
6 see it in the jury room but I'm going to do it verbally now.

7 All of the offenses that the defendant is charged with,
8 all of them require that the United States prove that he acted
9 knowingly with respect to certain elements, at least.

10 What does knowingly mean? It means that the 11 United States has to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the 12 defendant was conscious and aware of the nature of his actions
13 and of the surrounding facts and circumstances as specified in 14 the definition of the offense charged, which we're gonna get 15 to soon.

16 If you find that the defendant made an agreement, for 17 example, accidentally or mistakenly, or as the result of 18 simple negligence, then the United States has failed to prove 19 that he acted knowingly, and you have to return a verdict of 20 not guilty.

21 In deciding whether the defendant acted knowingly in 22 his mind, you must -- you may consider evidence about what the 23 defendant said or did or failed to do, how the defendant acted
24 or failed to act, and all of the other facts and circumstances
25 shown by the evidence that may prove or may help you infer

1 what was in the defendant's mind at that time.

2 So that's knowingly.

3 Now, certain offenses that are charged in the 4 indictment, they require that the United States prove the 5 defendant acted intentionally, sometimes phrased with intent,
6 same thing. Intentionally, with intent, with respect to 7 certain elements of those offenses.

8 Counts 1 and 5, which you'll hear about more soon,
9 require that the defendant acted intentionally. This means
10 that for each of Count 1 and Count 5, the United States has to 11 prove beyond a reasonable doubt that it was the defendant's 12 conscious desire or purpose to join together -- these are 13 conspiracy offenses -- that it was the defendant's conscious
14 desire or purpose to join together with at least one other 15 conspirator to achieve the conspiracy's objective, or that,
16 two, the defendant knew that he was joining with at least one
17 other conspirator to achieve the conspiracy's objective.

18 In deciding whether the defendant acted intentionally
19 or with intent at the moments when that becomes relevant, you
20 can consider the same things: Evidence about what he said,
21 what he did, what he failed to do, how he acted, how he didn't 22 act, and all the other facts and circumstances shown by the 23 evidence that may prove, in your judgment, what was in the 24 defendant's mind at that time.

25 Count 1, as you'll learn, also requires that you find

1 the defendant acted with intent to defraud.

2 To act with intent to defraud means to act knowingly,
3 the term we talked about a moment ago, and with the intention
4 -- a term we talked about a minute ago -- with the intention
5 or the purpose to deceive or to cheat.

6 So we have talked a little bit about knowingly, we have 7 talked about intent and intentionally. We have talked about 8 intent to defraud. That's because these are terms that are 9 gonna come up again over and over again. Here is another one
10 like that. It's willfully.

11 Certain offenses charged in the indictment require the 12 United States to prove that the defendant acted willfully with 13 respect to certain elements of those crimes. This means the 14 United States has to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the 15 defendant knew that his conduct was unlawful and intends to do
16 something that the law forbids. That is, to find that the 17 defendant acted willfully, you have to find that the evidence
18 presented at trial proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the 19 defendant acted with purpose to disobey or disregard the law.

20 The United States does not have to prove that the 21 defendant had any evil motive or bad purpose other than the 22 purpose to disobey or disregard the law, nor does the 23 Government -- nor does the Government have to prove that the 24 defendant knew of the existence and meaning of the federal 25 statute making his conduct criminal.

1 Over and over again we're gonna talk about the word
2 "Medicare" in the course of these instructions. And when I
3 refer to Medicare, I'm going to be referring to three
4 different things all together for convenience.

5 One is Medicare, one is TRICARE, and one is CHAMPVA.
6 Those are programs that you've heard testimony about. I'm 7 going to refer to those three collectively as Medicare just to 8 make things a little easier.

9 I want to get to the next concept here. These will all 10 get laced through.

11 To find the defendant guilty of healthcare and wire
12 fraud conspiracy as those are charged in Count 1 and the 13 healthcare fraud that is charged in Counts 2 and 3 and 4, you
14 have to find that the United States proved beyond a reasonable
15 doubt that the defendant knew fraudulent claims were being
16 submitted to Medicare.

17 To find the defendant guilty of conspiring to violate
18 the Anti-Kickback Statute that's charged in Count 5, and with 19 conspiring -- let me slow down -- conspiring to violate the 20 Anti-Kickback Statute, Count 5, or violating the Anti-Kickback
21 Statute itself, Counts 6, 7, and 8, for that you have to find
22 that the United States proved beyond a reasonable doubt that 23 the defendant knew he was soliciting and receiving kickbacks
24 and bribes for referring Medicare beneficiaries to durable
25 medical equipment, DME supply companies, for DME.

1 In this case there's a question about whether the 2 defendant knew that fraudulent claims were being submitted to
3 Medicare, or he was soliciting, receiving kickbacks and bribes
4 for referring Medicare beneficiaries to DME companies for DME.
5 That's one of the debates between the parties.

6 When, as in this case, knowledge of a particular fact
7 or circumstances is an essential part of the offense charged,
8 the United States may prove that the defendant knew of that 9 fact or circumstance if the evidence proves beyond a 10 reasonable doubt that the defendant deliberately closed his 11 eyes to what would otherwise have been obvious to him.

12 No one can avoid responsibility for a crime by 13 deliberately ignoring what's obvious. Thus, you may find that 14 the defendant knew that the fraudulent claims were being 15 submitted to Medicare based on evidence which proves that,
16 one, the defendant himself actually, subjectively believed 17 that there was a high probability that this fact or 18 circumstance existed; and

19 Two, that the defendant consciously used deliberate
20 efforts to avoid knowing about the existence of this fact and 21 circumstance.

22 Similarly, you can find that the defendant knew he was 23 soliciting and receiving kickbacks and bribes for referring 24 Medicare beneficiaries to DME companies for DME based on 25 evidence which proves that, one, the defendant himself

1 actually, subjectively believed that there was a high
2 probability that this fact or circumstance existed; and

3 Two, that the defendant consciously used deliberate
4 efforts to avoid knowing about the existence of this fact and
5 circumstance.

6 You may not find that the defendant knew that 7 fraudulent claims were being submitted to Medicare, or he was 8 soliciting or receiving kickbacks and bribes for referring 9 Medicare beneficiaries to DME companies for DME if you find
10 that the defendant actually believed that the respective fact 11 or circumstance did not exist.

12 Also, you may not find the defendant knew fraudulent
13 claims were being submitted to Medicare, or he was soliciting
14 and receiving kickbacks and bribes for referring Medicare
15 beneficiaries to DME companies for DME if you find only that 16 the defendant consciously disregarded the risk that the 17 respective fact or circumstance existed, or that the defendant
18 should have known that the respective fact or circumstance
19 existed, or that a reasonable person would have known of a
20 high probability that the fact or circumstance existed.

21 It is not enough the defendant may have been reckless 22 or stupid or foolish or may have acted out of inadvertence or 23 accident.

24 Those are a lot of big words, a lot of sentences with 25 multiple clauses in them. I think when you slow down and read

1 the instructions in general, it will be easier to follow.

2 With respect to Counts 1 to 4, you need to find that
3 the defendant himself actually, subjectively believed there
4 was a high probability that fraudulent claims were being
5 submitted to Medicare and other federal and private health
6 care benefit programs, consciously used deliberate efforts to 7 avoid knowing about it, and did not actually believe it did
8 not exist.

9 With respect to Counts 5 through 8, you must find that
10 the defendant himself actually, subjectively believed there
11 was a high probability that he was soliciting and receiving 12 kickbacks and bribes for referring Medicare beneficiaries to 13 DME companies for DME, consciously used deliberate efforts to 14 avoid knowing about it, and did not actually believe that it
15 did not exist.

16 For the last little bit, I've been talking only about 17 willful blindness. That is one of the instructions here. Now
18 we're going to move on from that. It's the kind of break in 19 things that's much easier to see on the page than it is 20 verbally.

21 Next thing up is motive. Motive is not an element of 22 the offenses with which the defendant is charged. Proof of a
23 bad motive is not required to convict. Proof of bad motive
24 alone does not establish the defendant is guilty, just like 25 proof of a good motive alone does not establish that the

1 defendant is not guilty. Evidence of his motive, however, may 2 help you to determine the defendant's intent.

3 Intent and motive are simply different concepts.

4 Motive is what prompts a person to act; it's what impels a
5 person forward. Intent refers only to the state of mind with 6 which a particular act is done.

7 So examples: Personal advancement, desire for 8 financial gain, those are motives of a lot of human conduct.

9 But those motives can prompt, can push one person to 10 intentionally do something that's perfectly acceptable while 11 prompting another person to intentionally do an act that is a 12 crime.

13 Motive and intent are separate things. Motive is not 14 an element, but various kinds of intent are, and you'll see 15 them as we get further in. Knowingly, willfully, those sort
16 of things. Those are intent.

17 Next up is the following -- and this is going on for a
18 short, little bit.

19 The offenses charged in the indictment, they require
20 proof that the defendant acted knowingly, intentionally,
21 willfully, and with intent to defraud. Those are all pieces
22 of intent. Not motive, but intent.

23 If you find that the defendant acted in good faith,
24 that would be a complete defense, because good faith on the 25 part of the defendant would be inconsistent with him acting

1 willfully or with intent to defraud.

2 A person acts in good faith when he or she has an
3 honestly held belief, opinion, or understanding that the 4 alleged acts were not unlawful, even though that belief or 5 opinion or understanding turns out to be inaccurate or 6 incorrect.

7 So in this case, if the defendant made an honest
8 mistake or had an honest misunderstanding about the legality
9 of the alleged acts, then he did not act willfully or with the 10 intent to defraud.

11 The defendant does not have the burden of proving good
12 faith. Good faith is a defense. It exists because it's just 13 inconsistent with the requirement of the offenses charged, 14 that the defendant acted willfully or with the intent to 15 defraud.

16 As I have told you, it's the United States' burden to 17 prove beyond a reasonable doubt each element of the offense,
18 including the required mental state elements. In deciding 19 whether the United States has proved that the defendant acted 20 willfully or with intent to defraud or, instead, whether he 21 acted in good faith, you should consider all the evidence, as 22 you should on everything, anything that may bear, in your 23 judgment, on his state of mind.

24 If you find from the evidence that he acted in good
25 faith, as I have defined it, or if you find for any other

1 reason that the United States has not proved beyond a
2 reasonable doubt that he acted willfully or with intent to 3 defraud, you have to find him, the defendant, not guilty of 4 the offense at issue that you're considering.

5 Here's another general concept that matters throughout.
6 You cannot infer that the defendant is guilty of participating
7 in criminal conduct merely, solely from the fact that he 8 worked or did business with other people who were guilty of 9 wrongdoing. Mere association by a defendant with someone else
10 does not make the -- with a conspirator does not make the 11 defendant a member of the conspiracy, even if he knows of the 12 existence of a conspiracy.

13 So everything I have talked to you about until now,
14 those are the kind of general things that suffuse the 15 instructions I'm going to start giving you now as to 16 particular counts.

17 We're going to start off with Count 1.

18 Count 1, I have mentioned it a couple times. Count 1
19 is a conspiracy that is alleged to have two objects. We'll 20 talk about what that means soon. Those objects are to commit
21 health care fraud and to commit wire fraud.

22 Count 1 of the indictment charges that from in or 23 around February of 2017, through in or around April 2019, in 24 the District of New Jersey -- the District of New Jersey and 25 the State of New Jersey cover the same territory -- and

1 elsewhere, the defendant knowingly and intentionally conspired
2 and agreed with Aaron Williamsky, Nadia Levit,
3 Charles Burruss, Armani Adams, Kenneth Pitter, and others to 4 commit certain offenses, namely, one, to commit health care
5 fraud; and two, to commit wire fraud.

6 It is a federal crime for two or more persons to agree
7 or conspire to commit any offense against the United States,
8 even if they never actually achieve their objective. A
9 conspiracy is a kind of criminal partnership.

10 In order for you to find the defendant guilty of 11 conspiracy to commit health care fraud or wire fraud, you have 12 to find that the United States proved beyond a reasonable
13 doubt each of the following three elements:

14 The first element: Two or more people agreed to commit
15 health care or wire fraud, as the indictment charged;

16 Second: The defendant was a party to or member of that 17 agreement; and

18 Third, the defendant joined that agreement or 19 conspiracy knowing of its objective to commit health care
20 fraud or wire fraud and intending to join together with at 21 least one other alleged co-conspirator to achieve that 22 objective. That is, the defendant and at least one other 23 alleged co-conspirator shared a unity of purpose and the 24 intent to achieve a common goal or objective to commit health
25 care fraud or wire fraud.

1 I'm going to explain each of those three elements in a
2 little more detail now. Of the three elements, here is the 3 first element:

4 The first element of the crime of conspiracy, as I just 5 mentioned, that's the existence of an agreement. The 6 United States has to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that two 7 or more people knowingly and intentionally -- see how these 8 words are coming back, knowingly and intentionally -- arrived
9 at a mutual understanding or agreement, either spoken or 10 unspoken, to work together to achieve the overall objective of 11 the conspiracy.

12 Now, the United States does not have to prove the 13 existence of a formal or written agreement or an expressed
14 oral agreement spelling out the details of the understanding.
15 The United States also does not have to prove that all of the 16 members of the conspiracy directly met or discussed between 17 themselves their unlawful objectives or somehow agreed to all 18 the details or agreed to what the means were by which the 19 objectives were to be accomplished.

20 The United States is not even required to prove that 21 all members of the alleged conspiracy were named or that all 22 members of the conspiracy are even known. What the 23 United States has to prove beyond a reasonable doubt is that 24 two or more persons in some way in the matter arrived at some 25 type of agreement, mutual understanding, or meeting of the

1 minds to try to accomplish a common and unlawful objective.

2 You can consider, as with everything, direct and
3 circumstantial evidence in deciding whether the United States
4 has proved beyond a reasonable doubt that an agreement or 5 mutual understanding existed.

6 You may find the existence of a conspiracy based on 7 reasonable inferences that you draw from actions and 8 statements of the alleged members of the conspiracy, from the 9 circumstances surrounding the scheme, and from evidence of 10 related facts and circumstances which prove, in your judgment,
11 that the activities that participants in a criminal venture
12 couldn't have been carried out except as the result of a
13 preconceived agreement, scheme, or understanding together.

14 Let's move on.

15 So the next piece is that, if you find that a criminal 16 agreement or a partnership or a conspiracy existed, then in 17 order to find the defendant guilty of conspiracy, you also 18 have to find that the United States proved beyond a reasonable
19 doubt that the defendant knowingly and intentionally joined 20 that agreement, joined that conspiracy during its existence.

21 The United States must prove that the defendant knew 22 the goals or objectives of the agreement or conspiracy and 23 voluntarily joined it during its existence intending to 24 achieve the common goals or objectives and to work together
25 with the other alleged co-conspirators towards those goals or

1 objectives.

2 The United States doesn't have to prove that the
3 defendant knew everything about the conspiracy or that he knew
4 everyone involved in it, or that he was a member from the 5 beginning. The United States also does not have to prove the 6 defendant played a major role or a substantial part in the 7 conspiracy.

8 You may consider both direct evidence and 9 circumstantial evidence in deciding whether the defendant
10 joined the conspiracy, knew of its criminal objectives, and 11 intended to further those objectives.

12 Evidence which shows that the defendant only knew about 13 the conspiracy, only kept bad company by associating with 14 members of the conspiracy or was only present when the 15 conspiracy was discussed or a crime was committed, that's not 16 sufficient to prove that the defendant was a member of the 17 conspiracy, even if the defendant approves of what was 18 happening or didn't object to it.

19 Likewise, evidence showing the defendant may have done
20 something that happened to help the conspiracy does not 21 necessarily prove that he joined the conspiracy. You may,
22 however, consider all of the evidence, including this
23 evidence, in deciding whether the United States proved beyond
24 a reasonable doubt that the defendant joined the conspiracy.

25 We're still inside of Count 1, okay, which is the

1 conspiracy. This count, Count 1, charges that the defendant
2 and the other alleged co-conspirators were all members of one
3 single conspiracy to commit health care fraud or wire fraud.

4 Count 5 of the indictment charges that defendant and 5 the other alleged co-conspirators were all members of one
6 single conspiracy to violate the Anti-Kickback Statute.

7 The defendant has argued that the conspiracy alleged in 8 Count 1 in the indictment was really, if anything, two or more
9 separate conspiracies. He has also argued that the conspiracy
10 alleged in Count 5 of the indictment was really again, if 11 anything, two or more separate conspiracies. Whether a single 12 conspiracy or multiple conspiracies exist, that is a question
13 for you-all to decide. That's a question of fact.

14 In order to find the defendant guilty of the Count 1
15 conspiracy or the Count 5 conspiracy, both of which were 16 charged in the indictment, you have to find that the 17 United States proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the 18 defendant was a member of that conspiracy.

19 If the United States failed to prove that the defendant
20 was a member of the conspiracy charged in Count 1 or the 21 conspiracy charged in Count 5, then you have to find the 22 defendant not guilty of Count 1 or Count 5, even if you find
23 that there are multiple conspiracies and the defendant was a 24 member of a separate conspiracy other than the one that is 25 charged in the indictment.

1 But proof that the defendant was a member of some other
2 conspiracy would not prevent you from also finding him guilty
3 of the conspiracy charged in Count 1 or Count 5, if you find
4 the United States proved beyond a reasonable doubt that he was 5 a member of that conspiracy, the one that was charged.

6 In deciding whether there was one single conspiracy or 7 more than one conspiracy, you should concentrate on the nature
8 of the agreement that's proved by the evidence as you see it.

9 To prove a single conspiracy, the United States has to 10 prove beyond a reasonable doubt that each of the alleged 11 members or conspirators agreed to participate in what he knew
12 or what he should have known was a single group activity
13 directed toward a common objective. The United States must 14 prove that there was a single agreement on an overall 15 objective.

16 Multiple conspiracies are separate agreements operating
17 independent of each other, but a finding of a master
18 conspiracy that includes other sub-schemes does not constitute 19 a finding of multiple unrelated conspiracies.

20 A single conspiracy may exist when there is a 21 continuing core agreement that attracts different members at 22 different times and which involves different subgroups
23 committing acts in furtherance of an overall objective.

24 In determining whether a series of events constitutes a
25 single conspiracy or separate and unrelated conspiracies, you

1 should consider whether there was a common goal among the 2 alleged co-conspirators; whether there existed common or 3 similar methods; whether and to what extent alleged 4 participants overlapped in their various dealings; whether and 5 to what extent the activities of the alleged co-conspirators
6 were related interdependent; how helpful each alleged 7 co-conspirator's contributions were or were not to the goals
8 of the others; and whether the scheme contemplated a 9 continuing objective that would not be achieved without the 10 ongoing cooperation of the conspirators.

11 A single conspiracy may exist even if all the members
12 did not know each other, or never sat down together, or did
13 not know what roles all the other members would play. A 14 single conspiracy may exist even if different members joined 15 at different times or the membership of the conspiracy changed
16 over time.

17 Similarly, there may be a single conspiracy even though
18 there were different sub-groups operating in different places
19 or many acts or transactions committed over a long period of 20 time.

21 You can consider these things in deciding there was one
22 single conspiracy or more than one conspiracy, but they are 23 not necessarily controlling. What is controlling is whether 24 the United States has proved beyond a reasonable doubt that 25 there was one overall agreement on a common objective as to a

1 given count.

2 I want to talk to you about -- we're still talking
3 about conspiracy. I want to talk to you about the mental 4 states associated with a conspiracy.

5 In order to find the defendant guilty of conspiracy,
6 you have to find that the United States proved beyond a
7 reasonable doubt that the defendant joined the conspiracy
8 knowing of its objective and intending to help further or 9 achieve that objective.

10 That is the United States must prove one, two, and 11 three.

12 One, that the defendant knew of the objective or goal
13 of the conspiracy.

14 Two, that the defendant joined the conspiracy intending 15 to help further or achieve that goal; and

16 Three, that the defendant and at least one other
17 alleged conspirator shared a unity of purpose toward that 18 objective or goal.

19 You can consider both direct evidence and 20 circumstantial evidence as we discussed, including the 21 defendant's words or conduct or any other facts and 22 circumstances that you deem relevant from the evidence in 23 deciding whether defendant had the required knowledge and 24 intent. For example, evidence that the defendant derived some 25 benefit from the conspiracy or had some stake in the

1 achievement of the conspiracy's objectives might tend to show
2 that he had the required intent or purpose that the 3 conspiracy's objectives be achieved.

4 Now, the United States -- we just talked about the 5 conspiracy's objectives being achieved, but note: The 6 United States is not required to prove that any of the members
7 of a conspiracy were successful in achieving any or all of the 8 objectives of the conspiracy.

9 You can find the defendant guilty of conspiracy if you
10 find that the United States proved beyond a reasonable doubt 11 the elements I have explained, even if you find that the 12 United States did not prove that any of the conspirators
13 actually committed any other offense against the 14 United States.

15 Conspiracy is a criminal offense that is separate from 16 the offenses that were the objects of the conspiracy.

17 Conspiracy can be complete, it can be finished, it can be 18 committed without the commission of those other offenses.

19 Now, evidence has been admitted here that certain
20 people who are alleged to be co-conspirators of the defendant
21 did or said certain things. The acts or statements of any 22 member of a conspiracy are treated as the acts or statements
23 of all members of the conspiracy if these acts or statements
24 were performed or spoken during the existence of that 25 conspiracy and to further its objectives.

1 Therefore, you can consider as evidence against the 2 defendant any acts done or statements made by any members of 3 the conspiracy during the existence of and to further the 4 objective of the conspiracy.

5 You may consider those acts and statements, even if 6 they were done and made outside the defendant's presence and 7 without his knowledge. As with all the evidence presented in 8 this case, it is for you to decide whether you believe this 9 evidence and how much weight to give it.

10 The next thing is the length of time for which there is 11 a conspiracy. A conspiracy ends when the objectives of a 12 conspiracy have been achieved or when all members of the 13 conspiracy have walked away from it, they have withdrawn from 14 it.

15 However, a conspiracy may be a continuing conspiracy.
16 If it is, it lasted until there is some affirmative showing
17 that it has ended or that all of its members have withdrawn.

18 A conspiracy may be a continuing one if the agreement
19 includes an understanding that the conspiracy will continue
20 over time, and also a conspiracy may have a continuing purpose
21 or objective and therefore can be a continuing conspiracy.

22 I want to just share with you something about 23 unanimity. This is the kind of thing that's probably a little 24 easier to say on the page, but I'll say it to you out loud.

25 Count 1 of the indictment, it charges the defendant

1 with a conspiracy to commit wire fraud or health care fraud
2 and it alleges two separate schemes or plans to obtain money
3 or property by means of several different false or fraudulent
4 pretenses, representations, or promises.

5 Now, the United States is not required to prove all of 6 the schemes or plans to defraud or all of the false or 7 fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises that are 8 alleged.

9 However, you all have to agree with each of the other
10 jurors that the same scheme or plan and the same means of 11 false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises
12 alleged in Count 1 was in fact employed by Mr. Naviwala.

13 The jury need not unanimously agree on each scheme or 14 plan, but in order to convict, has to unanimously agree upon 15 at least one such scheme or plan as a scheme or plan that was 16 knowingly used by the defendant.

17 Similarly, the United States is not required to prove 18 all of the means or methods alleged in Count 1 of the 19 indictment. Each juror must agree with each of the other 20 jurors, however, that the same means or methods alleged in 21 Count 1 of the indictment was in fact engaged in or employed
22 by the defendant in committing the crime charged in Count 1 of 23 the indictment.

24 The jury doesn't have to unanimously agree on each mean
25 or method, but in order to convict, you must unanimously agree

1 upon at least one such means or methods as the one engaged in 2 by the defendant.

3 Unless the United States has proven the same means or 4 methods to each of you beyond a reasonable doubt, you have to 5 acquit the defendant of the crime charged in Count 1.

6 Unless each of you agrees that the United States has 7 proved the same scheme or plan to defraud beyond a reasonable
8 doubt, you have to find the defendant not guilty of the 9 conspiracy count charged in Count 1 of the indictment.

10 All of that is especially relevant because that 11 conspiracy in Count 1, as you've heard, it has two alleged 12 objectives. One is health care fraud and one is wire fraud.

13 Now we move on to health care fraud. This is about 14 Counts 2 and 3 and 4. Count 1 was the conspiracy we talked 15 about, one of the alleged objects of that conspiracy was 16 health care fraud. Now I'm gonna talk about Count 2 and 17 Count 3 and 4, health care fraud itself.

18 Those three counts charge the defendant with violations
19 of federal law which is health care fraud in three different
20 counts.

21 In order to find the defendant guilty of this offense,
22 the offense of health care fraud, you have to find that the 23 United States proved the following three elements beyond a
24 reasonable doubt as to a given count.

25 First, the defendant knowingly devised or participated

1 in a scheme to defraud or to obtain by means of false or 2 fraudulent pretenses or representations or promises any of the 3 money or property owned by or under the custody or control of 4 the victim entity in connection with the delivery of or 5 payment for healthcare benefits, items, or services. That's 6 the first element.

7 The second element is the defendant acted willfully and 8 with the intent to defraud.

9 I defined those terms for you before.

10 Third, that the victim was a public or private plan or 11 contract, affecting commerce, under which medical benefits,
12 medical items, or medical services, were provided to any 13 individual.

14 Now, a quick definition of what a health care benefit
15 program is. I'm going to read to you from the statute.

16 It's: Any public or private plan or contract,
17 affecting commerce, under which any medical benefit, item, or 18 service, is provided to any individual, and includes any 19 individual or entity who is providing a medical benefit, item, 20 or service, for which payment may be made under the plan or 21 contract.

22 A little backtracking, but it's helpful to have here
23 again. The United States must prove beyond a reasonable doubt 24 that the defendant acted willfully and with the intent to 25 defraud a health care benefit program.

1 I've already told you before what it means to act
2 willfully, and to act with intent to defraud, I've told you
3 about that before also. It means to act knowingly and with 4 the intention or the purpose to deceive or cheat.

5 In considering whether the defendant acted with an
6 intent to defraud, you can consider, among other things,
7 whether he acted with a desire or purpose to bring about some 8 gain or benefit to himself or someone else at the expense of 9 the health care benefit program or with the desire or purpose
10 to cause some loss to the health care benefit program.

11 Next thing you heard me mention as part of these 12 instructions is affecting interstate commerce. So the 13 United States has to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the 14 health benefit plan or contract affected or could have 15 affected interstate commerce.

16 Affecting interstate commerce, it means any action
17 which in any way interferes with or changes or alters the 18 movement or transportation or flow of goods, merchandise,
19 money, or other property in commerce, between or among 20 different states. And the effect can be minimal.

21 To prove health care fraud, the United States has to 22 prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant knowingly 23 and willfully made a misrepresentation, or knowingly and 24 willfully caused someone else to make a misrepresentation in 25 connection with the delivery of or payment for health care

1 benefits, health care items, or health care services.

2 A little piece here I'm going to ask the parties to
3 take note of because it seems like it may be a little mistake
4 but we'll come back to that.

5 Next. Counts Two through Four of the superseding
6 indictment allege that the claims to Medicare were false
7 because they were not medically necessary.

8 Count 1 alleges that one of the reasons that the claims
9 were false was because, as I said, they were not medically
10 necessary.

11 That got a little jumbled.

12 Counts 2 through 4 say that the claims to Medicare were 13 false because they were not medically necessary.

14 Count 1 -- that's the conspiracy count -- it alleges 15 that one of the reasons that the claims were false was the 16 same thing: again, not medically necessary.

17 In order for you to find that a claim was false because 18 it was not medically necessary, you have to find that the 19 United States proved beyond a reasonable doubt that a claim
20 that the prescription was medically necessary was false. To 21 prove that the claim was false, the United States must prove 22 that the prescription was not medically necessary. I'm sorry.
23 The United States must prove that the prescription was not 24 medically necessary. That term was not defined by any 25 Medicare regulation.

1 I am instructing you that making a false statement and
2 the mental states associated with making a false statement,
3 they're separate things. The element of falsity and the 4 element of mental state are not the same thing.

5 Therefore, the United States must prove that the claim
6 of medical necessity was false, and also that the claim was 7 made willfully and with an intent to defraud, as I have 8 defined those terms.

9 Now we're going to jump back. We just talked about 10 health care fraud. That is Counts 2 and 3 and 4. Remember,
11 it's also an object allegedly of the Count 1 conspiracy. The 12 other alleged object of the Count 1 conspiracy is wire fraud.
13 I'm going to talk about that now.

14 One of the objects, as I just mentioned, of the Count 1
15 conspiracy is that defendant conspired to commit wire fraud,
16 again a violation of federal law.

17 In order to find the defendant guilty of this offense,
18 you have to find that the United States proved each of the 19 following three elements beyond a reasonable doubt:

20 First, the defendant knowingly devised a scheme to 21 defraud or to obtain money or property by materially false or 22 fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises, or 23 willfully participated in such a scheme with knowledge of its 24 fraudulent nature;

25 Second, that the defendant acted with the intent to

1 defraud;

2 Third, that in advancing, furthering, or carrying out
3 the scheme, the defendant transmitted any writing, signal, or 4 sound by means of a wire, radio, or television communication
5 in interstate commerce, or caused the transmission of any 6 writing, signal, or sound of some kind by means of a wire,
7 radio, or television communication in interstate commerce.

8 We'll talk about each of those little pieces.

9 The first element of wire fraud is that the defendant
10 knowingly devised or willfully participated in a scheme to 11 defraud the victims of money or property by materially false
12 or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises.

13 A scheme is just a plan for accomplishing an object.

14 Fraud. Fraud is a general term which embraces all of 15 the various means by which one person can gain an advantage 16 over another by false representations, by suppression of the 17 truth, or by deliberate disregard for the truth.

18 Putting them together, a scheme to defraud is any plan,
19 device, or course of action to deprive another person of money
20 or property by means of false or fraudulent pretenses,
21 representations, or promises, reasonably calculated to deceive
22 people of average prudence.

23 In this case, the indictment alleges that the scheme to 24 defraud was carried out by making false or fraudulent
25 statements, false or fraudulent representations, or false and

1 fraudulent claims. The representations which the Government
2 charges were made as part of a scheme to defraud, those are 3 set out in the indictment.

4 The United States is not required to prove every
5 misrepresentation charged in the indictment. It is sufficient
6 if the United States proves beyond a reasonable doubt that one
7 or more of the alleged material misrepresentations were made
8 in furtherance of the alleged scheme to defraud.

9 But you cannot convict the defendant of wire fraud
10 unless all of you agree as to at least one of the material
11 representations.

12 A statement, representation, claim, or document is 13 false if it is untrue when made, and if the person making the 14 statement or representation or claim or document or causing it
15 to be made knew it was untrue at the time it was made. A
16 representation or statement is fraudulent if it was falsely
17 made with intention to deceive.

18 In addition, deceitful statements of half truths or the 19 concealment of material facts or the expression of an opinion
20 not honestly entertained may constitute false or fraudulent
21 statements. The arrangement of the words or the circumstances
22 in which they are used may convey false or deceptive
23 appearance. The deception may not be premised upon spoken or 24 written words alone. If there is deception, the manner in 25 which it is accomplished is immaterial.

1 The false or fraudulent representation or failure to
2 disclose something has to relate to a material fact or matter.

3 A material fact is one which would reasonably be
4 expected to be of concern to a reasonable and prudent person
5 in relying upon their representation or statement in making a
6 decision.

7 A misrepresentation is not material unless it goes to 8 the essence of the parties' bargain.

9 This means that if you find that a particular statement
10 of fact was false, you must determine whether that statement
11 was one that a reasonable person might have considered
12 important in making his or her decision, and whether it went 13 to the very essence of the parties' bargain. The same
14 principle applies to fraudulent half-truths or omissions of 15 material facts.

16 In order to establish a scheme to defraud, the 17 United States has to also prove that the alleged scheme
18 contemplated depriving another person of money or property.
19 But the United States is not required to prove the defendant
20 originated that scheme to defraud.

21 Furthermore, it is not necessary that the United States
22 prove the defendant actually realized any gain from the scheme
23 or that any intended victim actually suffered any loss. But 24 the United States has to show that the intent of the scheme
25 was to defraud and to deceive a victim out of money or

1 property.

2 If you find that the United States has proved beyond a
3 reasonable doubt that the scheme to defraud charged in the 4 indictment did exist and the defendant knowingly devised or 5 participated in the scheme charged in the indictment, you
6 should then consider the next and second element.

7 Here is what that second element is. Remember, there
8 is Count 1 of the conspiracy and this is the second objective,
9 that's wire fraud. Here is the second element of wire fraud.
10 You can tell that's a little easier to see in writing.

11 The second element the United States must prove beyond
12 a reasonable doubt is that the defendant acted with a specific 13 intent to defraud.

14 To act with an intent to defraud means to act knowingly
15 and with the intention or the purpose to deceive or to cheat.

16 In considering whether the defendant acted with an
17 intent to defraud, you may consider, among other things,
18 whether the defendant acted with desire or purpose to bring 19 about some gain or benefit to himself or someone else or with 20 a desire or purpose to cause some loss to someone.

21 Now the third element of wire fraud. The third element
22 the United States must prove beyond a reasonable doubt is that 23 in advancing, furthering, or carrying out the scheme, the 24 defendant transmitted -- and here is a list of things -- a 25 writing or signal or sound by means of a wire, radio, or

1 television communication in interstate commerce, or caused the 2 transmission of a writing, signal, or sound of some kind by 3 means of a wire, radio, or television communication in 4 interstate commerce.

5 That phrase that's built into what I just said,
6 "transmits by means of wire, radio, or television
7 communication in interstate commerce" means to send from one
8 state to another by means of telegraph or telephone lines or 9 by means of radio or television.

10 The phrase includes a telephone conversation by a 11 person in one state with a person in another state, or 12 electronic signals sent from one state to another, such as by 13 fax or by a financial wire. The use of the Internet to send a
14 message, like an e-mail, or to communicate with a website,
15 that can also constitute a wire transmission in interstate 16 commerce.

17 The United States is not required to prove that the 18 defendant actually used a wire communication in interstate 19 commerce or that the defendant even intended anything be 20 transmitted in interstate commerce by means of a wire, radio, 21 or television communication to further, to advance, or to 22 carry out the scheme or plan to defraud.

23 But the United States must prove beyond a reasonable
24 doubt that a transmission by a wire, radio, or television
25 communication facility in interstate commerce was, in fact,

1 used in some manner to further or to advance or to carry out
2 the scheme to defraud.

3 The United States must also prove either that the 4 defendant used wire, radio, or television communication in 5 interstate commerce, or the defendant knew that use of the 6 wire, radio, or television communication in interstate
7 commerce would follow in the ordinary course of business
8 events, or that the defendant should reasonably have 9 anticipated that wire, radio, or television communication in 10 interstate commerce would be used.

11 It's not necessary that the information transmitted by 12 these means was itself false or fraudulent or contained any 13 false or fraudulent pretense, representation, or promise, or 14 contained any request for money or thing of value.

15 But the United States must prove beyond a reasonable
16 doubt the use of the wire, radio, or television communication
17 in interstate commerce further or advanced or indeed carried
18 out in some way the scheme.

19 So we have talked a little bit about the word
20 "materiality." The United States must prove beyond a 21 reasonable doubt that the misrepresentation question was 22 material. A fact or a matter is material if it has a natural 23 tendency to influence or be capable of influencing the 24 decision of the decision-maker to whom that misrepresentation
25 was addressed.

1 In this case here, the relevant decision-makers are
2 Medicare and TRICARE and CHAMPVA, which together I'm going to
3 refer to as much as I can as Medicare.

4 In determining whether a fact is or is not material to 5 Medicare, you should consider whether the decision-maker --
6 Medicare -- would have made the same decision if it would have 7 known that fact. If the decision-maker here, Medicare, would 8 have made the same decision if it knew a particular fact, that 9 is evidence that the fact is not material.

10 If the decision-maker regularly makes similar decisions
11 despite actual knowledge that certain factual statements were 12 made to it, that is evidence that the statements are not 13 material.

14 We are now going to talk about Count 5, which is a
15 conspiracy to violate the Anti-Kickback Statute.

16 Count 5 of the superseding indictment charges that from 17 in or around February of 2017, through in or around April 18 2019, in the District of New Jersey -- again, that's just the 19 same as the State of New Jersey -- and elsewhere, the 20 defendant knowingly and intentionally conspired and agreed
21 with others to commit offenses against the United States.

22 I'm just gonna read to you A and B from the indictment.

23 A: To knowingly and willfully solicit and receive 24 remuneration, directly or indirectly, overtly and covertly, in 25 cash and in kind, that is kickbacks and bribes in return for

1 referring an individual to a person for the furnishing and 2 arranging for the furnishing of any item and service, for
3 which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under a
4 federal health care program, namely Medicare.

5 And B: To knowingly and willfully offer and pay
6 remuneration, directly and indirectly, covertly and overtly,
7 in cash and in kind, that is, kickbacks and bribes to any 8 person to induce such person to refer an individual to a 9 person for the furnishing and arranging for the furnishing of 10 any item and service which payment may be made, in whole or in 11 part, under a federal health care program, namely Medicare.

12 That is just from the indictment.

13 Count 5 also charges that to further the objectives of 14 the conspiracy, at least one member of the conspiracy
15 committed or caused the commission of at least one overt act
16 as alleged in the superseding indictment.

17 As I have already instructed you, it is a federal crime
18 for two or more persons to conspire or agree to commit any 19 offense against the United States, even if they never actually 20 achieve their objective. As I said before, conspiracy is 21 fundamentally a kind of criminal partnership.

22 In order for you to find the defendant guilty of 23 conspiracy to commit any offense against the United States,
24 even if he never actually achieves his objective, you have to
25 find that the United States proved beyond a reasonable doubt

1 the following four elements:

2 Here they go.

3 First, two or more people agreed to commit an offense
4 against the United States and in this case of Count 5 to 5 violate the Anti-Kickback Statute. I'm going to explain to 6 you the elements of that Anti-Kickback Statute soon.

7 The second of the elements, that the defendant was a
8 party to or a member of that agreement.

9 Third, that the defendant joined in that agreement or 10 conspiracy knowing of its object to commit an offense against 11 the United States, and intending to join together with at 12 least one other conspirator to achieve that objective. That 13 is, that the defendant and at least one other alleged 14 conspirator shared a unity of purpose and the intent to 15 achieve a common goal or objective to commit an offense
16 against the United States.

17 Fourth, at some time during the existence of the 18 agreement or conspiracy, at least one of the members of the 19 conspiracy performed an overt act in order to further the 20 objective of the agreement.

21 I'm going to explain these to you in more detail in a
22 moment.

23 Now, I've already told you, though, about three 24 elements of this crime of conspiracy -- the existence of an 25 agreement, membership in the agreement, and the mental states

1 of the people involved in the conspiracy -- when I instructed
2 you on the elements of the conspiracy that was in Count 1,
3 that was the conspiracy to commit health care fraud and wire
4 fraud. Those same instructions on those topics are applicable
5 to the first three elements of Count 5.

6 Now, with regard to the fourth element of the Count 5
7 conspiracy, that is about the commission of overt acts, the 8 United States has to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that 9 during the existence of the conspiracy, at least one member of 10 the conspiracy performed at least one of the overt acts
11 described in the superseding indictment for the purpose of 12 furthering or helping to achieve the object injunctive of the 13 conspiracy.

14 The superseding indictment alleges certain overt acts
15 pertaining to Count 5.

16 The Government does not have to prove that all of these 17 acts were committed or that any of these acts were themselves
18 illegal. Also, the United States does not have to prove the 19 defendant personally committed himself any of the overt acts.

20 The United States has to prove beyond a reasonable 21 doubt that at least one member of the conspiracy committed at 22 least one of the overt acts alleged in the indictment and 23 committed it during the time the conspiracy existed for the 24 purpose of furthering or helping to achieve the objective of 25 the conspiracy, and you have to unanimously agree on the overt

1 act that was committed.

2 As I have already instructed you, to find the defendant
3 guilty of conspiracy to commit an offense against the 4 United States, the first element of the offense requires you
5 to find that two or more people agreed to commit an offense
6 against the United States. And with respect to the Count 5
7 conspiracy that the United States alleges, the allegation is 8 the defendant committed an offense against the United States
9 by violating the Anti-Kickback Statute.

10 That's the object of the Count 5 conspiracy so I'm 11 going to tell you a little bit about the elements of that 12 Anti-Kickback Statute offense.

13 Now, as I said, one of the objects of this -- the 14 object of the Count 5 conspiracy is a violation of the 15 Anti-Kickback Statute by soliciting or receiving kickbacks in 16 connection with the federal health care program payments.
17 That underlying crime of soliciting or receiving kickbacks in 18 connection with federal health care program payments has the 19 following five elements:

20 First, that the defendant solicited or received a
21 kickback or a bribe.

22 Second, that the remuneration was solicited or received
23 for the purpose of inducing the purchase of an item or 24 service.

25 Third, that the item was one for which payment was or

1 might be made, in whole or in part, under a federal health
2 care program.

3 Fourth, that the defendant acted knowingly and
4 willfully -- you've heard those terms -- when soliciting or 5 receiving the remuneration.

6 And fifth, that the remuneration was provided to a
7 decision-maker who could influence healthcare decisions on
8 behalf of patients.

9 Remuneration may be solicited or received directly or 10 indirectly, overtly or covertly, in the open or secretly.

11 Remuneration may be cash or in kind remuneration.

12 The other object of the conspiracy to commit an offense
13 against the United States is a violation of the Anti-Kickback
14 Statute by paying kickbacks in connection with federal health
15 care program payments. The crime of paying kickbacks in 16 connection with federal health care program payments has the 17 following four elements:

18 First, the defendant paid or offered to pay to a 19 decision-maker who made medical decisions on behalf of 20 payments any remuneration, including any kickback, bribe, or 21 rebate.

22 Second, that the remuneration was paid or offered to a
23 decision-maker for the purpose of inducing the furnishing or 24 arranging for the furnishing of any item or service.

25 Third, that the item or service was one for which

1 payment was or might be made, in whole or in part, under a
2 federal health care program.

3 And, fourth, that the defendant acted knowingly and 4 willfully when paying or offering to pay the remuneration.

5 Now, that's Count 5. That's the conspiracy.

6 Now I want to talk about Counts 6 through 8. Those 7 charge the defendant with committing violations of the 8 Anti-Kickback Statute itself.

9 The crime of soliciting or receiving kickbacks in 10 connection with federal health care program payments is the 11 following five elements.

12 First, the defendant solicited or received a kickback
13 or bribe.

14 Second, that the remuneration was solicited or received
15 for the purpose of inducing the purchase of an item or 16 service.

17 Third, the item was one for which payment was or might 18 be made, in whole or in part, under a federal health care
19 program.

20 Fourth, that the defendant acted knowingly and 21 willfully when soliciting or receiving the remuneration; and

22 Fifth, that the remuneration was provided to a
23 decision-maker who could influence healthcare decisions on
24 behalf of patients.

25 As before, remuneration can be solicited or received,

1 directly or indirectly, overtly or covertly, and remuneration
2 can be in cash or in kind.

3 I'm gonna walk through the various elements of what we 4 have just talked about.

5 The first element is the United States has to prove 6 beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant knowingly and 7 willfully paid or received remuneration.

8 I already told you about the definitions of knowingly 9 and willfully when I instructed you before on mental states at 10 the top and those same definitions are applicable here.

11 Remuneration means something of value in whatever form.
12 Remuneration can be paid in cash or kind such as through 13 giving property. Remuneration includes the payment of a 14 kickback or bribe.

15 Remuneration can be offered, paid, solicited, or 16 received overtly and openly or covertly and secretly.

17 Remuneration may be offered to pay directly to the recipient
18 or offered to be paid indirectly through another.

19 Now, in Count 5 through 8 I used that term "to induce."
20 I want to tell you what that means. You'll see it when you
21 look back at the page.

22 To induce as that term is used in the instructions for 23 Counts 5, 6, 7, and 8, that means to attempt to gain influence
24 over the reason or judgment of a person improperly or 25 corruptly.

1 The United States must prove beyond a reasonable doubt
2 that a remuneration, a kickback, or bribe, as that term is 3 defined in these instructions, was paid improperly or 4 corruptly or explicitly as a quid pro quo in return for a
5 decision by a decision-maker.

6 In order to sustain its burden of proof for the crime
7 charged in Counts 5, 6, 7, and 8 of the indictment, the 8 United States must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the 9 primary or material purpose of the remuneration, kickback, or 10 bribe, was the improper or corrupt inducement, not that this 11 was for some incidental or minor purpose.

12 It is not unlawful to hope or expect or believe that 13 purchases would result from the payment of remuneration to a 14 customer that was designed for other purposes. The 15 expectation of profit or creation of a favorable business
16 relationship does not violate the statute charged in the 17 indictment.

18 We're on to the third element of the Anti-Kickback
19 Statute. That's that the items or services for which 20 remuneration was paid or received were paid for, in whole or 21 in part, by a federal health care program.

22 The term "federal health care program," that means any 23 plan or program that provides health benefits, whether 24 directly or indirectly, through insurance or otherwise, which 25 is funded directly, in whole or in part, by the United States

1 government.

2 A violation of the Anti-Kickback Statute does not
3 require proof that money or funds used to pay the kickback or 4 remuneration came from federal funds or that the United States
5 lost any money as a result of the alleged misconduct.

6 Similarly, it is not necessary to show the illegal payments
7 increased costs to the Government.

8 Okay. Now, under the Medicare statute in effect at the 9 time of the alleged events, an item was required to be 10 medically necessary to be reimbursable by Medicare. Medicare
11 regulations did not define the term "medical necessity."

12 During the trial, you'll recall there was some 13 testimony about Medicare's audit rules, civil penalties, and 14 other guidelines. A violation of those rules, civil 15 penalties, and other guidelines, is not in and of itself a 16 crime and it does not necessarily mean that a crime has been 17 committed.

18 A defendant cannot be convicted of a crime -- cannot be 19 convicted of a crime merely for breaching these types of audit
20 rules, civil penalties, or other guidelines.

21 In deciding whether the United States has met its 22 burden of proof regarding the elements of the charged crimes,
23 you have to decide if the United States has proved that the 24 defendant had certain states of mind at the time of the 25 charged crimes.

1 We have been talking about that throughout, things like
2 knowingly and willfully.

3 Often, the state of mind with which a person acts at a
4 given time simply can't be proved directly because you can't 5 read another person's mind and tell what that person is 6 thinking.

7 But the defendant's respective states of mind can be 8 proved indirectly from the surrounding circumstances. Thus,
9 to determine a state of mind such as what he intended or knew
10 at a particular moment, you can consider evidence about what 11 he said or did or failed to do, how the defendant acted and 12 all the other facts and circumstances shown by the evidence
13 that may prove what was in his mind at the time.

14 It is entirely up to you to decide what that evidence 15 presented during this trial proves, or fails to prove, about 16 his state of mind.

17 You can also consider the natural and probable results
18 or consequences of any acts that the defendant normally did
19 and whether it's reasonable to conclude that the defendant
20 intended those results or consequences. You can find, but 21 you're not required to find, that the defendant knew and 22 intended the natural and probable consequences or results of 23 acts he knowingly did.

24 This means that if you find an ordinary person in the 25 defendant's situation would have naturally realized that

1 certain consequences would result from his actions, then you
2 may find, but, again, you're not required to find, that the 3 defendant did know and did intend that those consequences
4 would result from his actions.

5 That is entirely up to you to decide as the finders of 6 facts. You are the jurors in the case and you are the finders
7 of facts.

8 Now, not the conspiracy counts but the non-conspiracy
9 counts which lawyers call substantive counts, those are 10 Counts 2, 3, and 4, and Counts 6, 7, and 8. Those also charge
11 aiding and abetting in addition to the substantive charges of 12 health care fraud and violation -- I'm sorry -- charge aiding
13 and abetting in addition to the substantive charges of health
14 care fraud and violations of the Anti-Kickback Statute.

15 A person can be guilty of an offense because he 16 personally committed the offenses himself or because he aided 17 and abetted another person in committing the offense.

18 A person who has aided and abetted another person in 19 committing an offense is often called an accomplice. The 20 person whom the accomplice aids and abets, that person is 21 called the principal.

22 In order to find a defendant guilty of health care
23 fraud or a violation of the Anti-Kickback Statute because he 24 aided and abetted another in committing those offenses, you
25 have to find that the United States proved beyond a reasonable

1 doubt each of four requirements:

2 First, that another person committed the offense
3 charged by committing each of the elements of that offense, as 4 I have explained those elements to you in these instructions.
5 That person need not have been charged with or found guilty of 6 the offense, however, as long as you find the United States
7 proved beyond a reasonable doubt that he committed the 8 offense.

9 Second, that the defendant knew that the offense
10 charged was going to be committed or was being committed by 11 the other person;

12 Third, that the defendant knowingly did some act for 13 the purpose of aiding, assisting, soliciting, facilitating, or 14 encouraging that person in committing the specific offense
15 charged and with the intent that the other person commit that 16 specific offense; and

17 Fourth, that the defendant performed at least one act
18 in furtherance of the offense charged.

19 In deciding whether the defendant had the required
20 knowledge and intent to satisfy the requirements of aiding and 21 abetting, you have to consider both -- you may consider --
22 excuse me -- both direct and circumstantial evidence,
23 including the defendant's words and actions and other facts
24 and circumstances.

25 However, evidence that the defendant merely associated

1 with other persons involved in a criminal venture or was 2 merely present or was merely a knowing spectator during the 3 commission of an offense is not enough to find the defendant
4 guilty as an aider and abettor.

5 If the evidence shows that the defendant knew the 6 offense was being committed or was about to be committed but 7 does not also show beyond a reasonable doubt that it was the 8 defendant's intent and purpose to aid, assist, encourage,
9 facilitate, or otherwise associate himself with the offense,
10 you must not find the defendant guilty of that offense as an 11 aider and abettor.

12 The United States must prove beyond a reasonable doubt
13 that the defendant in some way participated in the offense
14 committed by the other person as something the defendant
15 wished to bring about and to make succeed.

16 To show that the defendant performed an act in 17 furtherance of the offense charged, to satisfy the fourth
18 requirement of aiding and abetting, the United States needs to 19 show some affirmative participation by the defendant which at 20 least encouraged another person to commit the offense. That 21 is, you have to find that the defendant's act or acts did in 22 some way aid, assist, facilitate, encourage that other person
23 to commit the offense.

24 The defendant's act or acts need not further aid,
25 facilitate every part or phase or element of the offense

1 charged. It is enough if the defendant's act or acts further
2 aid, assist, facilitate, or encourage only one or some part or 3 parts or phases or elements of the offense. Also, the 4 defendant's acts need not themselves be against the law.

5 Now, sticking with Count 2, 3, and 4, not the 6 conspiracy counts, and also Counts 6, 7, and 8, again not the 7 conspiracy counts, those are the ones that are the substantive
8 allegations.

9 As to these, the United States may prove a defendant
10 guilty of these offenses by proving that he personally
11 committed them. The United States may also prove the 12 defendant guilty of these offenses based on the legal rule 13 that each member of a conspiracy is responsible for crimes and 14 other acts committed by the other members, as long as those 15 crimes and acts were committed to help further or to help
16 achieve the objective of the conspiracy and were reasonably
17 foreseeable to the defendant as a necessary or natural 18 consequence of the agreement.

19 In other words, under certain circumstances, the act of 20 one conspirator may be treated as the act of all. This means
21 that all the conspirators may be convicted of a crime
22 committed by any one or more of them, even though they did not 23 all personally participate in that crime themselves.

24 In order for you to find the defendant guilty of health
25 care fraud or violating the Anti-Kickback Statute based on

1 this legal rule, you must find that the United States proved
2 beyond a reasonable doubt each of the following four
3 requirements:

4 First, the defendant was a member of one or both of the 5 conspiracies charged in the superseding indictment.

6 Second, while the defendant was still a member of the 7 conspiracy or conspiracies, one or more of the other members
8 of the conspiracy or conspiracies committed the offenses
9 charged in Counts 2 through 4 or Counts 6 through 8 by 10 committing each of the elements of the offenses, as I've 11 explained them to you here. However, the other member of the 12 conspiracy or conspiracies need not have been found guilty of 13 or even charged with the offenses, as long as you find that 14 the United States proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the 15 other member committed the offenses.

16 Third, the other member of the conspiracy or 17 conspiracies committed these offenses within the scope of the 18 unlawful agreement and to help further or achieve the 19 objectives of the conspiracy or conspiracies; and

20 Fourth, these offenses were reasonably foreseeable to 21 or reasonably anticipated by the defendant as a necessary or 22 natural consequence of the unlawful agreement.

23 The United States does not have to prove that the 24 defendant specifically agreed or knew that these offenses
25 would be committed. However, the United States must prove

1 that the offenses were reasonably foreseeable to the 2 defendant, as a member of the conspiracy or conspiracies, and
3 within the scope of the agreement as he understood it.

4 You can't draw any inference -- favorable, unfavorable,
5 no inference -- toward the United States or the defendant on 6 trial from the fact that certain persons are not named as 7 defendants in the indictment or are not here. The fact that 8 these persons are not on trial has to play no part in your 9 deliberations.

10 It should be of no concern to you, and you shouldn't
11 speculate as to the reason why somebody may or may not be here
12 on trial. That person's absence shouldn't influence your 13 verdict with respect to the defendant on trial here. You have 14 to base your verdict as to the defendant solely on the 15 evidence against him.

16 During trial, there was testimony that lawyers,
17 sometimes with assistance from others, have interviewed some 18 witnesses who testified in order to prepare them for trial.
19 No adverse inference should be drawn from that. Indeed, both 20 parties -- both parties -- had a right, a duty, and obligation
21 to conduct those interviews and prepare this case fully as 22 thoroughly as they could. They might have been derelict in 23 the performance of their duties if they did not question the 24 witnesses as the investigation progressed and during their 25 preparation for this trial.

1 A couple times the United States and the defendant have
2 agreed that the facts set forth in a stipulation are true.
3 You should, therefore, treat these facts as having been 4 proved. You are not required to do so since you are the sole
5 judge of the facts.

6 You will note that the superseding indictment charges
7 that the offenses were committed on or about a certain date.
8 The United States does not have to prove with certainty the 9 exact date of the alleged offenses. It is sufficient if the 10 United States proves beyond a reasonable doubt that the 11 offenses charged were committed on a date reasonably near 12 those dates alleged.

13 Now, you're gonna see that the word "and" is used
14 between certain charging words in the indictment. For 15 example, Count 1 of the indictment says that the object of the 16 conspiracy was for the defendant to commit health care fraud
17 and to commit wire fraud. Count 5, similarly, it says the 18 object of the conspiracy was for the defendant to knowingly 19 and willfully solicit and receive remuneration and to 20 knowingly and willfully offer and pay remuneration.

21 But even though the word "and" appears in the 22 superseding indictment in this way, the United States does not
23 have to prove that the defendant did both things. It's enough
24 for the United States to prove that the defendant did one of 25 the things charged in a particular count.

1 In other words, you should treat the word "and" as it
2 appears in the indictment as if it is the word "or." Treat
3 "and" as if it is "or."

4 For example, in Count 1, it is enough for the 5 United States to prove either that the defendant did conspire
6 to commit health care fraud or that he committed wire fraud.
7 Similarly, it is enough for the United States to prove either
8 that the defendant conspired to knowingly, willfully solicit
9 and receive remuneration, or that he knowingly and willfully
10 offered and paid remuneration.

11 An important exception to this rule is the portion of 12 counts that charge that the defendant acted with certain 13 mental states like knowingly and intentionally. In those 14 instances, knowingly and intentionally, you have to find that 15 each of the required elements exist in order to find the 16 defendant guilty on that particular count.

17 So when it comes to mental states "and" means "and"; it
18 doesn't mean "or."

19 Now, the United States presented certain charts and 20 summaries in order to help explain information that was 21 admitted as evidence in this case. The charts and summaries
22 are not themselves evidence or proof of any facts. It's the 23 underlying evidence that you have to consider. If the charts
24 and summaries do not correctly reflect the evidence in the 25 case, you should disregard them and determine the facts from

1 the underlying evidence.

2 In deciding what the facts are, you have to decide what
3 testimony you believe and what testimony you do not believe.

4 You are the sole judges of the credibility of the witnesses.

5 Credibility refers to whether a witness is worthy of 6 belief. Was the witness truthful? Was the witness's
7 testimony accurate? You may believe everything a witness says
8 or only a part of it or none of it.

9 You can decide whether to believe a witness based on 10 his or her behavior and manner of testifying, the explanations
11 and information the witness gave, and all the other evidence
12 in the case, just as you would in any important matter when 13 you're trying to decide if a person is truthful,
14 straightforward, and accurate in their recollection.

15 In deciding questions of credibility, you use your 16 common sense, your good judgment, your experience, and your 17 assessment of all the evidence in the case.

18 In deciding who to believe, what to believe, here are 19 some factors you might want to potentially consider:

20 The opportunity and ability the witness had to see or 21 hear and know the things about which they're testifying.

22 The quality of the witness's knowledge, understanding,
23 and memory.

24 The witness's behavior, appearance, manner while they 25 were testifying.

1 Whether the witness has an interest in the outcome of 2 the case or any motive or bias or prejudice.

3 Any relation the witness may have with a party in the 4 case and any effect the verdict or proceedings may have on the 5 witness.

6 Whether the witness said or wrote anything before trial
7 that was different than the witness's testimony in court.

8 Whether the witness's testimony was consistent or 9 inconsistent with other evidence that you believe.

10 And any other factors that bear on whether the witness
11 should be believed in your judgment.

12 Inconsistencies or discrepancies in a witness's
13 testimony or between the testimony of different witnesses may 14 or may not cause you to disbelieve a witness's testimony. Two 15 or more people witnessing an event can simply see it or hear
16 it a bit differently.

17 Mistaken recollection, like failure to recall, that's a 18 common human experience. In weighing the effect of an 19 inconsistency, you should also consider whether it was about a
20 matter of real importance or an insignificant detail.

21 You should also consider whether the inconsistency was 22 innocent or intentional. You are not required to accept 23 testimony even if the testimony was not contradicted and the 24 witness was not impeached.

25 You may decide that the witness is not worthy of belief

1 because of the witness's bearing and demeanor, or because the 2 inherent improbability of the testimony, or for any other
3 reason that is sufficient in your judgment.

4 After making your own judgment about the believability
5 of the witness, you can then attach to that witness's
6 testimony the importance or the weight that you think it
7 deserves.

8 The weight of the evidence to prove a fact does not 9 necessarily depend on the number of witnesses who testified or 10 the quality [sic] of evidence that was presented. What is 11 more important than numbers or quantity is how believable the 12 witnesses were and how much you think their testimony
13 deserves.

14 Now, you've heard here the testimony of a law
15 enforcement officer, at least one. The fact that a witness is 16 employed as a law enforcement officer does not mean that his 17 or her testimony -- and you have heard more than one -- does
18 not mean that his or her testimony necessarily deserves more 19 or less consideration or greater or lesser weight than that of 20 any other witness.

21 You have to decide, after reviewing all the evidence,
22 whether you believe the particular testimony of a law
23 enforcement witness and how much weight, if any, you think it
24 deserves.

25 You've heard evidence that certain individuals are

1 alleged co-conspirators and have entered into a plea
2 agreement. In the case of Armani Adams and Shannon Haas and 3 David Laughlin and Nadia Levit and Kareem Memon and Kenneth
4 Pitter all are -- have a cooperating non-prosecution agreement
5 with the Government.

6 Their testimony was received in evidence and it can be
7 considered by you. The United States is permitted to present
8 the testimony of someone who has reached a plea bargain or is 9 entering into a cooperating non-prosecution agreement with the 10 United States in exchange for his or her testimony. You
11 should consider the testimony of such a witness with great 12 care and caution.

13 In evaluating the witness's testimony, you should 14 consider this factor along with the factors that I have 15 brought up just a moment ago. Whether or not the witness's 16 testimony may have been influenced by the agreements he or she 17 entered into with the United States is for you to determine.
18 You may give the witness's testimony such weight as you think
19 it deserves.

20 You must not consider a witness's guilty plea or 21 cooperating non-prosecution agreement as evidence of the 22 defendant's guilt. An individual's decision to plead guilty
23 or enter into a non-prosecution agreement is a personal
24 decision about his or her own guilt.

25 Such evidence is offered only for one or more of the

1 following circumstances:

2 To allow you to assess the credibility of the witness;

3 to eliminate any concern that the defendant has been

4 singled out for prosecution; and

5 to explain how the witness came to possess detailed

6 firsthand knowledge of the events about which they testified.

7 You may consider the witness's guilty plea and

8 non-prosecution agreement only for those purposes.

9 There was some testimony I want to mention to you. The 10 testimony of someone who abuses narcotics must be examined and 11 weighed by the jury with greater care than the testimony of 12 the witness who does not. The jury must determine whether the 13 testimony of someone who abuses narcotics has been affected by 14 the drug use or the need for drugs.

15 You have heard the testimony of certain witnesses. You
16 have also heard that before this trial some of them made
17 statements that may be different from their testimony made
18 here.

19 It's up to you to determine whether those statements
20 were made and whether they were different from the witness's
21 testimony here.

22 These are statements that were brought to your 23 attention to help you decide whether to believe the witness's
24 testimony here at trial. You can't use that as proof of the 25 truth of what the witness may have said in earlier statements.

1 You can only use it as one way of evaluating the witness's
2 testimony here from the witness box.

3 You heard evidence that certain witnesses previously
4 were convicted of crimes punishable by more than one year in 5 jail. You can consider this evidence, along with other
6 pertinent evidence in deciding whether or not to believe these 7 witnesses and how much weight to give their testimony.

8 If you believe that a witness knowingly testified
9 falsely concerning any important matter, you may distrust the 10 witness's testimony concerning other matters. You can reject
11 all of the testimony or you can accept such parts of the 12 testimony that you believe are true and give it as much weight
13 as you think it deserves.

14 As to the defendant's testimony, you should examine and 15 evaluate it just as you would the testimony of any witness.

16 Finally, the superseding indictment alleges that some 17 act in furtherance of each of the offenses occurred here in 18 the District of New Jersey, which means the State of 19 New Jersey. There's no requirement that all aspects of each 20 of the offenses charged or that the entire conspiracy took 21 place here in the District of New Jersey. But for you to 22 return a guilty verdict, the Government must convince you that 23 for each count, some meaningful act in furtherance of the 24 crimes charged took place here in the District of New Jersey;
25 that is, as to the conspiracies in Counts 1 and 5.

1 In addition to that, as to Counts 2, 3, and 4, the 2 meaningful act in furtherance of those counts must have been 3 causing the delivery of DME into New Jersey. Durable medical 4 equipment.

5 As to Counts 6, 7, and 8, the meaningful act in 6 furtherance of those counts must have been either causing the 7 delivery of DME into New Jersey or receiving a payment into 8 New Jersey or the signing of a doctor's order in New Jersey.

9 Unlike the elements of the charged offenses that I have 10 described so far, this set of facts as to the connection to 11 New Jersey, as I have just described to you, only has to be 12 proved by a preponderance of the evidence. This means the 13 United States only has to convince you that it's more likely 14 than not that these acts took place here.

15 Remember that the United States must prove all of the 16 elements of the crimes charged beyond a reasonable doubt.

17 Here is where I'm planning to stop. The time is 3:17.
18 We can either get started with the first summation. We'll 19 have to stop at some point and pick it up back on Thursday
20 morning, or you could take a bathroom break and we can come
21 back in, or we can call it a day.

22 I want to ask the jury how they want to proceed.

23 Do you want to get started with the summation now, do
24 you want to take a break, or do you want to end the day and 25 pick it up on Thursday morning? I'm going to ask you for a

1 show of hands.

2 Who wants to just get started right now?

3 We have a bunch of people who want to do that.

4 Anybody want to just call it right now? I have a
5 couple people who want to call it. I think there's a
6 little bit of out-voting.

7 Of the people who want to call it, do you need a
8 bathroom break now? Does anyone else in the courtroom need a
9 bathroom break?

10 Okay. We're gonna take a bathroom break and we will 11 come back. It's now 3:18. We will come back and be ready to 12 start at 3:30. We will begin the summation, and then we'll 13 call it at exactly four o'clock.

14 Let's all rise and we'll get back on at 3:30.

15 (The jury exits the courtroom at 3:18 p.m.)

16 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held
17 outside the presence of the jury:)

18 THE COURT: The door is shut. The jury has left.

19 Let's all please be seated briefly.

20 Any issues with respect to the jury instructions as 21 delivered that's been brought to my attention from the 22 United States?

23 MR. WEBMAN: No, Your Honor.

24 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor. I note that what you
25 noted, the sentence about implicit process, so the Government

1 and I both read -- it comes from the Jones case, and I re-read
2 the Jones case and we have no objection to it not being read.

3 THE COURT: That's what I figured. I felt that as 4 it was happening and decided not to. Nothing else?

5 MS. SOLANO: No, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: So we will come back and be ready to start
7 at 3:30. Thank you all.

8 (Recess taken.)

9 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: All rise.

10 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held
11 outside the presence of the jury:)

12 MR. WEBMAN: As Your Honor was reading, I think in 13 addition to the one point that we talked about before, there
14 were one or two other places where Your Honor made changes on 15 the fly.

16 There was the one stray reference to controlled
17 substances obviously, and then there were a few other things
18 like referring to the defendant as "the defendant" rather than 19 Mr. Naviwala which was in there, and referring to the 20 Government as "The United States." I think in many places you
21 referred to the superseding indictment as just the indictment.

22 Would you like me to re-file with those things fixed or 23 just send them back to the jury as is?

24 THE COURT: You should send it back to the jury with 25 the removal of the things we talked about, which is to say the

1 legal citations both below the footnotes and the heading in 2 one particular place.

3 You should change the headings that say request no. 1, 4 2, 3, to instruction 1, 2, 3, and otherwise those are the 5 things we discussed. Nothing else should be changed from what 6 the parties agreed to.

7 There is one exception. The one exception is the 8 controlled substance thing has to come out. Everyone knows
9 that's a mistake and that is obviously just a potentially odd
10 wildcard. I assume the defendant sees everything exactly as I
11 just said it.

12 MS. SOLANO: Of course, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Let's get the jury out. I think they're 14 ready.

15 THE DEPUTY CLERK: All rise.

16 (Jury enters the courtroom at 3:34 p.m.)

17 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held in 18 the presence of the jury:)

19 THE COURT: Members of the jury, we're back. Please
20 have a seat.

21 We're on to the next stage of the trial which is 22 the summations from the lawyers, and it's over to the 23 United States for the beginning of its summation.

24 I'm gonna cut Mr. Specht -- I'm going to cut him off 25 unceremoniously at 3:59 so we can get everyone home at

1 four o'clock.

2 Just a reminder, no court tomorrow, no court Wednesday.

3 We'll be back here with Mr. Specht resuming on Thursday

4 morning at 9:00.

5 CLOSING ARGUMENT

6 MR. SPECHT: Thank you, Your Honor.

7 If I could request that the screen also be made visible
8 to the jury.

9 This case is about greed and deception. The defendant
10 used multiple companies, The Prudent Group, Elite Healthcare
11 Solutions, and Parra Health, to commit crimes.

12 The defendant and his co-conspirators treated signing
13 prescriptions like commodities to be sold at volume; signed
14 prescriptions for braces people didn't need, people didn't 15 want.

16 The defendant has admitted to committing crimes. FBI
17 Special Agent Katie Latrenta explained that the defendant was 18 charged with a crime, got a lawyer, voluntarily met with the 19 FBI, admitted to violating the law.

20 And here in this courtroom the defendant took the 21 stand, and when he was confronted with documentary evidence,
22 he had no choice but to admit committing crimes, no choice but 23 to admit treating the prescriptions like commodities to get 24 him kickbacks.

25 Medicare and other health insurance is a trust-based

1 system. It has to be. There are so many transactions
2 processed every day. The defendant abused that trust to make 3 more than $10 million.

4 The goal was clear: to fraudulently get money from 5 health insurance by health care fraud, hide the fraud so it
6 could continue.

7 Why hide their conduct? The defendant and his 8 co-conspirators knew it was illegal. The defendant and his 9 co-conspirators hid their conduct when they signed sham
10 contracts, created sham invoices, used and paid telemedicine
11 doctors to sign prescriptions, even when the doctor didn't 12 know the patient; hadn't spoken to the patient, couldn't 13 determine if the patient needed a brace; when they edited
14 recordings of phone calls sent to telemedicine doctors.

15 And when the scheme started to unravel, the defendant
16 spoke to John Fusco, one of his owners on paper. What did the 17 defendant say? "Don't rat me out."

18 You sat in this courtroom for several weeks. You have 19 seen e-mails, text messages, contracts, invoices. You have 20 listened to audio recordings of patients and telemarketers, 21 and you've heard testimony from people who participated in the 22 fraud, and you've seen the beneficiaries.

23 You saw Diane DiPalma and the braces that she received 24 at her house in New Jersey. She talked about them here in 25 this courtroom.

1 Today, and on Thursday, we'll talk about how all of the 2 evidence fits together; how it shows beyond a reasonable doubt
3 the defendant is guilty of each and every crime that he is 4 charged with.

5 Before we get into the details, let's talk for a moment
6 about the big picture. The evidence that you have seen, the 7 evidence that you have heard, it shows that health insurance
8 pays a lot of money. That includes paying a lot of money for 9 things like orthotic braces, back braces, knee braces.

10 The defendant and his partners understood that health
11 insurance only paid for braces in certain circumstances where 12 it was appropriate, and the defendant and his partners got 13 lists of patient information and had telemarketers convince 14 the patients they wanted a brace. Again, you heard multiple 15 of those phone calls during this trial.

16 And then the defendant and his partners at The Prudent
17 Group or at Elite Healthcare Solutions edited some of the 18 recordings of the telemarketer calls, sent those edited phone
19 calls to telemedicine doctors who were paid to write a
20 prescription for one or three or five or nine braces for a
21 patient.

22 The defendant didn't go into a patient's real doctor.
23 The defendant went to doctors associated with telemedicine
24 companies like Ken Pitter's Telemedex, David Laughlin's
25 RediDoc, where the doctors could be fooled by the phone calls

1 that were edited, where the doctors were just expected to sign
2 a prescription, where the doctors didn't have to even speak to
3 a patient, didn't even have to listen to that recorded phone 4 call.

5 Shannon Haas herself, who was one of those doctors,
6 explained how she just clicked through the patient file to 7 sign a prescription for a patient. And then the defendant
8 arranged for those prescriptions to get billed to health
9 insurance through DME companies.

10 He controlled at least one DME company. You have heard
11 about Parra Health. And the defendant kept some of the very 12 best prescriptions for his company Parra Health to bill.

13 The best prescriptions being ones for the most 14 expensive braces, like back braces, or ones that avoided
15 strict, private insurance companies.

16 And other prescriptions, the ones that didn't get 17 billed to Parra Health, the defendant sold them. Sold them to 18 Armani Adams, sold them to Ken Pitter, sold them to 19 Nadia Levit; and then Adams, Pitter, or Levit, could use their 20 DME companies to bill health insurance.

21 You've seen the e-mails where the defendant sells
22 prescriptions. You've seen the wires where he gets paid. The 23 defendant knew those DME companies would bill Medicare and 24 other health insurance for braces based on those prescriptions
25 that he sold. That was the whole plan. That was how he made

1 money.

2 For his role in the scheme, the defendant was charged
3 in an eight-count indictment. The eight counts fall into 4 basically four categories.

5 First category: Conspiracy to commit health care fraud
6 and wire fraud. The defendant agreed with other people to lie
7 to get money from health insurance, including Medicare.

8 Second category: health care fraud related to three 9 specific patients: Diane DiPalma, Joanne Frantantoni, and 10 Frank Pringle. The defendant called health insurance to pay
11 for braces for these three patients, all of who lived in 12 New Jersey, even though these braces weren't necessary.

13 Third category: Conspiracy to violate the 14 Anti-Kickback Statute. The defendant agreed to sell
15 prescriptions to Ken Pitter or Armani Adams or Nadia Levit in 16 exchange for money.

17 And the fourth category: Illegal kickbacks related to 18 three specific payments. The defendant caused Armani Adams to 19 pay him three separate payments of $200,000 each in exchange
20 for selling patient information.

21 Let's talk for a moment about the defendant's
22 testimony. As the Judge explained, the defendant has no
23 burden in this case, has the right not to testify; but here in 24 this case, the defendant chose to testify and his testimony,
25 his credibility are to be weighed like you weigh the testimony

1 and credibility of other witnesses.

2 Your job is to assess how his credibility stacks up by 3 studying his demeanor, evaluating how his testimony fits in 4 with the testimony of other witnesses and with the documents.

5 Here, the defendant took the stand, admitted to his 6 role in an illegal kickback scheme, which relates to the 7 counts charged in Counts 5, 6, 7, and 8.

8 The defendant sold prescriptions like they were 9 commodities. But the defendant has also tried to erase 10 himself from the narrative as to the fraud scheme charged in 11 Counts 1, 2, 3, and 4.

12 He testified that there were other people running the 13 show; that he thought the telemedicine doctors were doing
14 legitimate doctor-patient consultations.

15 Consider the defendant's testimony against that of his 16 criminal partners -- Ken Pitter, Armani Adams, David Laughlin,
17 Kareem Memon, Nadia Levit -- witnesses who testified about 18 their role in the conspiracy, about knowing they were 19 violating the law, persisting because they made a lot of 20 money.

21 These people came to court and they testified to 22 committing crimes with the defendant, and they explained that 23 they got a cooperation agreement with the Government that 24 requires them to testify honestly. They told you if they 25 aren't honest, they could lose their cooperation agreement,

1 could get in trouble.

2 These witnesses all agreed on one thing: the defendant
3 committed crimes with each of them. But the defendant would 4 have you believe that these men and women are lying, each of 5 them. That he is the one telling the truth.

6 The defendant, the person who is on trial here who has 7 by far the most to lose, use your common sense. That just 8 doesn't add up, doesn't make sense. It is the defendant, and 9 not all those other people, who took the stand and lied.

10 The testimony of all those other witnesses is 11 corroborated by e-mails and by text messages, including those 12 from the defendant himself, showing that he's managing people
13 in this scheme; he is making demands of telemedicine
14 companies; he's setting up fake owners; he's earning millions
15 of dollars.

16 Ask yourself: Why go through such efforts to use fake
17 owners, to use fake invoices? It's because the defendant knew 18 he was committing crimes because he is guilty of those crimes.

19 It is the United States' burden to prove each and every 20 element of the charges presented to you beyond a reasonable 21 doubt, and we welcome that burden, which is the same standard
22 applied in every criminal case across the country.

23 You have heard evidence in this case, and we won't be 24 able to review it all. Over the next few minutes, and again
25 on Thursday, I am going to walk through the evidence as to

1 each and every count to demonstrate there is only one verdict
2 consistent with the evidence in this case, consistent with 3 your common sense, consistent with the defendant's own
4 statements, and that is a verdict of guilty on all counts.

5 Of course, the only person who can tell you what the 6 law is is the Judge. If anything I say deviates from anything
7 that the Judge has said, of course it's what the Judge says
8 that matters.

9 Let's talk about Count 1. Count 1 charges the 10 defendant with conspiracy, so does Count 5, and we'll talk
11 about that a little bit more later. A conspiracy is just two 12 or more people who agree to do something unlawful.

13 As the Judge has instructed, the United States doesn't 14 have to prove a written or a formal agreement. You can find a 15 conspiracy existed based even on circumstantial evidence that 16 there is a mutual understanding between two or more people.

17 The United States does not have to prove all members of 18 the conspiracy directly met or even knew each other. The 19 important thing is the common and the unlawful goal.

20 So, for example, you can conclude that the defendant
21 didn't meet Dr. Shannon Haas, the telemedicine doctor who 22 testified, but the defendant knew telemedicine doctors like 23 Dr. Haas existed and were part of the conspiracy. The 24 defendant and Dr. Haas and others shared the same goal:
25 getting money from insurance.

1 As to Count 1, the illegal conduct is health care fraud
2 and wire fraud, and the United States has to show that the 3 defendant entered into an agreement with one other person as 4 to healthcare fraud and wire fraud. But the evidence has 5 shown that the defendant entered into an agreement with 6 multiple people to commit health care fraud and to commit wire
7 fraud as part of their shared goal to get money.

8 There has been substantial evidence of a criminal 9 partnership and a relationship in this case between the 10 defendant and others to commit health care fraud and wire
11 fraud. The defendant sent patient information to David 12 Laughlin at RediDoc and Ken Pitter at Telemedex to get 13 prescriptions patients didn't need.

14 The defendant sold prescriptions to DME companies,
15 including Nadia Levit's DME companies here in New Jersey, all
16 while knowing what the DME companies promised not to bill
17 Medicare for prescriptions acquired through kickbacks.

18 The defendant worked with his business partner,
19 Kareem Memon, to get those leads, to get telemedicine doctors
20 to sign prescriptions, and to sell prescriptions. Testimony
21 tells that story. And the testimony is corroborated by 22 invoices, by contracts, by e-mails and text messages.

23 Health care fraud and wire fraud require that the 24 defendant participated in a scheme to defraud, that he 25 intended to defraud. A primary difference between the two

1 statutes is that, for health care fraud, the victim needs to
2 be a health insurer; and for wire fraud, the defendant needs
3 to send or cause someone to send an interstate communication
4 or a wire.

5 Those last two points aren't reasonably in dispute. As 6 to the health care fraud, the victim of the defendant's crime
7 was a health insurer. Actually, multiple health insurers.

8 You have seen the checks from Medicare. You have seen
9 checks from TRICARE. You have seen the list of patients that 10 specified their insurance carrier.

11 As to the wire fraud, you've seen wire reports showing
12 that Armani Adams and his company sent wire payments to the 13 defendant's companies. Robert Amenta, a witness from the 14 Federal Reserve Board, testified that each of those wires,
15 like every wire in the Federal Reserve Fedwire system, travels
16 in interstate commerce.

17 Those are elements that have been met.

18 We'll focus for now on the defendant's intent to 19 defraud. You have heard testimony from several witnesses that 20 they agreed with the defendant to commit fraud, meaning they 21 were all focused on the same goal of getting money by 22 submitting claims to insurance for orthopedic brace
23 prescriptions without regard to medical necessity.

24 First and foremost, the defendant signed Medicare
25 documents. His signature appeared on multiple Medicare forms

1 going back to 2017. He agreed to "not knowingly cause to be
2 presented a false or fraudulent claim for payment by 3 Medicare," and he acknowledged Medicare's payments were 4 conditioned on compliance with, among other things, the 5 federal Anti-Kickback Statute.

6 Despite these requirements, the defendant schemed to 7 defraud Medicare out of money, and that scheme can be seen in 8 false statements.

9 For example, here is a Parra Health organizational 10 chart submitted to Medicare that lists the defendant as an 11 office manager, but he's not an office manager. He is just 12 listed as an office manager to conceal his role from Medicare.

13 The defendant admitted that during his testimony:

14 (Reading:)

15 And it says that you're an office manager but 16 you said that you controlled the business and you
17 really -- you and Kareem were the ones that were 18 running things; right?

19 Yes.

20 But that's not reflected on this organization
21 chart; right?

22 That's correct.

23 The defendant's intent to defraud can also be seen by 24 his payments to the telemedicine doctors to rubber-stamp
25 fraudulent prescriptions without talking to patients.

1 How did the defendant use telemedicine doctors in the 2 fraud? Well, for one thing he sent the telemedicine doctors'
3 orders with the doctors' notes already filled out and the 4 specific braces pre-selected.

5 Here you see the defendant submitting patient
6 information about Sadie Wilson to RediDoc. RediDoc is the 7 telemedicine company David Laughlin testified about.

8 What does the defendant send to RediDoc? A prefilled
9 prescription for an ankle brace. The defendant is sending the 10 doctor the type of brace, specific product code, even the shoe
11 size.

12 Shouldn't it be the other way around, the doctor and 13 not a telemarketer selecting a patient's brace type?

14 The materials that are sent to RediDoc include
15 objective notes from a treating physician, a doctor's order
16 from a treating physician, but there is no treating physician.
17 There is no physician at all. This information is going to 18 the doctor.

19 You may also recall the audio file associated with this 20 patient.

21 (Audio played.)

22 MR. SPECHT: This telemarketer doesn't even get Sadie
23 Wilson on the phone. The telemarketer gets Sadie Wilson's 24 granddaughter. That's the audio file that the defendant sends 25 to RediDoc for a prescription with a pre-written doctor's

1 order from a treating physician that says that the benefit of
2 the brace has been explained to Sadie, a claim not supported
3 by the audio file.

4 David Laughlin, the COO of RediDoc testified about
5 these documents. (Reading:)

6 Was this text written by a doctor?

7 No.

8 Did a doctor send this to RediDoc?

9 No.

10 Who sent this to RediDoc?

11 A marketer.

12 And do you know who the marketer is for this 13 particular one?

14 Raheel.

15 Is this form based on a template?

16 Yes.

17 The defendant is sending pre-filled prescriptions to 18 RediDoc hoping that a doctor just rubber-stamps the 19 prescription. Of course, as you've seen, doctors do exactly
20 that.

21 Again from the testimony of David Laughlin. (Reading:)

22 What percentage of RediDoc consultations
23 resulted in a signed prescription from a doctor?

24 Over 99 percent.

25 What percentage of RediDoc consultations

1 resulted in a signed prescription without the
2 doctor speaking to the patient?

3 Equivalent. Over 99 percent.

4 Did the defendant ever complain when a doctor
5 didn't sign a prescription?

6 Yes.

7 This is why the defendant worked with RediDoc. RediDoc
8 doctors just signed prescriptions ASAP. How could they sign
9 so quickly? They didn't talk to the patient. And to be sure,
10 RediDoc had a system that prompted doctors to check boxes
11 saying that they did certain things, but the doctors didn't do
12 that.

13 Again, David Laughlin. (Reading:)

14 But did you understand whether they in fact did 15 the things that they checked the box for?

16 Did I, in fact, know that they did? I knew
17 that they didn't.

18 Based on the volume and the turnaround time of 19 prescriptions getting signed, could the doctors
20 have always taken all those steps?

21 It's mathematically impossible and everyone
22 knew that.

23 This testimony from David Laughlin, it's corroborated,
24 for example, by the testimony of Shannon Haas, a doctor who 25 worked for RediDoc, who signed thousands of prescriptions.

1 According to Dr. Shannon Haas. (Reading:)

2 When you signed the orders, did you speak to
3 the patients before you signed them? Again, I'm 4 just talking about RediDoc.

5 No, ma'am.

6 Did you have a doctor-patient relationship with 7 the RediDoc patients?

8 No, ma'am.

9 Why do you say that?

10 Because I didn't see them, evaluate them, speak
11 with them.

12 Can you please explain in a few sentences what 13 you did to violate the law.

14 In signing the orders, I made false statements.

15 How would you know which brace to prescribe?

16 They would be pre-populated.

17 RediDoc doctors just described the braces, people like
18 the defendant picked. That was their job. The defendant paid
19 for telemedicine, the defendant called the shots.

20 THE COURT: Mr. Specht, I'm going to stop you right
21 there. It's 3:59. We're gonna pick it up Thursday
22 morning at nine o'clock with Mr. Specht's continuation of his 23 address.

24 All rise for the jury.

25 (Jury leaves the courtroom at 4:00 p.m.).

1 (Whereupon, the following proceedings were held
2 outside the presence of the jury:)

3 THE COURT: The jury has departed, the door is closed.

4 Let's sit down, please, very quickly.

5 One other thing. Mr. Webman, while we were discussing
6 before Mr. Specht began, I think also the Jones line should be 7 removed because the parties have agreed that that shouldn't 8 have been in there.

9 Okay by the United States?

10 MR. WEBMAN: That's what we'll do, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Ms. Solano, for the defendant.

12 MS. SOLANO: Is that okay or do I have something -- an 13 application?

14 THE COURT: Is that okay?

15 MS. SOLANO: That's okay, yes.

16 THE COURT: It sounds like you have an application.

17 MS. SOLANO: Yes, Your Honor. I believe that the 18 Government made the mis -- made the representation this 19 morning that it would not use the term "treating physician."

20 I heard it at least three times, and in light of that,
21 we renew our application that a limiting instruction or a
22 curative instruction, rather, be provided specific to treating
23 physician.

24 That was the subject of Quindoza's testimony. I was 25 concerned about it. They opened on it and then Mr. Specht,

1 notwithstanding the representation, said it at least three
2 times already.

3 THE COURT: Mr. Specht.

4 MR. SPECHT: Your Honor, I think here the Government's
5 reading from an exhibit. We're not referencing a regulation
6 or a statute. To the extent we're referring to something
7 that's admitted into evidence, I don't believe that creates
8 the issue underlying the defense concern.

9 THE COURT: I'm not sure you were reading from the 10 exhibit.

11 MR. SPECHT: If I may, I think there's a slide where it
12 says doctor's order from a treating physician. There wasn't 13 someone in that capacity. If that was misleading, I apologize
14 for that. The goal here --

15 THE COURT: Can you pop back to the slide for a second?
16 Is that doable?

17 (Brief pause.)

18 THE COURT: This is the slide that's Government
19 Exhibit 2216d.

20 Is that what we're looking at? Is this the right one?

21 MR. SPECHT: Yes, Your Honor. I think there's the 22 two --

23 THE COURT: I saw that. I think there was an 24 additional reference.

25 MR. SPECHT: I think in talking about this I may have

1 said that there wasn't a treating physician, just to mirror
2 the language that's there that was sent to RediDoc.

3 THE COURT: I'm not sure why that implicates the 4 concern. Look, here is the problem -- Mr. Specht, I think the 5 difficulty is this: Whether it implicates the concern or not,
6 Ms. Solano is right that there was an unencumbered
7 representation made today about not using that phrase.

8 And so at least as a formal matter this steps on the 9 toe of that representation and puts everyone in a complicated
10 spot.

11 Aside from formalism, the difficulty, Ms. Solano, in 12 terms of any kind of application or a limiting instruction or 13 anything of the kind is that Mr. Specht has this right. This 14 is admitted into evidence. There's no suggestion here that 15 treating physician is key to some term in the Medicare rules
16 and regs or any kind of policy statement or anything of the 17 kind.

18 The purpose for which this is being put before the jury
19 is exactly what we spoke about earlier today, which is the 20 United States is not trying to strengthen or yeast up its case
21 by pointing to regs, even though it may have been able to make 22 its case stronger by doing that.

23 Instead, it's simply arguing from a lie, in it's 24 telling, and it's arguing from a lie by saying this says the 25 sky was blue and the sky is not blue. This says there was a

1 treating physician. There was no treating physician.

2 It's not relevant that the word "treating" was used.

3 It's simply to show that the negation is what the evidence in 4 the United States' telling shows.

5 So while I agree that as a formal matter the 6 United States did not hew to the representation it made this 7 morning, as a substantive matter, we're not even remotely in 8 the zone that relates to the various limiting instructions
9 that we discussed this morning and that were the subject of 10 the limiting instruction I gave.

11 Is there another reference, Ms. Solano, that you want
12 to bring to my attention?

13 MS. SOLANO: I'm trying to find it, but I'm having 14 technical difficulties. Can I have the evening to look at it
15 and then --

16 THE COURT: Of course --

17 MS. SOLANO: -- if there is something I think needs to 18 be addressed, I'll raise it first thing.

19 THE COURT: Of course.

20 Anything else?

21 MS. SOLANO: Not from the defense, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: From the United States?

23 MS. LOU: No, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: We will see each other ready to start
25 nine o'clock on Thursday morning. Thank you all.

2 above-entitled matter on said date.)
